In the event the responder was aware of an organizational conflict of interest prior to the award of the contract and did not disclose the conflict to MMD, the State may terminate the contract for default. Workplace Violence Policy

INTRODUCTION

In 1992, the Minnesota Legislature adopted the following act (Minn. Stat. 1.5):

Freedom from Violence

The State of Minnesota hereby adopts a policy of zero tolerance of violence. It is state policy that every person in the state has a right to live free from violence.

In furtherance of this policy, Minn. Stat. 15.86 mandates that each agency of state government adopt a goal of zero tolerance of violence in, and around, the workplace.

Each agency is also encouraged to develop a plan that describes how the agency will (1) seek to eliminate any potential for violence in and around the agency workplace; and (2) seek to eliminate any potential for violence by affecting the attitudes and behavior of the people that the agency serves or regulates.

AGENCY GOAL

It is the goal of the Minnesota Department of Revenue to achieve a work environment which is free from threats and acts of violence. The department will not tolerate workplace violence of any type, from any source. This includes threatening or violent actions by employees directed against other employees, by employees directed against department customers or other workplace visitors, and by department customers or visitors directed against department employees.

AGENCY POLICY

It is the policy of the Minnesota Department of Revenue and the responsibility of its managers, its supervisors and all of its employees to maintain a workplace free from threats and acts of violence. The department will work to provide a safe workplace for employees, and for visitors to the workplace. Each employee, and everyone with whom we come into contact in our work, deserves to be treated with courtesy and respect.

The department's policy on work-related violence includes:

The department will actively work to prevent and eliminate acts of work-related violence.

The department will respond promptly, positively, and aggressively to deal with threats or acts of violence. This response will include timely involvement of law enforcement agencies, when appropriate.

Incidents of work-related threats or acts of violence will be treated seriously by the department. Reports of such acts will be promptly investigated, and management will take action, as necessary, to appropriately address each incident.

The department will take strong disciplinary action, up to and including discharge from State employment, against employees of the department who are involved in the commission of work-related threats or acts of violence.

The department will support criminal prosecution of those who threaten or commit work-related violence against its employees, or against taxpayers and other visitors to its work environment.

Pursuant to Minnesota Statute 15.86, this policy does not create any civil liability on the part of the State of Minnesota.

Minnesota Department of Revenue Code of Conduct Achieving Compliance with the Tax Laws

INTRODUCTION

Our mission is to achieve compliance with the tax laws of Minnesota. To accomplish that we must gain the public's confidence in our competence and integrity. Thus, state employees must act according to the highest ethical standards. As employees of the State of Minnesota and the Department of Revenue particularly, employees must understand what is expected of them regarding their obligations to the state and their relationships with co-workers and the citizens of Minnesota. The Code of Conduct outlines those responsibilities.

POLICY STATEMENT

The Code of Conduct applies to all Minnesota Department of Revenue employees. The term "employee" means full time, part time, unlimited, seasonal and temporary employees, including all members of the commissioner's staff, division directors, supervisors, classified and unclassified employees. Interns, trainees, employees on mobility assignment, and special work study employees are also included, no matter how their salaries are funded. The Code also applies to all contract workers and consultants who perform services directly for the department.

As an employee, you are individually responsible for complying with this Code and must avoid all conduct that is, or could be seen as, inappropriate or as a conflict of interest. If you are unsure whether certain conduct presents or appears to be a conflict of interest, or if you are aware that another employee is violating the laws we enforce, contact your supervisor.

The duties and requirements set out in this Code apply to dealings with all of the department's customers. The term "customer" includes, but is not limited to, taxpayers. As used in this document, the term customer means any person or entity who benefits directly or indirectly from the services we provide. While taxpayers, tax practitioners and the Legislature make up the majority of our customers, customers may also be a co-workers.

In general, your supervisor is responsible for making this information available to you and advising you about it. However, you are also subject to Minnesota law (see Statutes Appendix) and other requirements, such as the state alcohol and drug policy and the Revenue Department's policy on violence. It is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with these policies.

PURPOSE

This Code helps you avoid conduct or activity that will, or appear to:

- conflict with your employment
- result in use of your position for private and personal gain;
- show favoritism to any organization or person;
- interfere with your objectivity;
- hinder the department's efficiency; or
- lower the public's confidence in the department's integrity or yours.

It also helps you maintain high standards of conduct while on the job.

Employees who deal directly with the public are most directly affected by these standards; however, all employees must follow them to ensure a productive and pleasant workplace.

COURTESY AND APPEARANCE

Be courteous

- You must be professional, courteous and cooperative with customers at all times. While it may be difficult to deal with people who are impatient or discourteous, you will be held to a professional standard. You must be helpful and understanding and respond to them with a pleasant tone and willingness to help.
- You must give immediate attention to customers who come into your office. If there must be a wait, explain the situation as clearly as possible and tell them how long they must wait. Be on time for appointments. If you must cancel or delay an appointment, or you cannot provide any product or service on time, notify your customer as soon as possible.
- You are also expected to be equally courteous and cooperative with your coworkers. Hostile confrontations with other employees must be avoided. Refer to the Minnesota Department of Revenue Zero Tolerance of Workplace Violence Policy for further clarification.
- Be responsive and professional with customers and other employees in all forms of communication, regardless of the situation or the means of communication. When answering the phone, identify yourself and your unit. If a call is misdialed or misdirected to your extension, be as helpful as possible. Offer to transfer the caller or provide the correct number. Refer to the Minnesota Department of Revenue Standards for Effective Communication and the Key Functions Lotus Notes Database on your computer if you have questions or need more information.

General Appearance

- Our goal is to present a good public image and professional appearance for the department.
- You must wear clothing and accessories that are appropriate to your specific duties, work environment, and type of work that appropriately fit with business community standards.

Ordinarily, you must:

- be responsive and professional with customers and other employees
- meet appropriate standards of hygiene, health and safety;
- have hair neatly groomed; and
- avoid wearing inappropriate clothing, or clothing that is tattered, worn, revealing, or needs repair.

Supervisors are responsible to serve as examples for employees and to set the tone for personal appearance and to enforce the standards.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Fair and impartial administration of state government and the enforcement of its laws makes the avoidance of any conflict of interest extremely important. A conflict of interest exists when your conduct or activities are inconsistent with your official duties and responsibilities as a Minnesota Department of Revenue employee. This usually happens if your private interest, whether personal, financial or in any other way beneficial, conflicts or appears to conflict with your public responsibilities. A conflict of interest may occur if your independence or judgment is impaired. You have an obligation to avoid all conflicts of interest.

Even situations that are not in themselves a conflict of interest may be prohibited if there appears to be a conflict of interest. Be sensitive to any conduct that would lead one to believe that you or another employee may be biased. You have a duty to promptly report the existence or possible existence of any conflict of interest to your supervisor. Your supervisor will take appropriate action.

Not all situations can be covered by this Code; it is impossible to anticipate every situation. If you have any questions about a particular activity or interest, obtain clarification from your supervisor or the director of the Human Resource Management Division (HRM).

Remember, for the purpose of conflict of interest, the word "taxpayer" means an individual, business, taxpayer representative, lobbyist, and business or professional associations representing taxpayers with similar interests. The same standards apply to your dealings with department vendors.

Gifts

- You may not accept money, gifts, food, entertainment, favors, or any other item of value from a taxpayer or any other external source in connection with your employment with the department. If you attend or address any meeting or conference, you should advise the organization sponsoring the event of the department's policy, especially if personalized gifts are offered. If declining an item would create difficulty or an embarrassing situation, the item may be accepted and then returned to the giver as soon as possible.
- If it is not possible to return a gift, you should give it to a recognized charity. Perishable food gifts should be distributed to other employees without disclosing the source if you are unable to donate them to charity. Use good judgment.
- This policy also applies to situations where you attend a conference, convention or similar event on state time that is not sponsored by another state agency. If attendance is approved in advance, the department will pay for your meals or expenses associated with that event as with any other work assignment. The department will not accept free admissions for other Revenue employees unless it has been determined that the department has provided sufficient payment or services for those admissions.
- The prohibition of gifts extends to food and drink offered at hospitality suites and special recreational events provided by taxpayers as defined previously and that are not within the normal scope of the conference. This includes conferences sponsored by taxpayers, lobbyists or other special interest groups such as the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants, Tax Executives Institute (TEI), or the Minnesota Association of Public Accountants (MAPA). Conferences sponsored by other state agencies or other states are not subject to this prohibition, such as the Minnesota Farm School.
- This policy does not apply if the hospitality or recreation is part of the conference registration fee for which the department has paid. If you wish to attend a hospitality suite or other recreational activity not covered by the department-paid registration fee, you should contribute to the cost of food and beverage you consume.

Exceptions include:

- meals or entertainment provided by a taxpayer who is also a personal friend, provided that person does not use the occasion to attempt to influence department policy or operations;
- occasional offers of coffee or other non-alcoholic beverages from a taxpayer while working;
- food or beverage given at an event at which you appear to make a speech or answer questions as part of a program;
- gifts of nominal value such as promotional items of little or no retail value;
- plaques or similar mementos recognizing individual service in a field of specialty; and
- reimbursement of expenses for travel or meals which are not reimbursed by the state and that were approved in advance as part of a work assignment.

Acting as Agent or Attorney

You may not represent any taxpayer in any proceeding before the Minnesota Department of Revenue, the Internal Revenue Service, or any other state revenue agency. This also applies to Tax Court, District Court, Supreme Court or administrative law judges who hear tax matters. In addition, if you are involved in property tax administration, you may not act on behalf of anyone except yourself, your spouse, or your minor children in any property tax appeal before any local agency.

Recommendations -

In your official capacity you may not suggest, recommend, encourage or discourage the employment of any specific attorney, accountant, tax advisor, appraiser or firm in connection with any tax matter.

- AVOID ANY TAX ADMINISTRATION ACTIVITY INVOLVING AN ACQUAINTANCE -

Prohibited Activities

You may not examine, audit, collect from, or engage in any other tax administration or enforcement activity regarding a taxpayer who is a family member, close friend, or employer. You must avoid any tax administration activity involving an acquaintance or any other taxpayer about whom you have a bias, if your objectivity would be impaired. If you receive an assignment that conflicts with these restrictions, immediately advise your supervisor and the supervisor will reassign the case.

Use of Information

You must not personally use or profit from any information acquired in the course of your work if that information is not available to the public.

Remuneration from Other Sources

You must not accept money or any other token of value from anyone, other than the state, for the performance of any act required of you during the ordinary course of business.

Customer loyalty awards are also prohibited under state law. For example, if you are required to travel by air on state business, you may not accept frequent flyer miles or other awards or prizes connected with the flight. They must be turned over to the state.

Restrictions on New Employees

You may not work on any taxpayer matter that is connected with any previous employment.

If you have questions about this policy, or think your situation qualifies for exemption, contact the director of the Human Resource Management Division for an opinion.

Bribery Attempts

Be alert to solicitations, offers of money, or anything of value, whether direct or indirect, in exchange for doing or refraining from doing anything within your official function. If you believe you were offered a bribe, immediately report the circumstances to your supervisor. Cooperate fully with any investigation that may follow.

Nepotism

To avoid favoritism, or its appearance, you may not supervise, hire, evaluate or discipline anyone with whom you are related by blood, marriage or adoption, or to whom you were previously related by marriage or adoption. Further, if any other relationship may influence your judgment, you should not supervise, hire, evaluate or discipline that person. If you are unsure about a particular relationship, discuss it with your supervisor or the director of the Human Resource Management Division.

Soliciting for Charities or Other Causes

You may not solicit contributions for private or charitable causes on state time or use state equipment such as copiers, paper or the electronic mail system to do so. Charitable campaigns authorized by the Department of Employee Relations for which we have established solicitation procedures are exempt from this prohibition. Prohibited activities include soliciting for any personal or social purpose.

If you wish to solicit for other charitable or private campaigns, advocacy groups, church groups, community or religious organizations, or personal or family events, you may do so in non-public and non-work areas. You may not use your work time or the work time of other employees to solicit for unauthorized campaigns. The cafeteria and similar areas are considered non-public, non-work areas.

When conducting charitable fundraising activities such as raffles, you must learn how to do so legally by contacting the Minnesota Gambling Control Board. It will instruct you about charitable solicitations when using raffles, bingo and other gambling activities. Any employee who sells or advertises raffle tickets at work is responsible for meeting the guidelines.

If an event involves gambling and it is not conducted according to state law, a tax of 2 percent of the gross sales applies. Illegal gambling proceeds are also subject to the sales tax.

Soliciting for Private Gain

You may not conduct private business, sell, or attempt to sell or buy any commercial product or service during work hours in any working area. You may make isolated and occasional sales of personal items but you may not use the regular electronic mail system, interoffice mail or any other state equipment or supplies. Bulletin boards and a limited Notes database are available for this purpose.

POLITICAL FUNDRAISING AND OTHER POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

Solicitation of Funds or Support

You must not solicit funds or other support for political activities or candidates on state time or use state property such as computers, telephones or mailing lists for that purpose. Political activities include more than support for a particular candidate or group of candidates; they may also include political activities and issues.

Political Activities

You may participate in political activities on your own time and off state property. When doing so, you should not in any way connect endorsement of a candidate, cause, activity or position with the state of Minnesota or your employment. You may not wear campaign or issue-oriented buttons or clothing while on the job or display political materials anywhere in the building or on any other state property or taxpayer site.

Political Office

In some cases, employees who run for public office or who are elected to public office should take a leave of absence. If you intend to run for public office, you must first contact the director or the Human Resource Management Division to receive proper guidelines.

Other guidelines to follow include:

- You must take a leave of absence if elected to a federal or a state office. For other elective offices (county, city, local boards, etc.), you must consult the commissioner of the Department of Employee Relations to see if the office conflicts with your employment.

- You must take a leave of absence upon becoming a candidate for any elective public office if, in the commissioner of the Department of Employee Relation's opinion, it conflicts with your employment.

TAX RETURN FILING AND PAYMENT

At the beginning of this document, you were reminded that our mission is to achieve compliance with the tax laws. Therefore, all of us must adhere to the standards we impose on others. You must comply with federal, state and local tax laws and meet all filing requirements and payment obligations. Remember, state and federal statutes require people who meet income thresholds to file returns even if they expect a refund.

You also will be considered in compliance with your tax payment obligations if you comply with the terms of an authorized payment plan. If you have questions regarding tax compliance, contact the director of the Human Resource Management Division to arrange for confidential assistance.

- ALL OF US MUST ADHERE TO THE STANDARDS WE IMPOSE ON OTHERS -

OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT

To maintain the public's trust and enhance voluntary compliance, you may not accept certain types of outside employment that create conflict of interest or its appearance. Certain types of employment are prohibited outright; other types must be reviewed on a case-by-case basis.

Prohibited Employment

- You may not prepare federal, state, local or charitable gambling tax returns for any type of pay or benefit. That includes accepting any tax-related employment by a religious, charitable, or other nonprofit organization. The public could view this situation as a conflict of interest.
- You may not hold any outside employment if its principal function is to collect, analyze, or make ready materials used to prepare federal, state, local or gambling tax returns or provide guidance on tax planning.
- You may not hold outside employment that otherwise creates a conflict of interest or its appearance.

- PREPARING RETURNS FOR FAMILY MEMBERS, PERSONAL FRIENDS OR AS A VOLUNTEER FOR VITA OR A SIMILAR ORGANIZATION AS A PERSONAL FAVOR IS PERMITTED -

Permitted Employment

You may accept employment unrelated to taxation and in which you do not disseminate or disclose confidential information obtained during your department duties. For example, you may work in retail sales, food service, or janitorial work without notifying the department of this employment.

Outside Employment Requiring Advance Notice

Advance notice is required for all types of employment not specifically permitted in the above section. If you have any questions about the appropriateness of accepting outside employment, you must notify your supervisor and the director of the Human Resource Management Division. You must also notify them if you change outside employment.

Restrictions on Employment after Termination

- You may not act as counsel, attorney or agent for a taxpayer in connection with any claim or proceeding pending in the Department of Revenue within one year after terminating your department employment.
- If you leave the department, you may not act as counsel, attorney, or agent in connection with any claim or matter about which you had knowledge during Revenue Department employment.

USE OF STATE PROPERTY

General

You should not use state time, facilities or property for personal use. That includes, but is not limited to, state supplies and equipment, such as paper, computers, photocopy and FAX machines, state vehicles and telephone lines. Specifically, you may not use state time for personal activities such as playing computer games. Neither should you use state computers for personal projects or outside employment - even on your own time.

Telephones

In general, state telephones are for official business only; however, there are exceptions to this rule. Personal telephone calls within the local calling area that meet the following criteria are acceptable:

- calls are of limited duration and frequency;
- calls do not adversely affect your performance or the performance of other employees; and
- calls could not have reasonably been made during non-working hours.

Examples include, but are not limited to, the following situations: brief calls to spouses, minor children, elderly parents or other dependents, and to places that can only be reached during working hours, such as government agencies, physicians, or other professional services.

- State telephones may not be used for personal long distance calls because such calls constitute illegal avoidance of federal taxes and also inappropriate financial gain for you. You must charge long distance calls to a non-government phone or your personal credit card. Under exceptional circumstances you may use the phone line for long distance calls if you reimburse the state.
- Furthermore, you must not accept personal calls on the department "800" numbers, or use caller fee or "900" numbers.

RESPECTFUL TREATMENT OF OTHERS

All employees must comply with the Minnesota Department of Revenue Affirmative Action Plan. You must not engage in any unwelcome conduct with respect to a co-workers race, color, creed, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, age, marital status, disability, religion or reliance on public assistance. Harassment based on these characteristics is expressly forbidden by law.

Harassment is defined as:

- Disparaging, belittling, demeaning or insulting remarks;
- Jokes about an employee or characteristic unique to that employee; or
- Demeaning an employee's character, reputation, work efforts or property.

Any of these is considered harassment, whether oral or written, or actions taken that do not maintain an appropriate business relationship. Additionally, the department will not tolerate any form of harassment or disparaging treatment based on other characteristics not listed above.

The commissioner is responsible for the application of this policy within the department, and managers and supervisors have the responsibility within their units. You are expected to be familiar with the department's Affirmative Action and Harassment Policies, which can be obtained from the department's affirmative action officer or the Human Resource Management Division. Each department supervisor is responsible for orienting his/her staff to these policies. If you feel you are being subjected to harassment or discrimination in any form, or have witnessed such conduct, contact your supervisor or the department affirmative action officer.

- The Minnesota Department of Revenue will not tolerate any form of harassment -

CONFIDENTIALITY OF DATA AND SECURITY BADGES

Minnesota laws provide that information relating to returns for income tax, sales tax, estate tax, MinnesotaCare tax, any similar Indian tribal tax, drug tax and environmental taxes, and property tax refunds is confidential. Return information is any information collected, created, or maintained by the department, including a taxpayer's identity or filing or payment history.

You should not disclose this information to anyone other than the taxpayer, the taxpayer's representative named in a power of attorney, or another department employee who needs the information to perform his or her job.

There are limited situations where we may share information with other agencies, other states, or the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Federal laws require that IRS data be kept confidential, and the exceptions allowing exchanges with other agencies are specified in Minnesota laws. If you have questions about disclosure, check with your supervisor.

Addendum 2/2/98

Browsing Prohibited

You are not allowed to inspect a taxpayer's return or return information unless it is in connection with your official job duties. This includes charging out files that are stored in the Information Management Division, or accessing computer systems that contain taxpayer return information. To "inspect" means to examine or review a return or return data to find out specific information about a taxpayer, such as how much income the taxpayer has, what the taxpayer's address or social security number is, or anything else about the taxpayer which you are seeking for your personal knowledge, curiosity, or benefit. "Official job duties" does not include accessing return or return information of a taxpayer's representative unless there is reason to believe that the representative's filing is not accurate."

You, as well as all visitors, must display or obtain a security badge to enter any Revenue Department office. Proper identification of all personnel and visitors is essential to maintain the confidentiality of tax information and building security. This applies to the department's regional offices as well as the central office.

COMPUTER SECURITY

The Department of Revenue's computer data and resources are to be used only for authorized work purposes. Access to computerized information is limited to only those who need the information to perform assigned duties.

Computer system access codes and authorities are issued to individual employees. You must not share access codes. We all have an obligation to protect data from unauthorized disclosure, modification, transfer, or destruction and to ensure that computer information is kept accurate, complete and current.

We all must comply with published computer security policies and procedures. If you have any questions, contact your supervisor or work group manager.

REPORTING VIOLATIONS

To maintain the integrity of the Revenue Department, you should report any suspected violations of this Code of Conduct to your supervisor for appropriate action. If you suspect that your supervisor is in violation of this Code, report the suspected violation to your supervisor's supervisor or the director of the Human Resource Management Division.

- MAINTAIN THE DEPARTMENT'S INTEGRITY -

DISCIPLINARY AND OTHER REMEDIAL ACTION

Violations of the Code

If you violate this Code, you may be subject to disciplinary action. Violations of law may result in civil or criminal prosecution. Discipline may also be administered in accordance with the appropriate bargaining agreement or plan. The Revenue Department may also reassign you or change your duties to avoid a conflict; and/or require you to stop an activity that conflicts with your work. You have specific appeal rights under law and/or your collective bargaining agreement if disciplined for violating this Code.

Determinations under the Code

If you believe that your activities are exempt from a specific provision of the Code of Conduct, you may apply in writing to the director of the Human Resource Management Division for an exemption. The determination will be based on thorough analysis of the activity to assess how the activity affects your ability to perform your job, and how that activity might conflict with or appear to the public to conflict with your job.

A decision will be made as quickly as possible and within thirty days. In the meantime, you may continue the activity provided it violates no other provision of the Code.

If the Human Resource Management director rejects your request, you will be given reasons for the rejection. For situations covered by the Statewide Code of Ethics and Political Activities (Minnesota Statutes §§ 43A.32, 43A.38 and Chapter 10A), you may ask the commissioner of the Department of Employee Relations to reconsider the decision. That decision is final.

Non-Revenue Employees Applicant Information

Please read the following information carefully and complete the requested data in Section I, II and III as indicated below. Please note that a criminal history and tax check will be conducted prior to allowing you access to any Minnesota Department of Revenue facilities or computer systems.

Section I. Applicant Information and Employment History

Minnesota Statutes 13.01 through 13.87 (1983) on data practices requires that you be informed that the following information which you are asked to provide is considered private data: name, home address, home phone number, social security number, criminal conviction record, financial and tax information. As a result, this information is protected and is available only to you, and officials who have a need for it. Below describes why the data is being requested.

- Your address and home phone number. We ask for this data to distinguish you from other applicants, and to allow us to contact you, if necessary.
- Your social security number; finance and tax information; and employment history. We use this information to determine whether you were required to, and actually filed your State tax returns or if you currently owe tax to the State of Minnesota or any other State you resided in within the last five years. If you owe tax or have not filed the required tax returns, you must file the returns and/or make a satisfactory payment arrangement in order to continue your employment at the Department of Revenue.
- Conviction record. We use this information to determine if you have a job-related criminal record that would prohibit your access to our facilities, staff or records.

Section II. Criminal History Record

- Informed Consent form. Completion of the enclosed Informed Consent form grants us permission to review your Minnesota criminal history record to determine if you have a job-related criminal record that would prohibit your access to our staff and facilities.
- Verifications, Inc. form. Completion of this form is required only if you lived and/or worked in another State. We use Verifications, Inc. to conduct criminal history checks in States other than Minnesota.

Section III. Revenue Security Agreement

This agreement outlines your responsibility to maintain information confidentiality as specified by Minnesota Statutes, Minnesota Revenue Regulations, the federal Internal Revenue Code 6103 and IRS regulations. Please sign this form acknowledging your commitment to adherence of these requirements and your understanding of the consequences for failure to do so.

IMPORTANT: If you provide false information you may be convicted of a misdemeanor and dismissed from any position gained on the basis of that information (M.S. 43.35). Information you provide which is related to your ability to perform the job may be verified by the Department of Revenue (M.S. 43.162).
