This resource guide identifies and describes early childhood education teaching, training, and staff development materials that meet three basic criteria: good, readily available, and inexpensive. It is designed to provide educators, trainers, supervisors, and other personnel preparation decision makers with resources for designing quality preservice and inservice experiences. The guide is divided into two sections: materials on instructional content and materials on the instructional process. The instructional content section provides annotated listings of materials with which to enrich preservice and in-service personnel preparation in fourteen key early childhood/early intervention content areas. These include: assistive technology, cultural diversity, early care and development, evaluation/assessment, family-professional collaboration, Individualized Family Service Plans/Individualized Education Programs, inclusion, interagency collaboration, legislation, service coordination, specific populations, state planning and resource development, teams, and transitions. The instructional process section describes resources to enrich the design of quality personnel preparation efforts including family participation materials, and personnel preparation and development materials. Each section describes primary and supplemental resources and includes information on the content of the materials, level of impact, source, and cost. Appendices include a list of sources for the materials, an author index, and a title index. (CR)

Introduction

How to Use the Resource Guide

The purpose of the Resource Guide is to identify and describe teaching, training, and staff development materials that meet three basic criteria: good, readily available, and inexpensive. These resources may assist educators, trainers, supervisors, and other personnel preparation decisionmakers in designing quality preservice and inservice experiences.

What’s in the Resource Guide?

The Resource Guide is divided into two sections: materials on instructional content and materials on instructional process. A list of topics and information covered in each of these sections follows.

Instructional Content

This section provides annotated listings of materials with which to enrich preservice and inservice personnel preparation in fourteen key early childhood/early intervention content areas. These include:

Assistive Technology—resources for sharing information about the use of assistive technology with young children

Cultural Diversity—materials to facilitate the appreciation of individual differences in ourselves and the families we serve and to promote interactions that reflect cultural and linguistic sensitivity

Early Care and Development—materials to promote optimum early development, including the design, implementation, and evaluation of quality child care environments that lend themselves to effective inclusion

Evaluation/Assessment—resources for training others in gathering and sharing child and family information

Family–Professional Collaboration—materials for assisting individuals and programs in movement toward family-centered practices and effective collaboration

IFSP/IEP—resources for sharing information and promoting understanding of the IFSP and IEP processes
Inclusion—materials for promoting quality environments that support the development of all young children

Interagency Collaboration—information and activities to foster productive collaborative efforts that support young children and families

Legislation—materials for sharing information about federal legislation and policies that affect young children and families

Service Coordination—materials for teaching about case management and service coordination

Specific Populations—instructional resources targeted to specific audiences including medical personnel, paraprofessionals, and practitioners who serve parents with special needs, children infected with HIV, and premature infants

State Planning and Resource Development—resources to assist states in setting up structures to support and link the components of personnel development (recruitment, preparation, qualification, support and retention)

Teams—materials for promoting teamwork

Transitions—materials for sharing information about the transitions in early childhood/early intervention made by young children and families.

Instructional Process

This section describes resources to enrich the design of quality personnel preparation efforts, including:

Family Participation—materials to stimulate and support the involvement of family members in different roles of early childhood intervention, including leadership, advocacy, personnel preparation, and program design and development

Personnel Preparation and Development—information on models (mentoring, consultation) and methods (instructional approaches, case method, team-based approaches) for supporting preservice education, inservice training, and ongoing staff development

How is the Resource Guide Organized?

Each section idescribes two kinds of resources: Primary resources and Supplemental resources.

Primary resources are materials that are described at length, including title, author, date, format (print, video, audiotape), content (brief description), level of impact, source, and cost. Typically these are items that were intended for instructional use and lend themselves without adaptation.
Supplemental resources are other materials described in terms of title, author, source, and cost. Addresses and telephone numbers for these sources are provided in the Source List that begins on page 119 of the Resource Guide. These are items that might be useful as activities, checklists, vignettes, handouts, readings, or bibliographic entries.

A Source List follows the content sections and includes publishers and producers for supplemental materials described in the Resource Guide. Two indices follow the Source List and provide alphabetical listings of all Resource Guide entries by author and title.

The Resource Guide is also available online as a PDF file at http://www.tpg.unc.edu/Publications/Rguide/rguide.pdf

By downloading Adobe Acrobat Reader (available for free at the website) you will be able to read, copy, print, or search the Resource Guide.

Features of the 9th edition:

- this symbol in the margin indicates entries that are new to the 9th edition of the Resource Guide.

- this symbol in the margin designates items that have been reviewed for the cultural and linguistic sensitivity as part of the CLAS (Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Service) Early Childhood Research Institute. Each review provides information about the strengths, limitations, and potential uses for personnel preparation of the material. The home page for CLAS is http://clas.uiuc.edu. Reviews of materials may be found by title or by author at http://clas.uiuc.edu/resource.html.

- margins have been designed with lined space for taking notes about individual entries.

Please note that the Resource Guide is not intended to be a comprehensive document. Instead, this collection represents material the compilers have used, currently use and will continue to use until we discover even better materials in this very dynamic field. Your help in facilitating those discoveries will be greatly appreciated!
Assistive Technology

This section includes resources for sharing information about the use of assistive technology with young children.

Primary Resources

Assistive technology: A training manual for interdisciplinary teams

Debbie Reinhartsen, Editor

This curriculum captures effective instructional sequences for training about key aspects of assistive technology (i.e., technology and the law, literacy skills, funding, devices, assessment). Each content module provides essential instructional components, including learning objectives, a content overview, an instructional outline with overhead/handout cues, discussion questions and applications, and all related instructional materials. Each module is completely self-contained and designed to be presented alone, with other modules, or used for independent study. An added feature of this loose-leaf formatted curriculum is the inclusion of additional resources (articles, checklists, etc.) in the binder.

Tech it easy

Debbie Reinhartsen, Susan Attermeier, Rebecca Edmondson, & Patsy Pierce

This resource contains suggestions and materials for providing training about assistive technology in early intervention service delivery. All planning guidance, objectives, and strategies are designed to foster parent-professional collaboration in the selection and use of assistive technology and light-tech adaptations. Materials include an “Assistive Technology Comfort-Level Survey” to evaluate the attitudes and knowledge of participants on a pre- and post- basis, six self-contained modules on aspects on assistive technology, and three sections of references and resources.

Supplemental Resources

Baby power: A guide for families for using assistive technology with their infants and toddlers

Pierce, P. (Ed.). (1994). Raleigh, NC: North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Early Intervention and Education. This guide compiles suggestions and guidelines for using assistive technology to help families with different aspects of their baby's life. Each chapter includes basic information on "nuts and bolts," strategies to try, sample IFSP goals, things to consider as a child "transitions" into new programs, and helpful resources. Free. Call (919) 733-3654 for a copy.

Freedom of speech

West Virginia Documentary Consortium & Spectra Media, Inc. (1997). South Charleston, WV: Author. This is a 30-minute, closed captioned video about the capacity of technology to assist individuals with disabilities in achieving their potential. Using stories from two families, this tape delivers powerful messages about concerns, priorities, resources and aspirations from parent and consumer perspectives. Cost: $56.00 includes postage.

Kids included through technology are enriched: A guidebook for teachers of young children

PACER Center. (1997). Minneapolis, MN: Author. This 128-page book with full-color illustrations suggests practical strategies for integrating computers, communication aids, and other devices to help children with disabilities at school and at home. Resource lists as well as reproducible forms and questionnaires will help both parents and professionals choose and use technology effectively. Cost: $15.00.

Welcome to my preschool! Communicating with technology

National Center to Improve Practice, Education Development Center, Inc. (1994). Newton, MA: Author. This 14-minute, closed-captioned tape visits an integrated preschool classroom where students with disabilities have full access to the curriculum through the use of high and low technology tools. In voice-overs, the teacher discusses specific challenges, the technologies that have been selected to address the challenges, and the benefits. Stock #4596. Cost: $29.99.

Young children and technology

PACER Center. (1997). Minneapolis, MN: Author. This 14-minute, closed captioned video shows how assistive technology can benefit young children with disabilities. Various devices are demonstrated in home and preschool settings, and strategies for infusing assistive technology in IFSPs and IEPs are offered. Cost: $35.00. It can also be rented directly from PACER for $10.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Cultural Diversity

This section includes materials to facilitate the appreciation of individual differences in ourselves and the families we serve and to promote interactions that reflect cultural and linguistic sensitivity.

Primary Resources

Dealing with differences: A training manual for young people and adults on intergroup relations, diversity, and multicultural education

Marion O’Malley & Tiffany Davis

This manual is designed for individuals who are interested in facilitating workshops, classes and training sessions on understanding diversity, promoting multicultural education and improving intergroup relations. Information is provided for trainers of varying skill levels, including introductory sections with tips on designing and facilitating training (novice) and conceptual frameworks for further exploration (advanced). The manual includes lots of ideas for organization of training, instructional approaches, dividing groups, providing feedback and planning next steps. Each activity includes goals, materials, procedures and trainers notes, along with reproducible overheads and handouts.

Developing cultural competence in early childhood assessment

Susan M. Moore, Janet Beatty, & Clara Pérez-Méndez

These training materials were developed to respond to questions regarding the best methods for incorporating values, cultural differences, and child-rearing practices into everyday usage when interacting with families from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds. It provides frameworks for examining, or teaching/training about skill in five aspects of early childhood assessment: gathering background information; working with interpreters and cultural mediators; adapting formal measures and utilizing informal measures; interpreting assessment information; and sharing information with families. Two unique tools (Cultural Competence Team Self-Reflection Tool & Personal Values Self-Reflection Tool) could be very useful in facilitating the movement of trainees from awareness to application of cultural knowledge.

Diversity

Janet Gonzalez-Mena

A series of four videotapes designed to help individuals working with young children and their families to integrate culturally responsive caregiving with developmentally appropriate practices and a set of thought-provoking discussion questions comprise this remarkable set of materials. The tapes (Diversity, Independence and Individuality; Diversity: Contrasting Perspectives; Diversity and Communication; Diversity and Conflict Management) display a multiethnic group of practitioners and family members struggling over differences that arise from culturally driven views on caring for children. Preservice instructors, inservice trainers, or individuals with staff development responsibilities could use these materials to uncover pre-conceived notions, provide exposure to other viewpoints within a non-judgmental manner, and offer approaches to conflict resolution, all in a safe context.

Essential connections: Ten keys to culturally sensitive child care

Center for Child & Family Studies

This 36-minute videotape does a sensitive, effective job of illustrating principles for creating culturally sensitive child care environments. It is accompanied by a "magazine" which offers additional text about the ten areas (provide cultural consistency, work toward representative staffing, etc.) discussed. Each area could provide the basis for discussion and strategizing about program-specific applications. Part of the Culture, families, and providers module described on page 19.

Infusing cultural competence in early childhood programs

Nona Flynn, Eva Thorp, Kyppee Evans, & Cherie Takemoto, Editors

This publication, developed through a collaborative project between The Helen A. Kellar Center for Human disAbilities at George Mason University and The Parent Educational Advocacy Training Center, includes a participant's notebook and trainer's manual for Multicultural Early Childhood Team Training, an inservice training model promoting parent/professional collaboration in early childhood settings. The materials have been used to prepare parents and professional teams to improve services to diverse families of young children with special needs. While targeting programs that serve families who represent multiple cultural and linguistic communities, there is a focus on cultural awareness, sensitivity, and competence. This compilation of eleven training modules includes objectives, teaching activities, and readings. The notebook is supported by a trainer's manual which provides easy to follow, step-by-step notes for instruction. The cross-cutting themes throughout are family centered practice, parent and professionals partnership, cultural competence, and systematic problem solving to promote program change.

Project CRAFT (Culturally responsive family-focused training)

Deborah Chen & Linda Brekken

These materials were developed as part of a 15-hour sequence of instruction designed to improve the quality of early intervention services provided to young children and their families from diverse cultures. A videotape and accompanying print materials address seven topics: stereotypes and the media; cultural diversity; family values; building relationships; communication; communication and language acquisition; and the NICU. Each topic area includes a video segment, a highlighted quote, key points, discussion questions, trainer notes, and handouts. Because of the organization of the materials, they lend themselves to use in preservice or inservice settings.

Understanding family uniqueness through cultural diversity

Margarita Luera

The Project Tá-kos approach to training cultural sensitivity to diversity is based on each participant identifying their own unique culture beginning with their family of origin's culture. The materials are designed to be used as a four workshop sequence: “Self-awareness,” “Cultural Exclusiveness,” and “Consciousness Raising” are completed in the first workshop; “Heightened Awareness” in the second workshop; “Overemphasis” in the third workshop; and “Integration and Balance” in the fourth and final workshop. Each component builds on the previous component. The user's guide specifies that while someone facilitating a workshop with these materials does not need to be a cultural expert, they must be very familiar with the materials.

Supplemental Resources

Annotated bibliographies

Culturally and Linguistically Appropriate Services Early Childhood Research Institute (CLAS). (1998-1999). Champaign, IL: Author. As an aid to faculty members and presenters who wish to infuse diversity in readings, assignments, and discussions, the CLAS project has compiled annotated bibliographies on topics that range from child find and cross-cultural conceptions of child-rearing to definitions of culture. All bibliographies are available on the Web at clas.uiuc.edu/annotate/.

Barnga: A simulation game on cultural clashes

Thiagarajan, S., & Steinwachs, B. (1990). Yarmouth, ME: Intercultural Press. A card game designed to help participants experience the shock of realizing that in spite of many similarities, people from other cultures have differences in the way they do things. Run in a relatively short time, Barnga can facilitate discoveries and discussions about how to reconcile those differences in order to function in a cross-cultural relationship or group. Cost: $22.95.
Building bridges with multicultural picture books for children 3–5

Building cultural reciprocity with families:
Case studies in special education

Harry, B., Kalyanpur, M., & Day, M. (1999). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This monograph takes readers into the lives of eight families of children (preschool–high school) with disabilities. Each is unique in its culture, configuration and priorities. The cases and accompanying questions can be used to strengthen interactions between families, caregivers, and professionals with regard to the cultural values and beliefs that form families’ goals for their children and conflicts between individual beliefs and the culture of special education. Cost: $30.00.

Celebrating diversity:
Approaching families through their food

Ellades, D.C., & Suttor, C.W. (1998). [2nd ed.] Arlington, VA: Maternal and Child Health Clearinghouse. This monograph has lots of good information and good ideas for promoting the capacity of providers to communicate more effectively with a diverse clientele. “Strategies in action” describe challenging situations that could be used as vignettes in training. This resource may be freely copied. Cost: $10.00.

Conversations for three: Communicating through interpreters

Chen, D., Chan, S., & Brekken, L. (2000). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This video features effective strategies for service providers (who depend on interpreters to communicate with families) and interpreters to promote sensitive and effective communication. Guidance from interpreters with significant experience is also provided. An accompanying guide includes instructional objectives, key terms, notes, questions, activities, and handouts. Cost: $74.95.

Cross-cultural dialogues:
74 brief encounters with cultural difference

Storii, C. (1994). Yarmouth, ME: Intercultural Press, Inc. This book is a collection of brief conversations (4–8 lines) between an American and someone from another country and culture. Each dialogue has buried within it examples or breaches of cultural norms that may occur in different settings; many would be suitable for use in training to explore cultural differences. Cost: $16.95.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Cultural competence in screening and assessment: Implications for services to young children with special needs ages birth through five

Cultural competence self-assessment questionnaire: A manual for users

Mason, J.L. (1995). Portland, OR: Portland State University, Research and Training Center on Family Support and Children’s Mental Health. An instrument to assist child and family-serving programs and agencies to identify cross-cultural strengths and areas in which change may be needed. Practical considerations, such as creating a positive environment in which to identify areas for change and implications for training, are also addressed. Cost: $8.00.

Culture and the clinical encounter: An intercultural sensitizer for the health professions

Gropper, R.C. (1996). Yarmouth, MA: Intercultural Press, Inc. This monograph presents a series of critical incidents in which communication between a health professional and a patient or client breaks down due to a lack of knowledge about cultural differences. Four possible explanations are offered; information on best choices is presented in a separate section. The incidents could be used as part of preservice or inservice training, but would also be well-suited to self study. Stock No. P-382. Cost: $23.95.

Culture, family, and providers

Center for Child and Family Studies (1995). Sacramento, CA: California Department of Education. This module is actually a set of integrated materials including two print resources (Infant/toddler caregiving: A guide to creating partnerships with parents and Infant/toddler caregiving: A guide to culturally sensitive care), two video resources (Essential connections and Protective urges: Working with the feelings of parents and caregivers), and a Trainer’s Manual. Based on current theory and practice, these materials are clearly organized in lesson plans that can be covered in 45 minutes or more. Each lesson plan includes an overview, key concepts in culturally competent child care, materials, activity sheets, handouts, overheads, discussion questions, and options for further exploration. Cost: $159.00.

Culture in special education: Building reciprocal family-professional relationships

Kalyanpur, M. & Harry, B. (1999). Baltimore, MD: Paul Brookes. Using a powerful combination of research, examples, and personal experiences, the authors identify and challenge the cultural assumptions and values that are embedded in special education policies and practices in this country. Each chapter begins with a personal story shared by the authors who both grew up outside this country; by the end of the chapter the reader has been introduced to new ways of thinking about laws and policies, professional expertise and language, and parenting. The book also offers a framework for students to identify the personal and professional values they bring to interactions with culturally diverse families of children with disabilities. Cost: $28.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Developing cross-cultural competence:
A guide for working with children and their families

Developing roots and wings: A trainer's guide to affirming culture in early childhood programs

York, S. (1992). Beltsville, MD: Gryphon House. This companion to Roots and Wings: Affirming Culture in Early Childhood Programs includes over 170 multicultural training activities adaptable to any audience or training style. Designed to prepare child care staff and caregivers to provide multicultural education that will prevent and eliminate the development of prejudice and racism in children, it also provides ideas for trainer support, training design, and personnel development. Cost: $29.95.

Diversity & developmentally appropriate practices

Mallory, B.L., & New, R.S. (Eds.). (1994). New York: Teachers College Press. The primary purpose of this edited volume is to provide a forum for the presentation of new challenges to the concepts and indicators of developmentally appropriate practices in early childhood. The dual focus on children representing cultural and developmental differences is carried out quite successfully throughout the volume. This thought-provoking volume makes an important contribution to the field. Stock No. 3299-0. Cost: $41.00.

Diversity training module: Fostering awareness, implementation, commitment, and advocacy

Jarvis, V.T., & Rodriguez, P. (1998). Raleigh, NC: North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Early Intervention and Education. These materials were developed to offer participants in both preservice and inservice settings a better understanding of diversity. Four sections offer outlines, handouts, vignettes and activities in the areas of awareness, implementation, commitment, and advocacy. A pre- and post-test are provided along with evaluation forms and supplemental resources. Cost: FREE.

Enacting diverse learning environments: Improving the climate for racial/ethnic diversity in higher education

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Experiential activities for intercultural learning

A film and video guide on teaching diversity:
An annotated bibliography

Gonzales, J.R. [1997, May]. Albuquerque, NM: College of Education, University of New Mexico. This resource was developed to assist faculty and students with their work in the areas of equity, diversity, multiculturalism and bilingual education. Cost: FREE.

Hearing everyone’s voice

Hopkins, S. (Ed.) [1999]. Redmond, WA: Child Care Information Exchange. Teachers, parents, and children share ideas in this guidebook for integrating peace education, anti-bias perspective, and democratic practice into early care and education settings. Each of ten sections (e.g., Stories to illustrate theories of children's social development) uses songs, stories, artwork, and activities to illustrate key concepts. Cost: $45.

¡Hola means hello! Resources & ideas for promoting diversity in early childhood settings

Fenson, C., Dennis, B., & Palsha, S. (1998). (2nd ed.). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center. Here’s a resource that was designed to assist child care providers, teachers, and other personnel who provide services to young children and their families, in promoting diversity and fostering discussion of different beliefs, values and traditions. Sections include resources/materials for enhancing cultural awareness, a self-assessment checklist, booklists, and instructional resources. Cost: $5.00.

Honoring diversity within child care and early education:
An instructor’s guide

Chud, C., & Fasihman, R. (1995). Victoria, BC: Curriculum Publications. This 2-volume guide was designed to provide information, resources, and references that will support implementation of diversity and anti-bias education principles in early childhood settings. Volume I addresses contextual issues, the teaching process, and integrating diversity within the early childhood curriculum. Volume II focuses on working with families, interacting with young children, program planning and implementation, practice, and administration. Both volumes include articles, activities, checklists, and other useful information. Cost: Volume I ($44); Volume II ($33.50). NOTE: A 20% discount is available to educators.
Human diversity in action: Developing multicultural competencies for the classroom

Cushner, K.H. (1999). New York: McGraw-Hill. This workbook is full of activities designed to actively engage students in 1) learning about the culture of self; 2) learning about the culture of others and intercultural interaction; and 3) modifying curriculum and instruction to more effectively welcome and embrace diversity in the classroom and school. This workbook was designed to accompany Human diversity in education: An integrative approach (see below). Cost: $31.95.

Human diversity in education: An integrative approach

Cushner, K.H., McClelland, A., & Safford, P.L. (1999). [3rd ed.] New York: McGraw Hill College Division. A core text for multicultural education courses, this book provides a broad treatment of the various forms of human diversity found in today’s schools: nationality, ethnicity, race, religion, gender, class, language, sexual orientation, and ability. It also examines the broad social, cultural, and economic changes that are sweeping across the world and ways that are emerging to accommodate these changes. Case studies are used to introduce major concepts at the start of chapters and brief cases called critical incidents are used to focus attention on key concepts at the end of chapters. Chapter 6 (Developmentally Appropriate Classrooms) is particularly useful. A companion workbook (Human diversity in action: Developing multicultural competencies for the classroom) enables students and instructors to integrate an experiential component. Cost: $60.

Infant/toddler caregiving: A guide to creating partnerships with parents

Center for Child and Family Studies. (1990). Sacramento: California Department of Education. This caregivers' guide, designed to offer information on current theory, research and practice, could be used to support training about key aspects of effective child care environments. It starts with a vision statement for positive child, family and provider relationships, then progresses through nine sections that range from listening and responding to families' needs and considering the family in its culture to conducting business, any of which could be used to explore similar issues with a training audience. Part of the Culture, family and providers module described on page 19. Cost: $12.50.

Infant/toddler caregiving: A guide to culturally sensitive care

Program for Infant Toddler Caregivers. (1993). Sacramento, CA: California Department of Education. This guide is intended to offer caregivers information, based on current theory, research, and practice, for use in implementing culturally sensitive care in center-based and home-based programs. Readings, activities, questionnaires, and additional resources are clearly presented and easy to use. This guide can also serve as a companion to the videos Essential connections: Ten keys to culturally sensitive care and Protective urges. Cost: $12.50.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
An introduction to cultural competence principles and elements: An annotated bibliography

Learning the way: A guide for the home visitor working with families on the Navajo reservation

Dufort, M., & Reed, L. (1995). Watertown, MA: Perkins School for the Blind. This monograph provides information and strategies that can be used to increase the effectiveness of home visits and intervention planning. Good ideas for teaching/training about intercultural communication. Cost: $10.00.

Multicultural and equity resources: Annotated bibliography

Promoting cultural competence in children's mental health services

Hernandez, M., & Isaacs, M.R. (1998). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. In response to challenges faced by children's mental health professionals working in culturally and linguistically diverse communities, this book proposes strategies for developing cultural competence across a range of services. Strong emphasis is placed on discovering and supporting community capability, especially as related to infant/toddler services and services to immigrant and refugee families. The authors offer self-assessment tools, troubleshooting suggestions, planning assistance, methods for recruiting and retaining diverse staff, and other resources that could be used for preservice or inservice education. Cost: $32.95.

Restructuring schools for linguistic diversity: Linking decision making to effective programs

Roots and wings: Affirming culture in early childhood programs

York, S. (1991). Beltsville, MD: Gryphon House. Here's a tool for assisting practitioners to address the many faceted and complex issues of cultural diversity and racial prejudice. In addition to ideas for integrating cultural perspectives into all aspects of program development and service delivery it includes over 60 hands-on activities for children that shape respectful attitudes toward cultural differences. Cost: $24.95.
Starting small: Teaching tolerance in preschool and the early grades

Teaching Tolerance Project. (1997). Montgomery, AL: Southern Poverty Law Center. This video-and-text training kit offers early childhood educators strategies for implementing tolerance education programs for young children. The 250-page Starting Small book includes research-based commentary, suggestions for activities, and a comprehensive resource list. The 58-minute video highlights seven exemplary programs at sites throughout the country. Cost: $30 (includes UPS charges). NOTE: One free set of these materials is available to a school serving young children. A written request on letterhead from the elementary principal, day care director, or teacher education department chair is required.

Teaching/learning anti-racism: A developmental approach

Derman-Sparks, L., & Phillips, C.B. (1997). New York: Teachers College Press. Based on the authors' 20 years of experience teaching anti-racism to adults, this book provides both a conceptual framework and a "how to" guide for faculty who want to adapt anti-racism education for their programs. The book includes challenges, activities and teaching strategies, and analyses of students' growth, as illustrated by excerpts from journals that students were required to write as part of their course work with the authors. Cost: $16.95.

A three-way conversation:
Effective use of cultural mediators, interpreters and translators

Spectrum Project and Project A.C.T. (1999). Denver: Western Media Products. This video on the effective use of cultural mediators, interpreters, and translators provides comments and insights from both parents and service providers. Transforming curriculum, empowering faculty: Deepening teachers' understanding of race, class, culture and language

Chang, H.N., Edwards, J.O., Alvarado, C., & Pulido-Toblassen, D. with C.L. Morgan. (1999). Oakland, CA: California Tomorrow. This publication offers insights into the impact of changing demographics on community colleges, the implications of racism, classism, and cultural and linguistic diversity for campuses and early childhood education, guiding principles for effective training about equity and diversity, and strategies for implementing these principles on a personal or program level. This is a great new resource for anyone committed to rethinking the way we equip college faculty and early childhood teachers to effectively educate their diverse students. Cost: $15.00
Using children's literature to learn about disabilities and illness

Valuing diversity: The primary years

McCracken, J.H. (1997). Washington, DC: National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). This book presents ideas and suggestions for how teachers can develop and implement developmentally appropriate anti-bias curricula teaching children in early elementary school to value diversity. Guidelines for evaluating and developing curricula, environments, learning materials and activities are provided, emphasizing realistic depiction of a wide variety of human cultures and characteristics in ways that provide children with experiential learning while fostering principles of democracy alongside pride in each child's heritage. Lists of recommended resources are provided, including children's books and recordings as well as resources for teachers. Cost: $5.00.

We all belong: Multicultural child care that works

Australian Early Childhood Association. (1993). St. Paul, MN: Redleaf Press. This 26-minute videotape leads viewers on a tour of a center that has integrated the daily cultural lives of children into an early childhood setting. Basic principles they have followed are highlighted, including how families have been engaged to guide the learning about family cultures. Film segments could be used to observe and discuss inclusion, mixed-age groupings, environment, staff-child ratio, and alternatives to a "culture of the week" approach to diversity. Cost: $29.95.

Developmental continuity training modules

Region IV Education Service Center

This set of ten training modules and accompanying videotape were developed to build the capacity to implement developmentally appropriate inclusive educational programs for young children (preschool through third grade). Module topics are varied (Developmental Continuity: Foundation for Inclusion, Learning Environments, Observation and Anecdotal Records, Planning Small Group Experiences, Developing Family Partnerships), and each includes objectives, activities, training procedures, materials, transparencies and handouts. Each module was designed around the 4MAT cycle (learning for personal meaning or “why,” for content or “what,” for practice or “how,” and for application or for “what if/what next.” This is an approach to learning that uses all four learning styles/needs to maximize learner comfort while being stretched to develop other learning abilities.

Supplemental Resources

Active learning for children with disabilities

Bailey, K., Cryer, D., Harms, T., Osborne, S., & Kiest, B.A. (1996). Reading, MA: Addison-Wesley Publishing Co. This manual was designed to complement the other volumes in the Active Learning series (see Active Learning for Infants and Active Learning for Fives in this section). It provides suggestions and resources, targeted to care providers and family members, for helping young children with disabilities learn through play. Learning situations posed throughout the book could be adapted as training activities. Stock No. 0201494027. Cost: $18.95 plus shipping.

Active learning for fives

Cryer, D., Harms, T., & Ray, A.R. (1996). Menlo Park, CA: Addison-Wesley Publishing Co. This book consists of a planning guide and four activity sections (activities for listening and talking, activities for physical development, creative activities, and activities for learning from the world around them). Lots of ideas for children whose abilities are between 60 and 72 months are included, along with strategies for learning design, implementation, and follow-up. A great basic resource. Stock No. 0201494019. Cost: $25.01 plus shipping.

Active learning for infants

An activity-based approach to early intervention

Activity-based intervention

Bricker, D., Velman, P., & Munkres, A. (1995). Baltimore, MD: Paul Brookes. This practical video illustrates how activity-based intervention can be used to turn everyday events and natural interactions into opportunities to promote learning in young children of all abilities. Visual examples, suitable for preservice or inservice use, introduce ways to use daily activities to maximize growth and development. Cost: $39.00.

All kids count:
Child care and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

Doggett, L., & George, J. (1993). Arlington, TX: The Arc. This book was developed as a guide to inform the child care industry about the law and to familiarize child care providers with the importance and value of including all children in regular child care settings. Vignettes about different children are offered, which could easily be used in training. Stock No. 30-17. Cost: $11.00 includes shipping & handling.

Assessing and fostering the development of a first and a second language in early childhood: Training manual

Child Development Division. California Department of Education. (1998). Sacramento: California Department of Education. This manual is designed to help train students, staff, and parents who work with young children to assess and foster language development in children from many ethnic backgrounds. Within the context of a preschool program, team members demonstrate and describe a 6-step sequence through which they gather information, engage the participation of family members, and adjust curriculum to support young language learners. It is designed to be used with a companion resource guide (Assessing the development of a first and a second language in early childhood: Resource guide) and video (Observing preschoolers: Assessing first and second language development). Also provided are masters for overheads, handouts, and evaluation forms. Cost: Training Manual ($19.00); Resource Guide: ($10.75); Video ($12.00).

Best beginnings: Helping parents make a difference

Blueprint for action: Achieving center-based change through staff development

Bloom, P.J., Sheerer, M., & Britz, J. (1991). Beltsville, MD: Gryphon House. This book details a comprehensive method for analyzing the different components of a child-serving program with an eye toward increasing effectiveness. It also has terrific resources for assessing organizational and individual needs, implementing plans for staff development, evaluating programs (and improvements), and preparing staff/students to do the same. Cost: $28.95.

Brain power curriculum

Pacific Science Center, Brain Power Program. (1993). Seattle, WA: Author. This curriculum was designed to increase the knowledge of middle school students about the brain and the way it works. It includes fun, easy, interactive activities for learners of many ages (e.g., building a brain out of instant potato flakes) that illustrate brain functioning, complexity and potential. Cost: $15.00.
Building your baby's brain: A parent's guide to the first five years
Dodge, D.T., & Heroman, C. (1999). Washington, D.C.: Teaching Strategies, Inc. This booklet meets several of our favorite criteria: it's clearly-written, grounded in research, great for sharing information with families (or modeling how students can do the same). Topics include touching your baby, talking and listening, sharing books together, art, music and math, moving and doing, relating to others, and playing. Single copies are FREE in English and in Spanish from the U.S. Department of Education (1-877-4ED-Pubs) while supplies last.

Caring for infants and toddlers in groups: Developmentally appropriate practice
Lally, J.R., Griffin, A., Fenichel, E., Segal, M., Szanton, E., & Weissbourd, R. (1995). Washington, DC: ZERO TO THREE/The National Center. Designed to increase recognition of the special knowledge and skill needed to offer quality care to very young children, this publication highlights examples of appropriate and inappropriate caregiver responses, stories illustrating day-to-day experiences, and other resources for teaching and training. Request item #126. Cost: $17.00.

Child care and the ADA: A handbook for inclusive programs
Rab, V.Y., & Wood, K.J. (1995). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. Designed for educators and administrators in child care settings, this how-to guide offers a straightforward discussion of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and including children with disabilities in community programs. Specific strategies for understanding the regulations, making appropriate changes to comply with the ADA, preparing staff to work with children with disabilities and their families, locating community support, and much more are illustrated through case studies, resource lists and other instructional resources. Cost: $25.95.

The creative curriculum for early childhood

The creative curriculum for infants & toddlers
Dombro, A.L., Colker, L.J., & Dodge, D.T. (1997). (Rev.). Washington, DC: Teaching Strategies. Here's a well-organized framework for planning infant and toddlers programs in both family and center settings. Relationships among children, family members, caregivers, and the community form the basis for sections on planning, routines, and activities. Practical approaches to guiding behavior, individualizing, and evaluating are also included. The companion Trainer's Guide provides extensive guidance for training, technical assistance, and supervision related to implementing the curriculum. Cost: $54.95 (curriculum); $27.95 (trainer's guide).

Schuyler, V., & Sowers, J. (1985). [4th ed.] Portland, OR: Hearing and Speech Institute. Here's a family-centered curriculum of listening and communication skills development for children, birth to four years of age, with hearing loss or language delay. It's divided into three sections: materials for use with children (objectives, landmarks, and activities, all of which are keyed to family involvement); materials for families; and materials for students/practitioners. Cost: $55.00.

Pathways to teaching:
A guide for beginning early childhood teachers

Peacock, L., & Johnson, W. (1996). Dubuque, IA: Kendall/Hunt Publishing Company. This resource is designed to provide beginning teachers with information and experiences that develop teaching skills and build confidence. Activities and worksheets promote active learning about early childhood environments and programs for students in child development and early childhood education. Could also be used for inservice training of paraprofessionals or early childhood teachers. Cost: $30.95.

Prime times:
A handbook for excellence in infant and toddler programs

The project approach catalog 2

Project Approach Study Group. (1998). Champaign, IL: ERIC Clearinghouse on Elementary and Early Childhood Education. This resource offers a variety of examples of Project Approach to supporting the learning of preschool and primary school children. Background on project work, examples of projects from around the world, internet resources, and implementation resources are included. Cost: $10.00. Available online at http://ericps.crc.uiuc.edu/eece/pubs/books/projcat2.html.
Promoting change in state policy decisionmaking on quality infant/toddler child care and Head Start services:
Study of a technical assistance forum

Protective urges

California Department of Education. (1995). Sacramento, CA: Author. In this videotape, caregiving and support for the development of very young children is explored from family and provider perspectives. In useful terms, parents speak candidly about their concerns, caregivers discuss ways to provide assistance, and both groups work out conflicting feelings about caregiver/child relationships. Part of the Culture, family and providers module described on page 17. Available in Spanish and Chinese. Stock No. 1270. Cost $65.00.

Quality child care: Making the right choice for you and your child

I Am Your Child/Early Childhood Public Engagement Campaign. (1998). New York: Author. This extremely high quality tape, narrated by Maria Shriver, provides clear, useful guidelines for evaluating center-based, family-based and in-home options. Brain development, the importance of early relationships, developing ongoing relationships with providers, the trauma of starting child care, responding to the needs of individual children, and working with employers are among the topics covered clearly and effectively. Cost: $5.00.

Rearview mirror: Reflections on a preschool car project

Reflecting children’s lives: A handbook for planning child-centered curriculum

Curtis, D., & Carter, M. (1996). Saint Paul, MN: Redleaf Press. This publication provides some new approaches that encourage practitioners to reconsider their ideas about scheduling, observation, play, materials, space, and emergent themes for infants, toddlers, and young children. Charts, assessment tools, and note-taking spaces can be used for teaching, training, or implementation. Cost: $21.95.
Rethinking the brain: Early childhood brain development presentation kit

Families and Work Institute. (1998). New York: Author. This kit translates the groundbreaking report Rethinking the Brain into a set of materials designed for a broad array of audiences. Included in the kit are a Presentation Guide (key points, sample script, suggestions for tailoring presentations for specific audiences), set of 37 full color transparencies, and CD-ROM (contains disk files of the Presentation Guide and transparencies). Cost: $205.00 (includes postage and handling).

Rethinking the brain: New insights in to early development

Shore, R. (1997). New York: Families and Work Institute. Researchers and practitioners from fields as diverse as neurobiology, education and human services are developing new insights into early childhood development, especially that of the brain. This report, based on proceedings from a groundbreaking conference on the topic in 1996, summarizes this growing body of information and explores its profound implications for future early childhood research, policy, and practice. Supplemental pages describe strategies for sharing this content with diverse audiences. Cost: $25.00.

School-Age Care Environment Rating Scalc (SACERS)

Harms, T., Jacobs, E.V., & White, D.R. (1995). Williston, VT: Teacher’s College Press. Based on research evidence, professional criteria, and common knowledge, this scale provides an easy to use resource for defining high-quality care and assessing levels of quality in child care programs. Seven categories, including considerations for children with special needs, are covered. The SACERS could easily be used as a training tool, in conjunction with self-assessment, program improvement, or quality monitoring. Cost: $8.95.

Small wonders: Early brain development

National Center for Family Literacy. (1998). Louisville, KY: Author. Here’s a 12-minute video that distills to a simple form the latest information from brain research. By following a child and caregiver through typical routines and illustrating brain development through ordinary activities, this tape provides a concise, inexpensive professional development tool for multiple audiences. The opening segment on neurobiology is clear and concise, and the segment on windows (critical periods) for development is nicely done. Cost: $15.00.

Smalltalk: Creating conversations with young children

Goldman, B. D., Roberts, J. E., & Nychka, H. B. (1991). Chicago, IL: Riverside Publishing Company. This series of six videotapes illustrates how daycare providers, preschool teachers, and other early childhood specialists can help infants and young children, including those with special needs, develop the skills necessary to interact and communicate successfully. Stock #No. 922005. Cost: $206.00 (complete series with 6 videotapes and brochures in a box).

Parents can be their child's best and most important teachers

El Valor. (1998). Chicago: Author. Using culturally diverse family members and illustrations, this video shows how parents and other care providers can assist with brain development through reading, communication, music and play every day. The tape may be viewed either in Spanish (first half) or in English (second half). Cost: Free with written explanation of how material will be used.

Stepping up: Financing early care and education in the 21st century

Talking with preschoolers

Child Development Division, California Department of Education. (1998). Sacramento: California Department of Education. This videotape is designed to help preschool team members and family members to develop skills and strategies for meeting the needs of culturally and linguistically diverse children. The tape is organized in short segments on different aspects of language, listening, and literacy development, suitable for introducing key concepts. A companion print resource (Fostering the development of a first and a second language in early childhood: Resource guide) offers additional material for teaching, training, and staff development. Cost: Video ($12.00). Resource Guide ($10.75).

Supplemental Resources

Breaking the news

Institute for Families of Blind Children. (1990). Los Angeles: Author. This 15-minute videotape was developed for physicians but has application to interdisciplinary training audiences. It handles the content of sharing difficult diagnostic information sensitively and is a treasure at $10.00.

Child observation techniques

Drake, A., & Kubetz, D. (1994). Glen Ellyn, IL: Office of Instructional Design, College of DuPage. This 27-minute videotape offers visual samples, guided practice, and feedback leading to the development of basic skills for observation. The examples that are provided for both toddlers and infants are not discipline-specific, and would be suitable for training of interdisciplinary paraprofessional and professional audiences. Cost: $79.95.

Communication with preverbal infants and young children

University of Colorado Health Sciences Center, School of Nursing. (1990). Lawrence, KS: Learner Managed Designs, Inc. This set of materials includes a videotape, index of test items (for pre- and post-test), master copy of test items for reproduction, answer key and user's manual. Stock No. 1009. Cost: $198.00 (videotape, manual, test packet).

Cultural and linguistic diversity and IDEA: An evaluation resource guide

Center for Innovation in Special Education (CISE). (1999). Columbia, MO: Author. In response to Missouri's growing cultural and linguistic diversity, this publication addresses key cultural considerations in evaluation and assessment. Nice resource sections range from professional organizations to home language surveys in eight languages. Cost: Free copies are available for loan (LP 12278) from the Center for Innovations in Special Education. The document is also available on the web at http://tiger.coe.missouri.edu/~mocise/ under the publications section.

Early infant assessment redefined

Pathways Awareness Foundation. (1992). Chicago, IL: Author. This video is a longer version of Is my baby OK? and offers good teaching/training material in the areas of honoring family concerns about child development, family-centered interactions, and recognizing milestones of physical development. Cost: $24.95.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
First years together: A curriculum for use in interventions with high risk infants and their families
Hornak, R.T., & Carothers, L.H. (1989). Raleigh, NC: Project Enlightenment. Designed to provide sensitive opportunities to acquaint parents with their infant’s characteristics through formal and informal assessments, this compilation provides lots of good information about infant/toddler development and praise/encouragement for families. Cost: $20.00.

Improving the post-assessment process: Families and teams together
Moore, S., Ferguson, A., & Eiseman, W. (1995). Boulder, CO: Department of Communication Disorders and Speech Science, University of Colorado at Boulder. This videotape integrates comments from family members and professionals as support for developing family-centered approaches to post-assessment information sharing and service planning. The tape is well-organized and useful for integrating with other training, activities. Cost: $10.00 plus postage.

Increasing family participation in the assessment of children birth to five
Crais, E.K. (1996). Chicago, IL: Applied Symbolix. These materials (workbook and six audiotapes) share information and strategies related to facilitating active participation by all caregivers in planning, conducting, analyzing, reporting, and interpreting assessment activities and results. They provide an overview of the main issues within each of six sections, detailed handouts within the manual with examples or references, and audio examples. Designed for self-study, the examples could be easily be adapted for use in preservice or inservice training. Stock No. 9-22679. Cost: $59.00.

Infant motor development: A look at the phases
Goudy, K., & Winger, J. (1988). Tuscon, AZ: Therapy Skill Builders. This set of materials includes a videotape, instructor's booklet and a pre-/post-test format. Cost: $69.00 plus shipping & handling.

Informed clinical opinion

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Is my baby OK? (¿Está bien mi bebé?)
Pathways Awareness Foundation. (1993). Chicago, IL: Author. The first half of this video shows interactions between parents with developmental concerns about their children and physicians who are not concerned. These vignettes are great training examples for good and better and leave plenty of room for role-playing best interactions. The second half shows two different six-month old infants, one with typical motor skills and one with delayed motor skills, which could be used to develop observation and description skills. Cost: $9.95.

New visions for the developmental assessment of infants and young children

Non-biased assessment of the African-American child
Wyatt, T. (1993). Layton, UT: Ladnar Media Group. This 62-minute videotape synthesizes current research, nonbiased assessment approaches, and clinical considerations specific to the language development of African-American children. Factual information covered includes differences in learning and communication styles, and differences between children from urban and rural settings. While some child language samples are provided, the majority of the film is in a lecture format, so skilled trainers may want to alternate didactic videotape segments with complimentary, interactive learning activities. Cost: $58.90.

Screening and assessment: Guidelines for identifying young disabled and developmentally vulnerable children and their families

Technical assistance document for the category of developmentally delayed and use of professional judgment
New Mexico State Department of Education. (1999). Albuquerque, NM: Early Childhood Network, Center for Development and Disabilities. This resource includes a series of questions to guide professional judgement decisions, definitions of the components of the process of professional judgement, steps in the professional judgement decision-making process, guidelines for professional judgement decision-making, and additional considerations (service provision, monitoring considerations, exit criteria). Three case studies offer additional material for supporting teaching and training. Cost: FREE while supplies last.

Family-Professional Collaboration

This section lists materials for assisting individuals and programs in movement toward family-centered practices and effective collaboration.

Primary Resources

Brass tacks: Part I—Program policies and practices
Part II—Individual interactions with families

P. J. McWilliam & Pamela J. Winton

Instruments designed to assist groups (interdisciplinary professionals, family members, administrators) or individual professionals who have regular contact with families. The instruments help to determine the extent to which their interactions, practices, and policies are family-centered and to identify specific areas for change. Using a facilitated self-rating process, the instruments can be used to facilitate examination of early intervention practices in four key areas: "First Encounters with Families," "Identifying Goals for Intervention (Child and family assessment)," "Intervention Planning for Children and Families," and "Day-to-day Service Provision." Structures and strategies are also provided for prioritizing and tracking program or individual movement toward more family-centered practices. Companion instruments for obtaining families' reactions (The Family Report and The Family Report-nicu are available, as well as a Brass Tacks-nicu version.

Building parent/professional collaboration: Facilitator's guide

Project Copernicus, Kennedy Krieger Institute

This training program is one in a series (Train the Trainer Series in Family-Centered Service Delivery) designed to address key issues in family-centered care. This particular resource is designed for sessions in which both parents and professionals are participating. The overall format is specific and detailed in outlining the "how to's" and offers all materials necessary for each of nine activities (defining collaboration, building mutual trust and respect, clarifying roles and expectations, communicating, problem solving and conflict resolution strategies, and specific steps to strengthen relationships between parents and professionals. A structured, step-by-step guide provides facilitators with the purpose, time required, learning strategies, and specific materials needed for each activity, but allows for individualized applications of the materials.

Delivering family-centered, home-based services

Larry Edelman

This videotape includes five vignettes, developed to be shown one at a time, followed by discussions and activities that are included in the facilitator's guide. Each illustrates what happens when service providers fail to practice family-centered principles. Roles are played by actual families and service providers, and stories are based on real-life situations. Each vignette illustrates a different theme and is organized in a manner that allows trainers to show a vignette, pause for discussion, show the "actors" reflecting on their interaction, and pause for additional discussion. Background on family-centered principles, objectives, and ideas for additional activities are also included. For many audiences they offer an opportunity to show an interaction, then invite a discussion of how the interaction might have occurred in a more family-friendly manner.

Empowerment skills for family workers

Christiana Dean, Betsy Crane, Jean Anne Dull, & Bud Lawrence

A set of three related monographs form this comprehensive curriculum from the New York State Family Development Training and Credentialing Program. Chapters address competencies in areas that include building mutually respectful relationships with families, communication, cultural competence, home visiting, and collaboration. The Trainer's Manual includes enough activities, discussion questions, transparencies, and handouts for over 100 hours of interactive training sessions. The Field Advisor's Manual includes portfolio forms and other materials that can be used to support and supervise practica. The Worker Handbook provides resources, questions, and activities for extending individual learning. These are materials that could easily be used in preservice or inservice settings to develop skills and competencies necessary for effective family-professional collaboration.

A guide for embedding family information in an entry-level physical therapy curriculum

Joyce W. Sparling

Spiral bound compilation that includes goals, objectives, and strategies (with readings and overhead materials) for four courses: "Human Growth and Development," "Clinical Education I," "Pediatrics," and "Psychiatry and Mental Health." An overall need and philosophy statement supports the serial presentation of material that emphasizes the family as the unit of health. Any one course or units within any course can be extracted and embedded into an existing curriculum. Though fairly academic in orientation, these materials might be modified for inservice application.

Infusing family-centered practices into agency administration
Patricia Parham & Patricia McMahon
This brief but significant manual offers information intended to facilitate the use of family-centered principles within and across agencies. Its format is straightforward, offering information about the aspect of administration (i.e., governing board), providing questions about how families are (or could be) involved in that aspect of administration, and offering examples from their practice when possible. The questions could easily form the core of a team-based decision-making activity, with an accompanying plan of action or change.

Practical strategies for family-centered intervention

P.J. McWilliam, Pamela J. Winton, & Elizabeth Crais

This book provides, in a down-to-earth format, practical strategies for working with families in early intervention contexts. Chapters describe strategies related to the following points of contact with families: developing initial partnerships with families; identifying family concerns, resources, and priorities; collaborating with families in assessment and evaluation; developing intervention plans; and maintaining day-to-day contact. A final chapter focuses on strategies for making changes in program and individual family-centered practices. The book is interspersed with illustrations and examples that ground the information in a real world context. Materials could easily be used in conjunction with other resources (e.g., see Brass Tacks on page 29), and applications to inservice training or preservice education are clear.

Someday's child

Lynda Pletcher

This resource is designed to stimulate a discussion of key concerns needs and hopes common to families who have young children with disabilities. Three families describe their experiences with the emphasis being on how important it is for professionals to listen and to respond to their hopes and concerns. The facilitator's guide includes a transcript of the tape interspersed with questions that could be posed to professionals and parents. This resource would be a good one to use if a training goals were to facilitate a discussion of key issues among parents and professionals.

Supplemental Resources

Beyond the grief
Kentucky Developmental Disabilities Planning Council. (1990). Frankfort, KY: Author. In this sequel to the video “Good Grief,” Ken Moses expands on his theories about how each of the grieving stages works and the role they play in moving beyond the loss of the “normal” child to appreciation for the child they parents actually have. Cost: $10.00 includes tax, postage & handling.

Building the healing partnership

Celebrating family strengths: A curriculum for educators
PACER Center. (1993). Minneapolis, MN: Author. The activities in this curriculum were designed to build self-esteem in children by gaining a strong positive view of themselves and their families. They can easily be used to help children, families and service providers appreciate the unique strengths of different family designs and systems. Cost: $10.00.

Charlotte Circle intervention guide for parent-child interactions

A credo for support
Kunc, N., & Van de Klift, E. (1995). Nanaimo, BC: Axis Consultation & Training, Ltd. This powerful 4-minute (closed captioned) video set to music offers a series of suggestions for people who care about and support someone with a disability. It prompts viewers to question the common perceptions of disability, professionalism, and support. Designed for use in preservice, inservice, staff training, and orientation programs, this video can be a provocative catalyst for a dialogue on these issues. Cost: $33.00.

Do you hear what I hear? Parents and professionals working together for children with special needs

Fialka, J., & Mikus, K.C. Ann Arbor, MI: Proctor Publications, LLC. Cutting through the rhetoric and jargon of the partnerships literature, Janice Fialka and Karen Mikus offer us an entirely fresh, dynamic, and interactive way to gain new insights. As an educator, you may find this is a useful supplemental text on assessment and intervention or to bring the power of the personal voice into the classroom and training. Cost: $10.

Effective communication for parents and professionals

Duffy, S., Phillips, S., Davis, S. Maloney, T., Stromnes, J., Miller, B., & Larson, K. (1992). Missoula, MT: University of Montana, Rural Institute on Disabilities. This sequence of topical activities address aspects of parent-professional communication in an information plus follow-up activities format that could be easily used in preservice or inservice applications. There are some clever headings to describe the aspect of communication being targeted. For example, the unit on nonverbal communication is called "His Mouth Said Yes! Yes! But His Eyes Said No! No!" Other sections have to do with improving the communication climate, assertiveness, and leading and participating in meetings. All material necessary for use of each section is provided. Cost: $8.00.

Equals in this partnership: Parents of disabled and at-risk infants and toddlers speak to professionals

Families and schools: An essential partnership

SouthEastern Regional Vision for Education (SERVE). (1996). Tallahassee, FL: Author. This resource is designed to assist personnel in developing effective family involvement strategies, programs, and partnerships. Using an inclusive definition of family, the document offers a self-assessment instrument and process for increasing collaboration, information about successful models, tools and examples for supporting collaboration, and information about additional resources. For teaching and training, this resource can compliment other family-centered methods and materials focused on school-age children. Cost: $5.00.

Family album

Portage Project. (1988). Portage, WI: Author. This 23-minute videotape shares the experiences, feelings and concerns of parents raising a child with a disability. A particularly useful section is the in which families describe the qualities they look for in home visitors. An discussion guide offers suggestions for increased awareness and improved relationships. Cost: $40.00.
Family-centered care: An approach to implementation

Hostler, S. L., M.D. (Ed.). (1994). Charlottesville, VA: Kluge Medical Center, University of Virginia. This resource does a fine job of describing a nationally representative sample of models for implementation of family-centered practices. A useful collection for promoting improvements on or alternatives to existing personnel preparation and service delivery models. Cost: $20.00 plus postage.

Family-centered care: Bloopers, blunders and their alternatives

Munroe-Meyer Institute. (1993). Omaha, NE: Munroe-Meyer Institute, Media Center. Nine principles that are critical to family-centered care are illustrated in this videotape. While the bloopers and blunders are exaggerations of real life situations, they do emphasize the infractions of family-centered care that service providers often make. At an awareness level, this resource can promote discussion, at an application level it can inspire role plays that build student/practitioner capability. Cost: $95.00.

Family-focused practice in out-of-home care: A handbook and resource directory

Brazel, D.J. (1996). Washington, DC: Child Welfare League of America. This publication is designed to help leaders in out-of-home care agencies to bring a family focus to their policy, administrative, and program structures. Background articles, first person narratives, measures, sample forms/formats, handouts, and exercises can be used to shape individual or collective attitudes and policies regarding the need for a comprehensive array of services to address the needs of children who are living apart from their families on either a temporary or long-term basis. This is an interesting resource providing training material that comes at family-centered practice from the slightly different perspective of out-of-home care. Cost: $18.95.

Family/professional collaboration for children with special health needs and their families

Bishop, K.K., Woll, J., & Arango, P. (1993). Burlington, VT: Department of Social Work, University of Vermont. This monograph has some nice quotes, some useful lists, and some good supporting information on important aspects of collaboration. Examples are pulled from both health and education. Cost: FREE.

Good grief

Kentucky Developmental Disabilities Planning Council (1990). Frankfort, KY: Author. This 40-minute videotape focuses on the grieving process associated with parenting a child with disabilities. Ken Moses explores how the process helps parents make changes necessary to live with a child, and life that is quite different from what was anticipated. Cost: $10.00 includes shipping & handling.

Hospitals moving forward with family-centered care

Hanson, J. L., Johnson, B. H., Jeppson, E. S., Thomas, J., & Hall, J. H. (1994). Bethesda, MD: Institute for Family-Centered Care. This publication is designed to encourage hospital staff, governing and advisory boards, and families to engage in a process of change toward family-centered care. Lists and worksheets could easily be used in training to discuss how hospitals can translate family-centered principles into practice. Cost: $10.00.

Involving fathers in early intervention and family support programs: Issues and strategies

Listening to families

American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) Research and Education Foundation. (1995). Van Nuys, CA: Child Development Media, Inc. This 13-tape series is designed to provide teaching examples of effective communication and interviewing skills. Two tapes are content specific (Exploring Family Strengths and Building a Family Partnership). The remaining tapes illustrate in-depth (60 minute) conversations between therapists and families of young children with disabilities. The families are diverse in both culture and configuration. Accompanying brochures offer highlights of each video, including teaching objectives and discussion questions. Cost: $85.00 per tape.

On this journey together

Ohio Department of Mental Retardation/Developmental Disabilities. (1991). Columbus: Author. This series of four videotapes (approximately 22 minutes each) is made up of interviews with members of sixteen Ohio families that include children (ages 2-13) with disabilities. Each tape addresses a different topic, including “The Early Days” (initial reactions to diagnoses and labels, helpful strategies), “Partnering with Professionals” (successes and frustrations in working with the professionals who provide services), “Building Brighter Futures” (dreams and expectations, including how to keep them alive), and “Resources for Families” (accepting assistance and support from friends, families, community, and service agencies). Compelling stories and examples for inservice or preservice training. Cost: $10.95 each; $34.95 for all four.

One of the family

Early Connections for Infants, Toddlers and Families, Colorado Department of Education. (1998). Denver: Western Media Products. Four culturally diverse families, each with a young child with disabilities. Each family warmly describes the values that motivate them: including their child in all family activities, treating them as a children first, expecting the most from them, looking for a normal family life, and choosing professionals who support their values. Cost: $39.95.

Supporting families

Benn, R. (1994). Detroit, MI: Merrill-Palmer Institute, Wayne State University. This videotape and accompanying manual can be used in a variety of ways: as a informational resource on the Part H process, a training tool on family-centered practices, or a catalyst for discussion of key early intervention concepts or values. Some videotape segments are a little dry, and some are Michigan Early On-specific, but the discussion are thoughtful and could promote valuable discussion and learning. Cost: $9.30. Cost: $10.00 (videotape); $3.00 (scrapbook).

IFSP/IEP

This section includes resources for sharing information and promoting learning about the IFSP and IEP processes.

Primary Resources

Developing individualized family support plans:
A training manual

Tess Bennett, Barbara V. Lingerfelt, & Donna E. Nelson

This curriculum provides an intensive and comprehensive inservice training plan for learning the process of developing Individualized Family Support Plans (IFSPs). The workbook is organized into three sessions: a rationale for the IFSP, principles of family-centered assessment and intervention (four interrelated modules) and case studies/activities. Each section includes trainer's notes, a preview of important points, discussion questions, space for note taking, subject matter content and related activities, and checklists for review. In addition, the authors provide a general trainer's section which reviews principles of adult learning, options for effective training schedules and strategies for maximizing the effective use of the materials.

Family and the IFSP process

Project Copernicus, Kennedy Krieger Institute

This instructional package includes a 90-minute training video and a facilitator's guide. The videotape is structured to provide information about and illustrations of key landmarks in the IFSP process (first contacts, development of outcomes, identifying family concerns, priorities and resources, initial IFSP meetings, development of transition plans). The illustrations take the form of vignettes in which practices that are less than family-centered are shown in black and white and family-centered approaches are shown in color. Viewers can easily be cued to watch for specific actions that may create barriers or that foster positive, collaborative relationships. The accompanying facilitator's guide provides clear suggestions for use of the materials as part of a statewide, local, inservice, preservice, part-day or multi-day training experience, along with activities and handouts.

Family-centered intervention planning:
A routines-based approach

R. A. McWilliam

This book guides classroom-based team members and parents through five stages of planning interventions: 1) preparation, 2) assessment, 3) outcome selection, 4) outcome writing, and 5) review. It provides a sequential model through which families are the primary decision makers for their children's interventions, with input from professionals. An extensive selection of forms and checklists are provided and material could easily be adapted for preservice or inservice application.

Handbook for the development of a family-friendly Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP)

Vicki Turbiville, Ilene Lee, Ann Turnbull, & Douglas Murphy

This handbook captures the process of IFSP development used at the Beach Center on Families and Disability. The first ("A Holistic View of the Individualized Family Service Plan") section contains general information on the IFSP process. Four additional sections correspond roughly to the stages of development of the IFSP: "The Initial Meeting with the Family," "The Evaluation of the Child," "The Planning of the IFSP," and "The Actual IFSP Meeting." Sections contain key principles or guidelines, activities, forms and additional resources.

Implementing family-centered services in early intervention: A team-based model for change

Donald B. Bailey, P. J. McWilliam, Pamela J. Winton, & Rune Simeonsson

This monograph describes a team-based decision-making workshop for implementing family-centered services in early intervention. It differs from a typical training curriculum in that it focuses on the decisions that teams must make as they seek to become family-centered. It was developed to provide the structure for a four-day workshop in which teams (paraprofessionals, professionals, family members, administrators) progress from identification of the elements of a family-centered approach to identifying, establishing and tracking their plan for ensuring that positive change occurs. Goal, handouts, and transparencies are provided.

Maryland’s IFSP process: A facilitator’s guide for training

Project Copernicus, Kennedy Krieger Institute
In collaboration with the Maryland Infants and Toddlers Program

A family-centered process for the IFSP is described, with a training program to prepare providers to participate in the IFSP process. Included are detailed information on policies, procedures and best practices, situation studies and skill-building activities. While small sections of the content are definitely Maryland-specific, most of the curriculum could be used in any state.

Supplemental Resources

Colorado guidelines for the IFSP process

Miller, J., & Petersen, S. (1998). Denver, CO: Colorado Department of Education. This thoughtful booklet delineates a process full of possibilities and illustrates them with many suggestions, checklists and family stories. Instructionally, the examples could be used to compare/contrast with policies and procedures of other states and the stories could be used as mini-cases. Cost: Single copies are free from the Colorado Department of Education.

Creating a vision: The Individual Family Service Plan

Colorado Interagency Coordinating Council and Colorado Department of Education. (1990). Denver, CO: Denver Early Childhood Connection. [Videotape]. This 30-minute tape illustrates Colorado’s model for developing and implementing the IFSP, including the priority for the IFSP process to be adaptable, flexible, family-centered and supportive of families’ values, goals and dreams. Cost: $10.00 plus shipping and handling.

A family’s guide to the Individualized Family Service Plan

Cripe, J.J.W. (1995). Baltimore, MD: Paul Brookes. Very straightforward information about the IFSP provided through videotape of families working with professionals with voiceover narration and family remarks about the process. The videotape presents informative content, but doesn’t address IFSP process issues. Could easily be paired with discussion questions about local /state variations in process, models of service delivery (direct, consultative), and financing. Cost: $44.00.

The IEP: A tool for realizing possibilities

PEAK Parent Center. (1999). Colorado Springs, CO: Author. This upbeat and non-technical video was designed to support family members in being more active players in meetings that are critical to the education of their children. Companion facts, personal statements, updates specific to IDEA 1997 amendments make this a nice tool for teaching, training or staff development. Available in English and Spanish. Cost: $23.00.

Indiana’s guide to the Individualized Family Service Plan

Into our lives

Hunt, M., Cornelius, P., Leventhal, P., Miller, P., Murray, T., & Stoner, G. (1991). Tallmadge, OH: Family Child Learning Center. This guidebook was written by families of children with disabilities as a way to help families and professionals better understand and navigate the IFSP process. Cost: $7.00.

Routine based IEP

Early Childhood Collaborative Services Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. This is a nice, straightforward workbook, with ideas and activities for reflecting family routines and activity-based goals in IEPs. Cost: $6.00.

The steps to creating a better IFSP

Community Inclusion Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. A serialized story of the Cañelatto family weaves together the sections of this resource which offers content, activities, vignettes and checklists for creating better IFSPs. The sections on promoting participation in natural environments, assigning [transdisciplinary] intervention responsibilities, and evaluating early intervention are particularly strong. Cost: $20.00.

Inclusion

This section identifies materials for promoting well-designed, integrated environments and programs that supports the development of all young children.

Primary Resources

Achieving inclusion through the IEP process:
A workbook for parents

Maryland Coalition for Integrated Education

This workbook was created to help parents in designing Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) and designing strategies for achieving integrated school placements. It is organized in two parts: laying the groundwork for decision making, and achieving inclusion through the IEP process. The activities ("Developing a Vision" and "Creating New Goals and Objectives") include all necessary forms and follow a clear, supportive sequence for families. They could also be activities for training teams who are involved in the design, preparation and implementation of IEPs. This material has been highly recommended (and successfully used) by families.

Best practices in integration (BPI) inservice training model

Susan M. Klein & Susan Kontos

BPI is an inservice training model for persons delivering services for infants, toddlers and preschool children with special needs within community-based early childhood settings. The emphasis of the Guide and Instructional Modules is systems change through community resource networks, a training process to ensure knowledge and skill regarding collaborative consultation by early interventionists, and a technical assistance process to facilitate the integration of young children with special needs in regular early childhood programs and successful collaboration among all partners. These are well thought-out materials and a bargain for the price.

Mainstreaming works: A manual for training child caregivers and integrating children with disabilities in child care settings

Florida State University, Center for Prevention and Early Intervention Policy

These materials were designed for use as a 10-hour training emphasizing strategies for adapting child care environments to meet the needs of young children with disabilities. The manual is organized into seven sections: an instructor's guide, five modules (exploring attitudes, working with families and professionals, recognizing signs of atypical development, facilitating developmentally appropriate environments for children with disabilities, and illustrations of integration) and an appendix entitled, Answers for owners and operators. The materials are carefully organized and include everything from sample letters to participants to certificates of training completion.

Specialcare curriculum and trainer's manual

Child Development Resources, Inc.

This is a complete core curriculum trainer's manual and supporting materials that can be used to train home- and center-based caregivers to help them care for young children with disabilities in inclusive child care settings. SpecialCare has been field tested with more than 186 home- and center-based child care providers. Evaluation results indicate that caregivers' comfort, knowledge and interest in caring for children with disabilities increased following training. Parents of children with disabilities living in communities where SpecialCare training was provided reported that care was significantly more available following training.

Strategies for preschool intervention in everyday settings (SPIES): A video-assisted program for educators and families

Sarah Rule & Barbara Lancelot

The SPIES curriculum is designed to introduce intervention strategies that can be used with children who have disabilities, special health needs, or are at risk for the development of a disability. Using everyday settings as the context for intervention, these very thorough materials introduce strategies that can be used to help children master IEP or IFSP objectives. While the primary age range targeted is preschool (3–5), there is also content specific to infants and toddlers (0–2). The curriculum is divided into six modules (Creating Teaching Opportunities, Providing Help, Incidental Teaching, Tracking Progress, Prior to Preschool, and Planning Intervention Across the Day), each of which includes facilitator materials, participant materials (handouts), and a companion videotape. A CD-ROM version is also available.

This 27-minute videocassette provides images of children (3–6) with severe and multiple disabilities effectively integrated in Montessori classrooms. Special educators, early educators, and parents of both children with disabilities and children who are developing typically, share initial concerns, experiences, and outcomes. High-quality footage and lots of applications to preservice or inservice. Stock No. 103b. Cost: $99.00.

Educatng Peter

Ambrose Video Publishing, Inc. (1989). New York. Author. This 30-minute videocassette is the Academy Award-winning story of one child with Down syndrome and his classmates in Mrs. Stallings' third grade class in Blacksburg, Virginia. The video, with accompanying study guide, could be used to illustrate and explore a variety of inclusion concepts. This video has appeal for all ages, including elementary-aged children. Cost: $79.95 plus shipping & handling.

Getting together: A Head Start/school district collaboration

Lindeman, D.P., & Adams, T. (1997). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. In this video and booklet, the directors of a school district’s special education program and a local Head Start program describe how they collaborate to include children with disabilities in Head Start classrooms. The materials address issues such as leadership, staff support, and policy development. Strong messages about interagency collaboration to support inclusion are reinforced through auditory and visual channels. Cost: $46.00.

Handbook for the inclusion of young children with severe disabilities

Hello my friends

British Columbia Association for Community Living. (1992). Vancouver, BC: Author. This videotape shows successful integration strategies in the New Ungraded Primary Program in British Columbia. One of the highlights is portions of a mapping process being conducted for a student named Ian. Cost: $45.00.

Including preschool-age children with disabilities in community settings

deFosset, S., & Danaher, J. (Eds.). (1999). Chapel Hill, NC: Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center, NECTAS. This resource packet comes in three parts. Part I offers perspectives on inclusion, inclusive strategies and practices, and legislative foundations. Part II delineates information sources on inclusive programs and practices, including organizations, consortia, technical assistance centers. It also includes an annotated bibliography. Part III describes resources on inclusion developed by OSPP-funded early childhood projects. Cost: $15.00 [includes shipping and handling of all three parts].

Inclusion: A right, not a privilege

Community Inclusion Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. This resource was designed to support families in finding community early childhood programs that meet the needs of their young children with disabilities. It describes what inclusion is, legal rights and entitlements, what a "good" inclusive program looks like, and step-by-step strategies to bring about inclusion. Teaching/training examples abound for many audiences. Cost: $10.00.

The inclusive early childhood classroom: Easy ways to adapt learning centers for all children

Gould, P., & Sullivan, J. (1999). Beltsville, MD: Gryphon House. Each chapter of this book describes practical ways to adjust centers and routines for children with special needs. The suggestions will enable diverse learners to stay involved in developmentally appropriate routines and center-based activities. Examples could also be used instructionally to provide students with opportunities to practice adapting environments. Categories of disabilities that are targeted by the suggestions include developmental delays, orthopedic impairments, pervasive developmental disorder (PDD) and autism, attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) and behavioral issues, motor planning problems, and visual impairments. Cost: $24.95.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Inclusive schooling practices: Pedagogical and research foundations

McGregor, G., & Vogelsberg, R.T. (1998). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This publication provides a thoughtful synthesis of the literature that informs best practices about inclusive schooling. Methods, models, cases and examples abound. and outcomes are elaborated by group (children with disabilities, children without disabilities, parents, teachers, etc.). You can use this resource instructionally (set up a staged debate, build advocacy) or to guide student research. Royalties from the sale of this publication are being donated to the Public Interest Law Center of Philadelphia in support of their ongoing efforts to assist families in obtaining inclusive school services for their children. Stock #3955 Cost: $24.95.

Just friends

Texas Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities. (1994). Austin, TX: Author. This 16-minute video introduces individuals with disabilities and friends they have made through Community Connections projects in Texas. They share personal stories, thoughts, and experiences while offering examples of the role that friendship can play in breaking the social isolation of individuals with disabilities. A nice vision of future possibilities for families and professionals. Cost: Free at 1-800-262-0334.

Learning to play, playing to learn: Recreation as a related service

Center for Recreation and Disability Studies, University of North Carolina. (1995). Chapel Hill, NC: Author. If you want to know more about recreation/leisure as a related service, especially for young children with disabilities in inclusive settings, this 20-minute video is the one for you. Accompanying print material provides some experiential learning activities, discussion questions, and handout prototype. Cost: $25.00.

Making dreams happen: How to facilitate the MAPs process

University of Vermont Center for Transition and Employment. (1997). Waterbury, VT: Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. This 45-minute video discusses and illustrates the MAP (Making Action Plan) approach to planning, with emphasis on plans that relate to IEPs and transitions for students with disabilities. The middle portion shows an abbreviated version of an actual MAPs process and shows a useful illustration of a process that can be used to support an individual with disabilities within the contexts of family, school, home and community. Cost: $9.00 (tape); $3.00 (manual).

Natural environments (Part 1: Linking to the community; Part 2: Implementation in the community)

National Early Childhood Technical Assistance System (NECTAS), (1998). Gibsonia, PA: Distance Learning Center. In 1998, NECTAS coordinated two national videoteleconferences on natural environments for the U.S. Department of Education. After each broadcast, a set of print materials (outline, articles, bibliographies, follow-up activities) and a videotape of the teleconference were produced. There are a variety of worthwhile materials in each set, and the video vignettes on Part 2 are particularly nice illustrations of services in natural environments. Cost: $35.00 for each part (includes videotape and print materials).
Paraprofessional's guide to the inclusive classroom

Doyle, M. B. (1997). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This handbook is devoted to defining and supporting paraprofessionals (including paraeducators, teachers' aides, educational assistants) in classroom settings. Changing roles and responsibilities, being a team member, supporting individual students, individualized instruction, and communicating with team members are the major topics addressed through information, vignettes, worksheets. While the emphasis is on settings serving older children, many of the ideas apply across the board. Cost: $23.95.

Philadelphia Inclusion Network (PIN): Instructor guidelines and curriculum

Campbell, P., Schneider, L., & Milbourne, S. (1998). Philadelphia: Child and Family Studies Program. This set of 15 modules was designed to assist child care center staff in urban areas in addressing the inclusion of children with disabilities. The modules, on topics that range from Welcoming all children and Promoting full participation to Ain't misbehaving, are complete and clear. A range of options for using the materials as part of ongoing staff development and additional resources (books, tapes, websites) are additional quality features. Cost: $39.00 (including postage).

Preschool inclusion

Cavallaro, C.C., & Haney, M. (1999). Baltimore: Brookes. This accessible handbook provides field-tested, research-based guidelines and strategies for including young children with disabilities in early childhood programs. The first section (e.g., Involving families, Collaboration and teaming, Assessment strategies, Positive behavioral support) offers solid content, useful applications, and illustrative vignettes. The second section includes four well-developed cases, each of which offers multiple instructional opportunities. Cost: $45.

Project EXCEPTIONAL (Exceptional children: Education in preschool techniques for inclusion, opportunity-building, nurturing, and learning)

Kuschner, A., Cranor, L., & Brekken, L. (Eds.) (1996). Sacramento: California Department of Education. Each volume of this 2-volume set takes a unique approach to preparing personnel to work in inclusive settings. Volume 1 (A guide for training and recruiting child care providers) offers background information and practical suggestions to support providers in including children of diverse abilities. Volume 2 (Staff development and training activities) provides detailed information about designing, implementing, and evaluating training that can support providers in serving young children with disabilities. Costs: Volume 1 - $20; Volume 2 - $30.75.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
QuickNotes: Inclusion resources for early childhood professionals

Wesley, P.W., Dennis, B.C., & Tyndall, S.T. (1998). Lewisville, NC: Kaplan Press. QuickNotes is a 10-module set of information sheets covering a broad range of topics related to quality child care in a variety of settings (e.g., typical child development, promoting appropriate behavior, including children with special needs). Each topic is organized in a 3-ring notebook that also provides a resource list of print materials and related web sites. Modules 1-IX are provided in both English and Spanish. These are visually engaging, fresh materials that were developed to answer simple questions about early childhood inclusion and to provide quick, written resources on topics related to quality child care. Cost: Modules may be purchased individually and range in price from $17.95 to $24.95. A complete set (Modules 1-IX) costs $175.95.

Recipe for life and Moments of reflection

Waletzko, P., & Ressemmann, S. (1997). Waite Park, MN: The IDEA Group. Here are two 5-minute videotapes that can promote reflection on issues of diversity and inclusion at the end of a class or presentation. Short, thought-provoking sayings are linked together through visual and auditory methods to create a positive, lasting impression. The tapes can be used separately or together. Cost: $19.95 each.

Rethinking pull-out services in early intervention

McWilliam, R.A. (1996). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This book explores the barriers and facilitators to the models through which services in center-based early intervention programs are provided (integrated, segregated). It offers research findings, theoretical options, and practical examples on topics that range from consultation and professional identity concerns to service time allotment considerations and discipline-specific strategies. Cost: $43.95.

Samantha

Devault, G., Krug, C., Turnbull, A. P., & Horner, R. (1994). Lawrence, KS: Beach Center on Families and Disability. This video offers very useful instructional examples of creating a successful positive behavioral support plan for a 9 year-old girl with autism. The accompanying print material (Why does Samantha act like that? A positive behavior support story of one family’s success) tells the family story and includes plan charts and other instructional material. Cost: Video ($30); print material ($5.25).

Setting the stage: Including children with disabilities in Head Start

Education Development Center, Inc. (n.d.). Newton, MA: Author. If you're looking for detailed, practical training materials on inclusion, this volume from the series Training Guides for the Head Start Learning Community may be just the ticket. Three modules include learning outcomes, key concepts, background information, activities, and handouts, as well as ideas to extend practice. Cost: Download at http://www.bmcc.org/Headstart/Setting/preface.htm.

Shining bright: Head Start inclusion

Lindeman, D.P., & Adams, T. (1997). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This up-close-and-personal documentary and accompanying booklet detail the collaborative efforts of Head Start and a local education agency to include children with severe disabilities in a Head Start program. Administrators, teachers, and parents address issues such as support for children with severe health impairments, the benefits of Head Start, the ability of general educators to serve children with severe disabilities, transportation, and staff relations. Cost: $45.00.

Special children, special care

Moffitt, K. (Ed.). (1993). Tampa, FL: University of South Florida. This manual was written for parents as a way to build on pre- and inservice competencies. It has lots of good information on many aspects of early intervention, and is interspersed with quotes from other family members describing their experiences. A valuable reference tool for administrators, families and professionals. Cost: $64.00.

Supporting children with disabilities in early childhood programs

Teaching Research Division, Western Oregon State College. (1992). Monmouth, OR: Author. This 18-minute videotape includes footage of both segregated and integrated approaches as illustrations of past and present approaches to including preschool children with disabilities. Research basis that supports inclusion is cited, along with perspectives of staff, parents, teachers, assistants, and researchers. Cost: $25.00.

To have a friend

Portage Project. (1995). Portage, WI: Author. This video features six minutes of beautiful images of young friends of diverse cultures and abilities in a range of natural environments against a musical backdrop. It could be used to illustrate benefits of inclusion and to explore strategies for encouraging and supporting friendships among all children. Discussion questions, simulation exercises, and resource materials are provided in an accompanying booklet. Cost: $40.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Training for inclusion: A guide for the childcare provider

Community Inclusion Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. These seven modules on basic inclusion topics (ADA, building partnerships with families, identifying young children with disabilities, implementing interventions through the daily routine, etc.) are designed for use as training or self-study materials. Each module includes objectives, content, activities, self-assessment checks and answer keys. Cost: $25.00.

With kids my age: Answers to questions about inclusion

Inclusion Works! (1994). Austin, TX: Author. This 17-minute, captioned videotape provides compelling answers about inclusive education. Superimposed on footage of culturally diverse elementary and secondary students, are parents, teachers, administrators, and community decision makers who provide practical answers to hard questions. Instructionally, this videotape could be paused after each question (e.g., Do teachers have the skills to handle inclusion?) to allow students to respond based on research or readings. Cost: $30.00.

Yes, you can do it! Caring for infants and toddlers with disabilities in family child care

Children’s Foundation. (1995). Washington, DC: Author. This 16-minute video offers very positive images and messages from parents and day care providers on the benefits of serving young children with disabilities. The accompanying manual, Caring for infants and toddlers in family day care: Annotated resource directory, offers additional resources to support inclusion, such as training materials. Cost: $34.95 (video & print directory), plus shipping & handling.
Interagency Collaboration

This section includes information and activities that can be used to foster productive collaborative efforts in early intervention.

Primary Resources

Thinking collaboratively: Ten questions and answers to help policy makers improve children’s services
Charles Bruner

While this document was not designed as training material, it has excellent applications, especially with inservice audiences of representatives from multiple agencies. Each of the ten questions probes an aspect of collaboration (e.g., How do we know if collaboration is happening and if it is working?) and provides possible responses, along with lists of resources for additional consideration.

Building systems
Association of Maternal and Child Health Programs. (1993, December). McLean, VA: National Maternal and Child Health Clearinghouse. This report is the result of an extensive national survey to describe Title V activities in early intervention and identify perceived barriers to collaboration between Part H and Title V. It offers interesting insights on the subjects of interagency planning, goal setting and systems change. Cost: FREE.

Collaboration: Putting the puzzle pieces together
Collaborative Services Inservice Demonstration Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. The purpose of this manual is to highlight the important aspects of the collaborative process. It’s organized in five modules: Early Intervention Collaborators, Interagency Collaborations, Family Collaborations, Team Collaborations, and Skills for Collaborations. Each module includes vignettes, information and activities that could be used in preservice or inservice settings. Cost: $10.00

Collaboration: What makes it work

Collaboration handbook:
Creating, sustaining, and enjoying the journey
Winer, M., & Ray, K. (1997). St. Paul, MN: Amherst H. Wilder Foundation. This resource is organized to support interpersonal, organizational, and community collaboration by offering case examples, activities, tools, and resources. It also offers thoughtful strategies for overcoming obstacles to collaboration, including trust, conflict, decision-making, and change. Cost: $28.00.

Continuity in early childhood:
A framework for home, school, and community linkages
Regional Educational Laboratories Early Childhood Collaboration Network. (1995, November). Washington, DC: Author. This document defines a framework for considering both transitions to educational programs and linkages between early childhood and elementary school services. In training, this document could be used to explore elements of the transition continuum and how they might be achieved. Cost: $15.00.

Expanding partnerships involving colleges and universities in interprofessional collaboration and service integration

Moving from principles to practice: A resource guide
American Academy of Pediatrics. (1996). Washington, DC: Author. A document designed to provide the practical skills to translate ideals for community-based interagency collaboration into action. It includes exercises to assist community groups in arriving at consensus, examples of current approaches to collaboration, common obstacles to collaboration (and strategies for getting beyond them), and resources to assist with the process. Cost: $8.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
New opportunities for collaboration:
A policy and implementation resources and training manual for the Head Start regulations for children with disabilities

Putting the pieces together: Comprehensive school-linked strategies for children and families

U.S. Department of Education. (1996, May). Greensboro, NC: SouthEastern Regional Vision for Education (SERVE). This guidebook is designed to help school system representatives, families, and communities in building strong support for the healthy development and learning of children. It offers information and examples on topics including conducting community assessments, finding and developing resources, and moving from vision to action, along with examples of successful collaborations. Cost: $6.00

Together we can: A guide for crafting a profamily system of education and human services

Towards improved services for children and families:
Forging new relationships through collaboration

What it takes: Structuring interagency partnerships to connect children and families with comprehensive services

Legislation

This section describes materials for sharing information about early intervention legislation and policies that affect young children and families.

Supplemental Resources

CEC special education advocacy handbook

Discover IDEA ’99

Council for Exceptional Children. (1999). Reston, VA: Author. This CD provides access (read, search, print, copy) to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act of 1997 (P.L. 105-17), including the complete final regulations and analysis of comments. Other features of this resource include links to "hot" topics, hundreds of ready-to-use PowerPoint slides, topical and special interest briefs, and summaries (questions and answers, talking points) on ten major issues (i.e., discipline). Some specific information on early intervention, especially with regard to natural environments. Cost: $7.95

Early intervention:
Essential information for primary health care providers

Shishmanian, E., & Helm, D. T. (1993, September). Boston: Massachusetts Department of Public Health. This manual, for physicians and primary health care providers, contains essential information about early intervention services for very young children. This information is divided into two sections: the first includes excerpts from the federal law that defines these services and the second relates to the system in Massachusetts. The federal information and several nice case vignettes make this a valuable resource. It could also serve as a model, by replacing the Massachusetts-specific information, for other states to use. Cost: FREE.

Early intervention on the move

Child Development Resources, Inc. (1999). Norge, VA: Author. This 14-minute tape likens the interrelated components of Part C of IDEA to the parts of a bicycle. This is a revised version of the original (1992) tape and offers a light overview that could easily be paired with in-depth exploration of law/bicycle "parts." Cost: $49.95.
IDEA 1997: Let’s make it work

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act Amendments of 1997: Curriculum

Making your case

Hokanson, S. (1998, October). St. Paul, MN: State of Minnesota, Department of Administration, Governor’s Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities. Based on interviews with legislators, legislative staff and lobbyists, this book offers techniques and insights to assist in the development of lobbying skills. The briefcase-style packaging, cartoons, and anecdotes make it a very useful resource for preparing students, family members, and other future leaders to be effective advocates. This document is available in Braille, disk and audiotape. Cost: Single copies are FREE.

New faces of opportunity: A physician’s guide to the Maryland Infants and Toddlers Program

Maryland Infants and Toddlers Program. (1993). Baltimore, MD: Author. This publication delineates “opportunities” for physicians within Maryland’s Part H program by providing information about efficacy, reimbursement, resources, and most important—the critical roles that doctors can play. Could be used for training or modified for use by another state. Cost: $5.00.
A new IDEA: A parent's guide to the changes in special education law for children with disabilities

Seltzer, T. (1998). Washington, DC: Judge David L. Bazelon Center for Mental Health Law. The 1997 reauthorization brought changes in several components of IDEA. This publication is structured as a series of questions and answers about the law and key changes. Discipline for special education students and implications of the changes for students with emotional and behavioral problems are highlighted; Part C implications are not. FREE. Download the document in English or in Spanish from the Bazelon Center's World Wide Web site (www.bazelon.org).

A new IDEA for special education: Understanding the system and the new law video developed as a guide for parents and a tool for educators

Edvantage Media, Inc. (1998). Fair Haven, NJ: Author. This video was designed to help parents and educators better understand recent changes to IDEA, the law governing special education. Key areas covered include the new law, the referral process, the evaluation process, creating an IEP, placement and related services, preparing for transitions, and discipline, mediation and standardized testing. Cost: $49.95 plus postage and handling.

Orientation to First Steps: An independent study

Unified Training System (1998). Bloomington, IN: UTS Connect. This independent study packet is designed to familiarize parents and family members, providers, local planning council members, and others with Indiana's early intervention system (First Steps). Content covered includes early intervention law, procedural safeguards, family-centered practices, cultural competency, point of entry, and the Central Reimbursement Office. While much of the material is specific to Indiana, this is a nice example of how to structure self-paced learning materials. Cost: Request from UTS Connect.

Political advocacy handbook

Bootel, J.A., & Warger, C.L. (1997). Reston, VA: Council for Exceptional Children. This easy-to-use handbook delineates what motivates policymakers, what catches their attention, and what makes them respond. Through materials designed to demystify policymaking, this resource provides preservice and inservice materials for learning about public policy, the legislative process, and advocacy. Cost: $60.00 for members; $65.70 for non-members.

Programs for young children under IDEA

State legislative leaders:
Keys to effective legislation for children and families

Children and Families Program, State Legislative Leaders Foundation. (1995). Centerville, MA: Author. This resource was developed to provide advocates with effective strategies and information for increasing legislative awareness of and emphasis on child and family issues. It offers insights to the way legislators think and act, advocacy techniques, and samples (letters, interviews, etc.). Could be a valuable resource in shaping the next generation of advocates. Cost: Free.
Service Coordination

This section identifies materials for teaching others about case management and service coordination.

Primary Resources

Case management for children’s mental health:
A training curriculum for child-serving agencies

Irene Nathan Zipper & Marie Weil, Editors

This curriculum, designed for use with case managers, supervisors, service providers and families, provides methods and materials to teach the values, knowledge and skills needed to provide effective service coordination. Fourteen chapters on issues ranging from diversity and cultural competence to teams provide clearly stated goals, measurable objectives, detailed presenter notes, activities and worksheets, reproducible handouts, masters for transparencies, and related readings. These materials address service coordination from the mental health perspective in a manner that could easily be extended for use with diverse (health, education, social services) training audiences.

Overview of family-centered service coordination:
Facilitator’s guide

Project Copernicus, Kennedy Krieger Institute

This training program is one in a series (Train the Trainer Series in Family-Centered Service Delivery) designed to address key issues in family-centered care. The overall format is specific and detailed in outlining the “how to” of facilitating training sessions. The “session at a glance” reviews the approximate time necessary to complete each of the eight activities, which focus on defining service coordination, key elements of family-centered practices, evolution and changes in service coordination, qualities of effective relationships with families, and specific roles/activities associated with service coordination. A structured, step-by-step guide provides facilitators with the purpose, time required, learning strategies, and specific materials needed for each activity, but allows for individualized applications of the materials.

Parents and professionals: Partners in co-service coordination

Peggy Rosin, Amy Whitehead, Linda Tuchman, George Jeslen & Audrey Begun

This 20-minute videotape uses stories of three families with young children representing diversity in ethnicity, family structure and disability. The videotape and accompanying discussion guide could be useful in training diverse audiences involved in service coordination in early intervention. As part of a longer sequence of training about service coordination (see below-listed Partnerships in early intervention), the videotape could be a discussion starter.

Pathways: A training and resource guide for enhancing skills in early intervention service coordination

Peggy Rosin, Meredith Green, Liz Hecht, Linda Tuchman, & Sue Robbins

This curriculum is designed to enhance skills and knowledge to meet the challenges of service coordination for preservice and inservice audiences. The materials include an introduction and four content sections: 1) getting started in the IFSP process; 2) follow-along and implementation of the IFSP; 3) responding to unexpected, immediate needs, or crisis; and 4) facilitating transitions. Each content is further divided into definitions, a framework for enhancing skills and knowledge, personal and interpersonal skills, and integrating skills and knowledge. This multi-faceted resource can be used for inservice training, preservice training, or self-study.

Supplemental Resources

Colorado guidelines for service coordination
Miller, J., & Petersen, S. (1999). Denver, CO: Colorado Department of Education. This thoughtful booklet delineates a vision and guidelines for service coordination and illustrates them with many suggestions, checklists, guiding questions and family stories. Instructionally, the Colorado-specific examples could be used to compare/contrast with other the policies and procedures of other states and the stories could be used as mini-cases. Cost: Single copies are free from the Colorado Department of Education.

First glance: Tips for service coordination
Whitehead, A., Brown, L., & Rosin, P. (1993). Madison, WI: Wisconsin Personnel Development Project. This booklet covers 12 topics related to service coordination such as informal support networks, advocacy, key financial resources and eco-maps. Each section is designed to provide information and additional resources; most could easily be used as training activities. Authored by a parent-professional team, this resource includes useful information for both family members and service providers. Cost: $5.00.

Pathways in early intervention service coordination

Pathways trail mix: A collection of ideas and training activities in early intervention service coordination
Rosin, P., Green, M., Hecht, L., & Robbins, S. (1998). Madison, WI: Waisman Center. Here’s a new resource for those involved in training personnel in early intervention service coordination. Easy to use large and small group activities (warm-ups, energizers, stories, vignettes, role plays, eco-maps, panels) are provided, along with an extensive bibliography, tips for trainers, and strategies for supervisors/administrators. Cost: $35.00

It wasn’t supposed to happen

Nemours Center for Biomedical Communication, (1994). Wilmington, DE: Author. This eight-minute videotape was designed to help families and medical professionals explore ways that information sharing can be done more effectively. Personal messages from family members who have children with rare genetic conditions offer insights about what’s helpful, what’s hurtful, and the value of parent-to-parent support. Cost: Free of charge to training programs, $24.95 to others.

Managed care maze: What about the children?

Robson, S. (1997). Fairfax, VA: Parent Educational Advocacy Training Center (PEATC). This 30-minute videotape follows several culturally diverse families as they negotiate the health care systems in which their families are part. Through planning and team work, they work together with their doctors to solve problems and develop strategies for dealing with health care bureaucracies. These same illustrations, along with accompanying guides (one for family members and one for physicians), could be used instructionally to discuss and explore managed health care issues. Cost: $33.00 for family members; $53.00 for others (includes postage).

Medical Education Project: Incorporating the principles of family-centered care in physician education

DiVenere, N., & Witkin, K. (1999). Winookski, VT: Parent to Parent of Vermont. This package (video & manual) describes a training model designed to provide medical students with the opportunity to recognize, acknowledge, and, hopefully adjust, their personal beliefs about individuals with disabilities. Objectives, activities, and materials for class-based instruction and family practicum components are provided, along with a description of the experiences of others in using these approaches. Available September 1999. Cost: Please contact source.

Nurses, physicians, psychologists, & social workers within statewide early intervention systems: Clarifying roles under Part H of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act

Von Rembow, D., & Sciarillo, W. (1993). Bethesda, MD: Association for the Care of Children’s Health. This collection of role clarification papers was developed by Part H and the ICC in Maryland to facilitate the effective participation of representatives of these disciplines in the early intervention system. Order #3085. Cost: $13.00.
Physician technical assistance papers

First Steps (Kentucky's Early Intervention System). (1993). Frankfort, KY: Department of Mental Health/ Mental Retardation, Division of Mental Retardation. These materials were designed to provide practicing physicians with basic information about Part H of IDEA, and the roles and responsibilities of physicians under this legislation. Great examples that could easily be modified. One free copy per state can be ordered from Frankfort Habilitation, 3755 U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Paraprofessionals

Current trends in the use of paraprofessionals in early intervention and preschool services

Striffler, N. (1993). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center, NECTAS. This paper synthesizes current thinking, issues and practices related to the use of paraprofessionals in the provision of early intervention services to children with disabilities. Cost: $5.00.

Early childhood: The role of the paraprofessional

Institute on Community Integration (IAP). (1999, November). Minneapolis: Publications Department, Institute on Community Integration. University of Minnesota. This is a well-organized resource for assisting instructors to plan and prepare to teach paraprofessional audiences about key early childhood topics. Each chapter of the facilitator’s manual includes student goals, discussion questions, activities, and materials and topics covered include child development, individualized planning, classrooms, families, cross-cultural competence, etc. The participant’s manual includes forms, formats, readings, and other information to promote application of the concepts covered. Cost: $15.00 (facilitator’s manual); $10.00 (participant’s manual).
Parents with Special Needs

Parents with special needs/mental retardation:
A handbook for early intervention

Marilyn Espe-Sherwindt, Sandra Kerlin, Christina Beatty & Suzanne Crable

This handbook provides material and strategies that could be helpful in meeting the needs of families in which parents have special needs/mental retardation. The material is divided into five sections: “An Early Intervention Model,” “Understanding of Parents with Special Needs/Mental Retardation,” “Intervention Principles and Strategies,” “Evaluating Progress,” and “Resources.” This resource will be helpful if you provide training to folks who work with parents with special needs/mental retardation.

Premature Infants

Developmental intervention for hospitalized infants

Georgetown University Child Development Center

This series of ten videotapes is intended to illustrate ways that health professionals and family members can promote the development of hospitalized infants. One set targets development for infants in the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) and includes modules on "Premie Development," "The Premie and the NICU Environment," "Positioning and Handling the High-risk Infant," "The Growing Premie," "Helping Families," "Parenting the Acutely Ill Infant," and "Parenting the Growing Premie." The other set focuses on the pediatric unit and includes modules on "Promoting Development," "Helping Families," and "Parenting the Infant with Prolonged Hospitalization." Each videotape is accompanied by a study guide that provides learner objectives, an overview, related activities, additional resources and a pre-/post-test. Developed by Georgetown’s UAP and Department of Neonatology.

Supporting families and their prematurely born babies: A guide for training care providers

Valerie Thom, Gloria Krahn, B. John Hale, Margaret Keller, Marilyn Hartzell & Anne Mette Smeenk

This training guide and the accompanying videotape are intended for training medical, allied health care, and early intervention providers who work with biologically high-risk infants and their families. The guide contains five training modules in each of two units. Unit 1 (Infants, Families and Providers) offers sections on P.L. 99-457, infant competency, individual differences, and emotional milestones, parental perceptions and family dynamics, providers' issues, and community networks. Unit 2 (The Preterm Experience) presents units on medical terminology, parenting experiences in the NICU, preterm infant development, parent-infant interaction and approaches to family support. The videotape is divided into five segments of which the fifth segment is both the most current and the most relevant to training.

Prenatal Exposure

The future of children: Drug exposed infants

Center for the Future of Children, The David and Lucile Packard Foundation. (1991). Los Altos, CA: Author. This issue presents information on the medical/pharmacologic and long term development effects of prenatal exposure to legal and illegal substances, including cigarettes, alcohol, heroin, narcotics, marijuana, and cocaine. It also offers viewpoints from child welfare, law, economics, and ethics professionals on the service implications, cost implications, and possible responses to working with families whose infants are drug-exposed. This and other publications in the Future of Children series are available online at http://www.futureofchildren.org/

Resources related to children and their families affected by alcohol and other drugs

Hargrove, E., Daulton, D., Melner J., & Shackelford, J. (1994). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center. NECTAS. This resource guide describes a variety of resources that serve young children and their families affected by substance use. It is organized into three sections: national training and information resources; state programs and agencies; and federal funding sources. Cost: $5.00.
Special Health Needs

Medically fragile infants and toddlers:
An interdisciplin ary training curriculum

JFK Center for Developmental Disabilities

This curriculum recognizes that there are different priorities, resources and schedules across different training settings (including preservice vs. inservice) and is structured to be flexible. It includes seven topical modules: “Overview,” “Family Adjustment and Family-centered Services,” “Interdisciplinary Team Assessment,” “Interdisciplinary Team Intervention,” “Feeding Problems,” “Service Coordination,” and “Community Integration.” Intended for implementation by an interdisciplinary training team, it includes learning objectives, topics, notes, bibliographies, discussion questions and additional activities for each module. While the primary mode for training is lecture, ideas and resources could easily be modified into more interactive options.

Efficacy

The effectiveness of early intervention

Florida’s children: Their future is in our hands

Florida State University, Center for Prevention and Early Intervention Policy. (1994). Tallahassee, FL: Author. This is a handbook on the causes and costs of preventing disabilities and at-risk conditions in young children through educational, maternal and child health programs that work. It presents useful and compelling data useful to trainers, policy makers and advocates, and offers a format that could be helpful to other states and regions. Cost: $15.00.

RIDE project: Early intervention

Ohio Valley Educational Cooperative. (1996). LaGrange, KY: Author. This is a 20-minute videotape designed for community agencies and practitioners to increase awareness of the importance and effectiveness of early intervention. Perhaps the best feature of this tape is a pediatrician’s description of the research basis for and cost effectiveness of early intervention. Cost: $19.00.

Eligibility

Eligibility policies and practices for young children under Part B of IDEA

Danaher, J. (1998). Chapel Hill, NC: NECTAS. This synthesis reflects the requirements and options to states under the 1997 Amendments to IDEA. Along with language taken directly from the IDEA statute, analyses are presented for the states and jurisdictions regarding their eligibility criteria and classifications. Cost: $1.00

State and jurisdictional eligibility definitions for infants and toddlers with disabilities under IDEA

Shackelford, J. (1998, January). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center, NECTAS. A major challenge to policy makers in implementing the Early Intervention Program for Infants and Toddlers with Disabilities (Part C) is determining who is eligible for services. This paper discusses how the 50 states and 7 jurisdictions that participate define developmental delay and at-risk. This is a handy resource for considering or exploring a variety of cost and service delivery issues. Cost: $3.00. Also available for free at www.nectas.unc.edu/pubs/publis+1.html#asselig
Financing

NECTAS information update on health care reform

Projecting the costs of early intervention services: Four states’ experiences
Perry, D. F. (1993). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center, NECTAS. This publication was inspired by frequent questions from states seeking to determine the cost of implementing Part H and requesting data from NECTAS that could be used to answer questions from their legislature or budget office. The examples are intended to serve as methodological models for states undertaking cost studies, or as a gauge for states to measure estimates that they have received. $5.00.

Implementation

Implementing early intervention:
From research to effective practice
Bryant, D. M., & Graham, M. A. (Eds.). (1993). New York: The Guilford Press. This book was published to express the most current thinking of researchers in the major areas of early intervention. Lots of data, theory, and questions that could be used as effective background information for discussion of applications and policy development. Catalog #2247. Cost: $39.50.

Monitoring & Evaluation

Alaska Early Intervention/
Infant Learning Program monitoring tool
Alaska Department of Health and Social Services. (1994). Fairbanks, AK: Author. This resource captures the program monitoring process and instrument used by the state of Alaska. The underlying philosophy of the standards reflected in these materials is that within certain guidelines, programs must have the flexibility to address issues in accordance with community and family norms. The examples could be used as a model by other states, as exercises for inservice training, or as teaching examples for students. Cost: FREE.

Personnel Development Systems

La Ristra: New Mexico's comprehensive professional development system in early care, education, and family support

Turner, P. (Ed.) (1999, September). Santa Fe, NM: Office of Child Development, Children, Youth & Families Department. This document chronicles more than a decade of work to create an integrated system for the preparation and support of all personnel serving young children and families. Sections clearly describe the overall process that has led to the New Mexico system as well as the components (e.g., common core content, certification, articulation, areas of specialization) of that system. The result is a clear, thoughtful framework that other states could use for planning. Cost: FREE while supplies last. Contact Barbara Lucero [505/277-9648; bglucero@unm.edu] for further information. Available on the Web at http://www.NewMexicoKids.org/EarlyCareEd/OnLine_Library/La%20Ristra/La_Ristra%20Frameset.htm

Maryland Infants and Toddlers Program. (1991). Baltimore, MD: Maryland Infants and Toddlers Program. A statewide directory designed to disseminate information about resources that are available to provide expertise on diverse topics in early intervention. Cost: $5.00.

Personnel Shortages

Shortages in professions working with young children with disabilities and their families

Hebbeler, K. (1994). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center, NECTAS. This monograph provides professionals, advocates, parents, administrators, program planners and policy makers with the best available information with which to formulate a strategic response to the shortages of early intervention personnel. This paper examines national data on the current work force, describes current shortages in five key disciplines and discusses possible responses to the problem. Cost: $5.00.

Technical Assistance

Lessons learned: Provision of technical assistance to states

Pizzo, P., Griffin, A., Keith, H., Argenta, D., & Szanton, E. (1993, April). Arlington, VA: Zero to Three/National Center for Clinical Infant Programs. This monograph shares the findings of technical assistance provided under the Better Care for the Babies (BCTB) Project. It reports on lessons learned about the technical assistance that was provided (in attempts to improve the quality of infant child care), and offers insights that could be used to assist state planning. Cost: $9.00.

Primary Resources

Interdisciplinary teamwork: A guide for trainers and viewers

Virginia Institute for Developmental Disabilities

This two-part video emphasizes the effects of team process on the recipients of team service, young children with disabilities and their families. Both segments provide the opportunity to see a team in action, first not functioning effectively (Part 1: A Team in Name Only) and then learning to work together (Part 2: Becoming an Effective Team). The video and training guide were designed to facilitate discussion and analysis of both positive and negative team processes (disagreement among team members, not honoring family priorities, using jargon, etc.). The guide provides background information, training objectives, a content outline, and suggested learning activities which can be for preservice or inservice training.

Skills inventory for teams (sift)

Corinne W. Garland, Adrienne Frank, Deana Buck, & Patti Seklemian

The SIPT is an inventory of skills needed to function as part of an early intervention team. The instrument is divided into Team and Team Member sections. The Team section examines overall team functioning; the Team Member section examines individual teamwork skills. Each section is organized with a screening scale and an assessment checklist. The screening scales help teams and individual team members identify key areas of need and strength regarding teamwork. The checklists then help clarify and prioritize for improvement in the targeted areas. Directions and forms are provided, along with forms for creating development plans. This instrument could be a valuable team-based decision-making activity.

Stages of group development

Project Vision

This 32-minute videotape opens with an overview of the stages of team development: forming, storming, norming and performing, with information about what can be expected at each phase. These concepts are further defined by showing a group in the process of endeavoring to become a team. Four distinct segments of this group's interactions, each representing a phase of team development, are presented, followed by a recap of the key concepts. This videotape, which shows successful group problem-solving, positive parent participation, and shared learning from different viewpoints, could easily be used in conjunction with "A Team in Name Only" (above), which illustrates miscommunications and absence of collaboration. Selected portions of the tape could also be used in training to illustrate skillful group facilitation and successful conflict resolution.

Teaming
Jennifer Olson & Carl Lee Murphy

These multi-faceted materials were developed as part of the BEST (Building Effective Successful Teams) series. Key to the set is the training manual, which includes eight chapters covering team development, roles, group norms, communication, conflict management, goal setting, effective meetings, and action planning. Each chapter is packed with information, activities, questionnaires, and other materials for addressing the content. Three related videotapes (Navigating new pathways: Obstacles to Collaboration, Stages of group development: Overcoming roadblocks to team development, and Navigating new pathways: Effective meetings) and a facilitator’s guide complete the package, which was designed to be offered as a 30-hour self-directed course. A workbook for an abbreviated version of the same program (15 hours) is also available. An introductory video, Teaming: The best Way, which was produced solely for promotional value, highlights in 10 minutes the key features of the inservice training model which has rich materials and ideas for preservice and inservice training.

Supplemental Resources

Administrative [team] challenges in early intervention

Collaborative working relationships
Elder, J.O. (1994). Austin, TX: J.O. Elder Associates. The activities and formats included in this two-part resource address key areas of getting people to work together effectively, including understanding and appreciating differences, motivation for collaboration, and roles and responsibilities for collaboration. The facilitator’s manual provides all instructional materials for delivering four 3-1/2 hour modules, including interactive learning activities and transparency masters. The accompanying participant’s workbook contains 35 interactive projects and assessment tools, the Personal Development Profile (a learning instrument to identify work behavioral strengths), and a supplemental reading list. Cost: Manual-$45.00; Workbook; $25.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Consultation, collaboration and teamwork for students with special needs

Dettmer, P., Dyck, N., & Thurston, L.P. (1999). Needham Heights, MA: Allyn & Bacon. This book is packed with information, checklists, self-assessments, and forms for promoting family-centered collaborations. Liberally sprinkled throughout this text are scenarios and vignettes, which can be used as mini-cases, and applications, which are alternative assignments for extending learning into real life settings. One entire chapter is devoted to professional development for collaboration! Cost: $59.00.

Facilitator’s guide to participatory decision-making

Improving work groups

Francis, D., & Young, D. (1992). San Diego, CA: Jossey-Bass. Materials focused on the underlying concepts of working teams include 25 activities that enable teams to work through “blockages” and other elements that inhibit success. One tool, the Team-Review Survey, contains statements related to team effectiveness that can be used to assess team functioning, strengths, and barriers. Cost: $39.95.

Interdisciplinary clinical assessment of young children with developmental disabilities

Guralnick, M.J. (Ed.) (2000). Baltimore: Brookes. Offering insight from veteran team members in nine disciplines, this book has some useful ideas on gathering information, making decisions, and collaborating effectively. Seven clinical case examples of interdisciplinary collaboration offer instructional insights. A shortcoming of this book is the overemphasis on professionals interacting effectively with each other and the lack of emphasis on teams collaborating effectively with family members. Talented teachers will use this weakness to instructional advantage. Cost: $42.00.

Leadership: The vision beyond the doorway

Collaborative Services Inservice Demonstration Project. (1997). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. Materials with which to explore new ways of working together, creative ways of funding that work, and innovative ways to use teaching and training to support those new ideas are included in this manual. It includes seven modules on specific aspects of teamwork and collaboration, including leadership, strategic planning, managing change, overcoming barriers, and changing public policy. Each module includes information, activities, and additional resources that could be used for teaching, training, or personal development. Cost: $20.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Learning to lead teams: Developing leadership skills

Johnson, D.W., & Johnson, R.T. (1997). Edina, MN: Interaction Book Company. Here's a book that was written with one purpose in mind: to improve leadership skills. With lots of activities, checklists, and worksheets, it offers suggestions in areas that range from solving interpersonal problems and mediating to reducing tension and stress through humor. A great investment for teaching or personal use! Cost: $22.00.

Navigating new pathways: Obstacles to collaboration

Olson, J. (1994). Moscow, ID: Idaho Center on Developmental Disabilities, University of Idaho. This 13-minute videotape is organized in five short scenarios that reflect different team challenges in a sample inclusive Head Start classroom. No pat answers are provided, but lots of opportunities for discussion of team challenges in areas including communication, roles, planning, differing philosophies, and training. Cost: $55.00.

Overcoming roadblocks to team development

Olson, J. (1994). Moscow, ID: Idaho Center on Developmental Disabilities, University of Idaho. This videotape is the sequel to Stages of Group Development (see above). It helps groups recognize common roadblocks to team development and then reviews four strategies for overcoming these roadblocks. This video could be used to assist self-awareness and problem-solving for students or practitioners. Cost: $55.00.

Parker team player survey

Parker, G. M. (1991). Tuxedo, NY: XICOM. This instrument allows you to identify and understand your primary style(s) and strengths as a team player. A great resource for helping team members recognize their contributions and plan to increase overall team effectiveness. Stock No. 4913. Cost: $6.50.

Project relationship: Creating & sustaining a nurturing community

Poulson, M.K., & Cole, C.K. (1996). Los Angeles: Los Angeles Unified School District. This 41-minute (5 segment) videotape depicts a family and professionals working together to meet the needs of a young child with significant behavioral issues. Along with accompanying written material, it provides a nice model for practitioners who want to develop their skills for planning effectively with families. Cost: FREE.

Resistance to change

Project Vision. (1994). Van Nuys, CA: Child Development Media. What you'll see on this tape is a lengthy team meeting, attended by an occupational therapist, speech-language pathologist, special education teacher, aide, school psychologist, principal, and kindergarten teacher. While meeting to discuss the inclusion of a child in the kindergarten at a public school, issues arise concerning financing, integrated therapy, class size, fears of each professional with regard to change, and problems with "top-down" decisions. While no pat answers are offered, strategies for helping support changes are offered. Cost: $71.50.
The story of the goose

Training Resource Center/NJDA. (1992). Richmond, KY: Eastern Kentucky University. This four-minute video tells the story of how geese have developed a model of team work and cooperation that can be an inspiration to even the most cynical. Cost: $65.00.

Early Childhood Collaborative Services Project. (1996). Farmington, CT: Division of Child and Family Studies, Department of Pediatrics, University of Connecticut Health Center. This is a concise package of ideas for addressing transdisciplinary issues within the context of the preschool classroom. Information, activities, handouts, and strategies are provided. Cost: $6.00.

Transdisciplinary teamwork and integrated therapy:
Clarifying the misconceptions

York, J., Rainforth, B., & Giangreco, M. F. (1990). Pediatric Physical Therapy, 2(2), 73-79. This article can be a great training resource for a small group brainstorming process because it looks at common misconceptions and provides clarifications.
Transitions

This section offers material for sharing information about the transitions made by young children and families.

Primary Resources

Project STEPS (Sequenced Transition to Education in the Public Schools) training manual and training module handouts

Beth Rous

The STEPS training manual provides materials for persons wishing to offer training on any or all aspects of community-wide systems of transition. The manual includes an overview of the STEPS model, description of training materials, overhead and handout masters, a guide for trainers in presenting visual and handout information, guidelines for time allotments, and sample agendas. As the STEPS model relies heavily on a “team approach” to training, much emphasis is placed on effective team meetings, community team development, and team building.

Bridging early services for children with special needs and their families

Building bridges to kindergarten: Transition planning for children

Rosenkoetter, S.E., Hains, A.H., & Streufert, C. (1997). McPherson, KS: Bridging Early Services Transition Project. This 16-minute videotape and companion guide entitled It’s a big step are intended to assist community-based collaboration to promote effective transitions. The materials support a process through which community partners could come together, assess the positive transition practices in place, and determine additional actions or events to improve current practices. Cost: $30.00 (videotape and guide).

Effective transition practices: Facilitating continuity

Family and child transitions into least restrictive environments (FACTS/LRE) publications

FACTS/LRE Project. (1999). Champaign, IL: Author. This recently completed federal project has left behind a rich legacy: five instructional modules on aspects of transition. Topics covered include interagency agreements, entering a new preschool, facilitating inclusion in community settings, planning transitions to preschool, and writing an interagency agreement on transition. Great content, vignettes, and teaching examples. Cost: Download from the Web at http://facts.crc.uiuc.edu.

Making a difference

Chapel Hill Training and Outreach. (1995). Chapel Hill, NC: Author. This 20-minute videotape was developed through one of 32 federally-funded programs for supporting Head Start children in making successful transitions to kindergarten. The film illustrates how schools, communities, families, college volunteers, and agencies (housing, YMCA, police) can work together, with strong emphasis on outreach and family support. Cost: $40.00.

Passages: Providing continuity from preschool to school

Project STEPS university packet
Rous, B. (1995). Lexington, KY: Project STEPS Dissemination Center. This packet was developed to assist faculty in addressing transition content as part of their course work. It contains overview information about transition, recommended practices from the STEPS project: the areas of administration, staff involvement, family involvement, and child preparation. Cost: $3.00.

Terrific transitions:
Ensuring continuity of services for children and their families
Southeastern Regional Vision for Education (SERVE). (1997). Tallahassee, FL: SERVE. This resource booklet was designed to assist caregivers, educators, and parents in improving transitions and creating continuity of services for children, ages 0-8, and their families. This is an easy-to-read resource guide that includes a brief history of the transition movement, checklists, strategies, samples for promoting continuity, and a list of suggested resources. Cost: $6.00.

Transition: A time for growth
Rosenkoetter, S., Hains, A.H., & Streufert, C. (1997). McPherson, KS: Bridging Early Services Transition Project. A positive, informative 12-minute videotape with strategies for transitioning children (with or without special needs) from preschool to kindergarten. Some of the strategies illustrated include visits to receiving sites by children and families, creating portfolios to accompany children to receiving sites, and transition fairs. Specific considerations for urban and rural settings are addressed. A companion booklet, Step Ahead at Age 3, is available in English or Spanish. Cost: $30.00.
Family Participation

This section includes materials to support the involvement of family members in different roles in early childhood intervention, including leadership, advocacy, personnel preparation, and program design and development.

Primary Resources

Making room at the table: Fostering family involvement in the planning and governance of formal support systems

Elizabeth S. Jeppson, Josie Thomas, Anthony Markward, Jo Anne Kelly, Gail Koser, and David Diehl

This manual, co-created by the Family Resource Coalition of America and the Institute for Family-Centered Care, provides trainers and facilitators with information and materials for conducting a three-hour module designed to foster family involvement in the advisory and decision-making roles. The content is relevant, current, and research-based. The format and activities reflect principles of adult learning. The manual is clearly written and includes handouts and overheads.

Parents together:
A manual for parents of children with special needs

Exceptional Children’s Assistance Center (ECAC)

This compilation provides clear, concise information and examples for sharing information about many aspects of special education. Chapters are devoted to issues including: “What is special education?,” “IDEA,” “The Special Education Process,” “When you Disagree. Records/Record Keeping,” “Documentation and Letter Writing,” “Communication Skills,” “Evaluation,” and “IEP.” Materials could easily be used to structure training around these issues. While the emphasis is clearly on older children, much of the content would be useful to families with infants and toddlers. This resource comes highly recommended by family members.

Vanderbilt family empowerment project: Family group curriculum manual

Craig Ann Heffinger, Jan Anderson, Joann Digby, Charles Grubb, & Carolyn Williams

This manual, developed through the Vanderbilt Family Empowerment Project, provides all materials necessary to conduct a training program designed to enable parents to become collaborators in their children's mental health treatment. The materials are organized in three modules, focused on knowledge (of the service delivery system, assessment, and rights), services efficacy (reinforcing the motivation for changing parents' behavior and relationships to the service provider), and skills (in areas including assertiveness, communication, and goal setting). While these materials were originally designed to provide training to families who had children with mental health needs, they have much broader application. Most activities and assignments could be easily modified for any audience.

After the tears

Assuring the family's role on the early intervention team: Explaining rights and safeguards

Hurst, L.L., & Goff, P.E. (1996). Chapel Hill: UNC-CH. Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center. NECTAS. This monograph is a synthesis of innovative practices and ideas for explaining procedural safeguards to families. It provides a step-by-step model that could provide useful information and practice to administrators, providers, or family members. Cost: $6.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Building a strong family/Creando una familia fuerte

Hallfin, T.B., Villaseñor, J., & Cohen, K. (1998). Minneapolis, MN: PACER Center. Five stories are presented to illustrate cultural conflicts and other issues Hispanic/Latino parents of young children (with or without disabilities) often encounter in the U.S. Written in both Spanish and English, the stories offer advice on parenting and explore challenges around setting limits, discipline, nutrition, preparing for the transition to public school, and conflicts between traditional and Western approaches to health care. While written for parents, the stories could also be helpful to practitioners working with Hispanic/Latino families. A Hmong and English version of this resource is also available. Cost: $10.00.

Coping with the challenges of disability

Blue-Banning, M., Santelli, B., Guy, B., & Wallace, E. (1994). Lawrence, KS: Beach Center on Families and Disability. These materials were designed to share information with parents or primary caregivers of children with disabilities about cognitive coping strategies. The content, presenter guidance, activities, and family stories are diverse, engaging, and clearly presented. They provide information about ways that families of children with disabilities cope with their experiences, with preservice or inservice audiences. Stock No. 2C. Cost: $11.50.

Developing and maintaining mutual aid groups for parents and other family members: An annotated bibliography

Stuntzner-Gibson, D., Koroloff, N.M., & Friessen, B.L. (1998). Portland, OR: Portland State University Research and Training Center. This monograph was developed to provide resources to family members and professionals. The books, articles, handbooks, conference proceedings, and newsletters included address key issues including organizing and developing parent support groups and self-help groups and professionals’ roles in parent support groups and self-help groups. Cost: $7.50.

Dictionary for parents of children with disabilities

The M.V.P. (Most Valuable Parent) Project. (1993, June). Gregory, SD: South Dakota Parent Connection. This dictionary includes terminology used within the fields of testing/evaluation, early intervention, special education and related services, medical and therapeutic services, family supports and resources, vocational training, guardianship, and insurance. Parents may order copies at no charge.

The early intervention dictionary: A multidisciplinary guide to terminology

Coleman, J.C. (1999). Bethesda, MD: Woodbine House. From acidosis to zygote, this dictionary defines hundreds of medical, therapeutic, and educational terms commonly used in the early intervention field. This can be a great resource for helping parents, students, and many different professionals in the field to understand one another and collaborate successfully. Cost: $17.95.

Family Participation

Essential allies: Families as advisors
Jeppson, E.S., & Thomas, J. (1993). Bethesda, MD: Institute for Family-Centered Care. This book has lots of very practical information, illustrations, and resources for supporting family involvement in advisory activities, including training. Developed to "help bridge the gap between providers’ past training and new expectations of collaboration and partnership with families." This publication succeeds in a big way. Item No. 32060. Cost: $15.00.

The Exceptional Parent 1999 resource guide: Directories of national organizations, associations, products and services (1999). Exceptional Parent, 24(1), 1–80. This annual publication provides information about and addresses/phone numbers for resources that range from parent training and information centers to state assistive technology programs.

Families as advisors: A training guide for collaboration
Jeppson, E.S., & Thomas, J. (1997). Bethesda, MD: Institute for Family-Centered Care. New collegial relationships among families and practitioners bring opportunities to increase the responsiveness of programs and institutions, and also demand new attitudes and skills. The eight training activities included in this guide were designed to encourage dialogue and promote creative thinking related to families in advisory roles. Activities use a number of approaches (brainstorming, large and small group discussion, individual reflection) that should appeal to different types of learners. This is a nice companion to the earlier publications, Essential Allies: Families as Advisors and Words of Advice: A Guidebook for Families Serving as Advisors. Cost: $10.00.

Families in program and policy

Family involvement in policy making
Koroloff, N.M., Hunter, R.W., & Gordon, L. (1995). Portland, OR: Portland State University Regional Research Institute for Human Services. This monograph summarizes the findings of Families in Action, a five-year project to learn from the experiences of parents and other family members of children with emotional disorders who served as members of policy-making boards, committees, and other policy-related bodies. Lessons learned from families and the project are offered, along with measures and other project-related materials. Cost: $10.25.

Family-centered service coordination: A manual for parents
Zipper, I. N., Hinton, C., Well, M., & Rounds, K. (1993). Cambridge, MA: Brookline. This monograph is designed to answer family questions about the early intervention services that may be received. Cost: $7.00. Available in English and Spanish.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
For families

Schuyler, V., Sowers, J., & Broyles, N. (1998). Portland, OR: Hearing and Speech Institute. A guidebook and companion videotapes offer family members information and strategies for helping young children who are deaf or hard of hearing to learn to listen and communicate. Very useful information (e.g., selecting a communication approach, child care, amplification) is provided in a clear manner with suggestions from other family members interspersed. With the advent of universal hearing screening and anticipated increases in early referrals of very young children who are deaf or hard of hearing, these materials may also be very useful to students and practitioners. Cost: $90.

Go ask Alice: A guidebook for parents serving on state and local interagency councils

Growing great babies: A guide to caring for and supporting your baby’s development

Elliott, L. (1999). San Angelo, TX: Great Kids, Inc. This booklet was developed to support parents in caring for their baby during the first six months. Examples emphasize social, physical, and intellectual development. Strategies and examples address building a safe and trusting environment, feeding, touching, communication, and play. A Spanish version (Un baile con tu bebe) is also available. Cost: $3.00 (discounts for bulk orders)

A guide to early intervention services: A resource for families

How can we help? A resource for families

Keeping it together: A notebook for families

Parents Reaching Out. (1997). Los Lunas, NM: Author. This clever binder is a health and resource organizer for children with special needs and their families. Held one way all information appears in English; flipped over all information appears in Spanish. While some of the examples are New Mexico-specific, the model for helping manage the paperwork of early childhood intervention is a useful and thoughtful one. Cost: $20.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Making the system work: An advocacy workshop for parents

Kelker, K.A. (1987). Portland, OR: Portland State University Regional Research Institute for Human Services. The resources presented in this package are designed to provide family members with skills and strategies for serving as more effective advocates. The activities include role plays and vignettes with follow-up questions that could be used with parent and professional audiences to address a variety of family-centered practice and training issues. Cost: $8.50.

The parent leadership program training manual

Blough, J., Brown, P., Dietrich, S., & Fortune, L.B. (1996). (2nd ed.) Bethesda, MD: Institute for Family-Centered Care. Looking for new ways to mentor, guide, encourage, and support family members in leadership roles, including teaching and training? Based on a 7-session training designed by parents for parents and professionals, this manual includes sample agendas, fully-developed activities, financial support and evaluation forms, and lists of additional resources. Many of the activities could be used for skill development with any audience. Cost: $25.95 includes postage and handling.

The parent perspective: A parent consultant directory

Parent to parent: Encouraging connections between parents of children with disabilities

Brown, L., & Irwin, L. (1992). Madison, WI: Wisconsin Personnel Development Project. This handbook is directed at parents and professionals who see a need for parent-to-parent matching in their area and want to know how to do it. Cost: $5.00.

Parent-professional collaboration content in professional education programs: A research report

Friesen, B.J., & Schultzze, K.H. (1992). Portland, OR: Portland State University Regional Research Institute for Human Services. This monograph summarizes findings from examination of the curricula of five disciplines: medicine, social work, nursing, psychology, and special education. Each section lists discipline-specific examples of courses and programs in which family-professional partnerships are being featured, as well as specific examples of resources and materials. Could be helpful for embedding family-centered content in existing coursework and enhancing family participation in training. Cost: $5.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Parents as policy-makers: A handbook for effective participation

Hunter, R.W. (1994). Portland, OR: Portland State University Regional Research Institute for Human Services. The purpose of this manual is to provide parents and other family members of children with disabilities with some practical tools with which they can become effective partners with professionals in the policy-making process. It is divided into four sections: understanding the process, strategies for effective participation, organizing as advocates, and resources for decision-making. Cost: $7.25.

A parent’s guide

The premature baby book

Harrison, H. (1983). New York: St. Martin’s Press. This book, written by a parent, presents clear, carefully-researched and basic information for families of premature babies. It presents the basic medical information, answers to frequently asked questions and a complete guide to taking the premature infant home. Proceeds from the sale of this book will be donated to organizations that help premature babies and their families. Cost: $19.95 plus shipping & handling.

SSI helping kids

National Center for Policy Coordination in Maternal and Child Health. Gainesville, FL: Author. This 10-minute videotape is designed to provide parents and professional staff with basic information about the SSI program for children, including purpose, eligibility criteria, application procedures and benefits. The tape could stand alone or be integrated in education or outreach efforts. Cost: Free.

Successfully parenting your baby with special needs: Early intervention for ages birth to three

Hanlon, G.M. (1999). Fair Haven, NJ: Edvantage Media. This video provides a detailed overview of early intervention, geared toward families of very young children with special needs who are just getting involved with services. The tape presents current information on key aspects of a state system (e.g., referral, evaluation, IFSP). A caution in using this tape is that it reflects largely Anglo-European families in comfortable, middle class settings, and thus is not reflective of the cultural, ethnic, linguistic, or socioeconomic diversity of families receiving early intervention services. Cost: $49.95.
Telling your family story . . . parents as presenters

King, S. (Ed.). (1994, October). Madison, WI: Wisconsin Personnel Development Project. This videotape and accompanying guide can be used by individuals or groups who are interested in improving their presentation skills. The materials, while somewhat dry, can be used to help family members and caregivers to share their personal experiences through the encouragement and examples of the families featured on the tape. Cost: $60.00.

The 3R’s for special education: A guide for parents/A tool for educators

Trevor, G.H. Fair Haven, NJ: Edvantage Media. This 45-minute video is especially geared toward parents to assist them in advocating for their child with special needs within school systems. An overview of the special education system, laws and rights, designing IEPs, and preparing for meetings are some of the topics covered. Along with practical tips for navigating the process, words of advice from other parents (e.g., the Welcome to Holland story) and encouragement of self-advocacy are consistent themes. Cost: $49.95.

Words of advice: A guidebook for families serving as advisors

Thomas, J., & Jeppson, E. (1997). Bethesda, MD: Institute for family-centered care. This publication offers guidance for thinking through the benefits and demands of advisory roles for family members, presents some fundamental principles for being a successful advisor, and suggests practical tips for dealing with common challenges that families encounter in these new roles. Designed as a follow-up to Essential Allies, the guidebook mixes useful self-assessment checklists with words of advice and encouragement from family members around the country who are already serving as advisors. Item No. 32061. Cost: $10.00.

Working together:
Early intervention family participation resources

Early Intervention Services, Massachusetts Department of Health. (1997, January). Boston: Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Bureau of Family and Community Health. This publication represents a collection of ideas for family members, practitioners, or administrators to use to stimulate and support family participation in early intervention programs. The information included ranges from the fundamentals of family participation to advisory roles, public awareness committees, and family participation standards. Cost: Free.

Your child has a disability

Ratshaw, M. (1991). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. This book has lots of information for family members, practitioners and faculty. Along with easily understandable descriptions for procedures, diagnoses, and interventions, it offers some great teaching and training materials. For example, Chapter 2’s section on reading a medical report offers several examples of jargon-laden writing paired with “translations.” Students could be provided with the jargon, asked to write translations, and given Ratshaw’s translations to compare with. Cost: $24.95.
Personnel Preparation & Development

This section includes information on models (mentoring, consultation) and methods (instructional approaches, case method and team-based approaches) for supporting preservice education, inservice training, and ongoing staff development.

Primary Resources

By design: Family-centered, interdisciplinary preservice training in early intervention

Amy Whitehead, Betty Ulanski, Beth Swedeen, Rae Sprague, Gail Yellen-Shiring, Amy Fruchtman, Carrie Pomije, & Peggy Rosin

This guide for faculty and trainers was developed by the Family-Centered Interdisciplinary Training Project in Early Intervention. It describes all the strategies used to stimulate, support, and evaluate learning by students from different disciplines (seminars, team activities, family mentor experience, community placement, supervision). All materials for replicating these strategies are included, along with evaluation data from the project to guide implementation.

Lives in progress: Case stories in early intervention

P.J. McWilliam and invited contributors

This thought-provoking book uses the case method of instruction to give students (preservice) and participants (instructor) the opportunity to practice the problem-solving and decision-making skills they need on the job. The book includes twenty “unsolved” case stories based on actual work experiences of early interventionists across the United States. They can be used to develop skills for listening, advocacy, understanding diverse points of view, and collaborative action planning. A companion Instructor's Guide, featuring teaching notes and other supplemental materials, is available upon request to instructors.

The winning trainer: Winning ways to involve people in learning

Julius E. Eitington

With its extensive appendices available for copying (120+ pages), this book presents engaging and dynamic techniques that involve learners in the learning process, increasing retention and understanding. Sections on getting things started (icebreakers, openers), using small groups effectively, role playing, games, exercises, puzzles, case method, evaluation, and transfer will have application in both preservice and inservice settings. There's even a chapter called "If you must lecture . . .," describing how to make this instructional approach as effective as possible. The spiral-bound format allows easy copying of exercises, measures, and activities.

Career Development

Career development systems in early care and education:
A planning approach

Costley, J. (1991). Boston, MA: Center for Career Development in Early Care and Education at Wheelock College. This classic publication addresses the key characteristics of a career development system and the steps to develop and implement such a system. Could be an instructional tool for examining what different states are or aren't doing to create supportive lattice structures. Cost: $5.00.

Creating and using core knowledge/competencies

Azer, S.L. (1997). Boston, MA: Center for Career Development in Early Care and Education at Wheelock College. This document discusses the ways states have identified and are using core knowledge/competency areas as part of a comprehensive early childhood career development system. Examples, including sample documents from eight states, could be used for instruction or planning. Cost: $15.00.

Working toward making a career of it:
A profile of career development initiatives in 1996

Azer, S.L., Capraro, K.L., & Elliott, K.A. (1996). Boston, MA: Center for Career Development in Early Care and Education at Wheelock College. This document does a nice job of highlighting trends and initiatives in early childhood personnel development across states. The information on issues, barriers, and challenges could be used to organize a lively class discussion of factors that support a quality work force. Cost: $15.00.
Case Method of Instruction

Case method of instruction outreach project

Through a series of projects funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education, P.J. McWilliam and other early intervention colleagues have developed a substantial number of case stories and related training materials to provide instructors with the necessary tools for incorporating the case method of instruction (CMI) in their preservice and in-service training of early interventionists. All these materials are now available on the Worldwide Web. To access information about the case method of instruction, ideas about instructional applications, the actual cases (solved and unsolved), and discussions questions, go to http://www.fpg.unc.edu/~cml/index.htm.

Case studies for teacher problem solving

Cases in early childhood education: Stories of programs and practices

Driscol, A. (1995). Needham Heights, MA: Allyn & Bacon. The cases in this book take readers into ten distinct classrooms and communities to portray the broad scope of an instructional day from beginning to end. A matrix is provided, indicating, by case, the age of the children (3-7), the program location (urban/rural), and the issues addressed (parent involvement, transition to kindergarten, inclusion, interagency collaboration). Suggestions for using the cases effectively are also provided. Cost: $32.00.

Clearinghouse for Special Education Teaching Cases

The Clearinghouse is an outgrowth of a project designed to develop, evaluate (field test), and nationally disseminate teaching cases to aide in the inservice and preservice preparation of teachers who work with children and youth with disabilities and their families. Fifty-four teaching cases have been written by trained case writers who interviewed classroom teachers from all over the United States as case informants for the cases. Each case has been field tested, includes questions for discussion, and is cross-referenced with expected areas of teacher competence designated by the Council for Exceptional Children (CEC). Cases may be accessed at http://cases.coedu.usf.edu/.

Giving it some thought: Cases for early childhood practice

Rand, M.K. (2000). Washington, DC: National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). This volume presents 49 teaching cases that reflect typical challenges in teaching young children. They cover the spectrum of center-based early childhood settings, including Head Start, nursery schools, private child care centers, kindergartens, and preschool/primary programs in public schools, and incorporate a variety of cultural contexts found in urban, suburban, and rural locales. The cases provide a basis for discussing decisions and courses of action, developing problem-solving abilities, and improving decision-making skills and self-reflection. Cost: $9.00 plus postage and handling.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Leadership for special education administration:
A case-based approach

Goor, M.B. (1995). Orlando: Harcourt Brace & Company. Short, very usable cases highlight current leadership challenges in providing services. Most cases are presented within the context of teamwork, in which administrators are team members who must collaborate with teachers, parents, and students. A great resource for helping students see more than one side of an issue. Cost: $15.00.

Using cases to improve college teaching:
A guide to more reflective practice

Hutchings, P. (1993). Washington, DC: American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AAHE). This guide explores the use of cases about teaching and learning to prompt collaborative discussion and reflection about pedagogical issues. Strategies for writing and discussing cases are included, as well as information about additional projects, people and materials. Seven reproducible cases, with teaching notes, are included. Cost: $15.00.

Coaching

Coaching partnerships: Refining early intervention practices

Gallacher, K. (1995). Missoula, MT: Montana University Affiliated Program Rural Institute on Disabilities. This manual is designed to assist in the development and implementation of effective coaching partnerships. It includes six sections that define coaching, describe program development, examine the coaching process, describe roles, responsibilities, and potential modifications, and offer additional resources. Cost: $6.00 plus shipping and handling.

Consultation

The consultation process: Implications for early intervention

The consulting therapist

Hanft, B.E., & Place, P.A. (1996). San Antonio, TX: Communication Skill Builders/Therapy Skill Builders. This text offers effective strategies and case studies designed to assist individual practitioners in providing relevant consultation by using a collaborative approach with educators and other team members. Though designed to facilitate the work of occupational therapists and physical therapists with classroom teachers in developing intervention plans for students with special needs, many of the concepts and formats could easily to interdisciplinary consultative interactions in early intervention. Stock No. 0761643656. Cost: $47.50.
Mental health consultation in early childhood
Donahue, P.J., Falk, B., & Provot, A.G. (2000). Baltimore: Brookes. The authors discuss key issues in the collaborative process, including techniques for supporting practitioners and enhancing the resilience of children and families, examples of specific traumas and crisis interventions, and the challenges and rewards of the ongoing partnership. This innovative resource delivers practical suggestions, vignettes, handouts, and photocopyable forms to mental health professionals and early childhood educators who want a more effective way to reach the children and families they serve. Cost: $28.95.

Distance Education

Going the distance: A handbook for developing distance degree programs using television courses and telecommunication technologies
Toby Levine Communications, Inc. (1994). Arlington, VA: PBS Adult Learning Service. This book identifies steps involved in establishing distance degree programs, issues to examine before beginning the process, and the main issues involved in program development. Provides detailed information regarding faculty, student, and financial issues involved in establishing a distance degree program. Several examples of established distance degree programs are provided. Cost: FREE. Call (800) 257-2578.

Instructional Approaches

101 ways to make training active
Silberman, M. (1995). San Francisco: Jossey-Bass/Pfeiffer. The most extensive collection of active-learning techniques ever published offers specific suggestions on how to organize and conduct lively training sessions that can be used to teach any subject. From team building and stimulating discussions to prompting questions, developing skills, inviting feedback, and promoting back-on-the-job applications, this book has inventive options and proven strategies. Cost: $39.95.

Achieving your vision of professional development: How to assess your needs and get what you want
Collins, D. (1997). Tallahassee, FL: SERVE. This easy-to-use book has lots of good practical information and activities to assist individual learners and those who facilitate the learning of others. Sections are organized in a natural progression from developing a vision and creating a context for change through investing resources, providing continual assistance, and assessing/monitoring progress. Cost: $10.00.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Ants in his pants: Absurdities and realities of special education

Giangreco, M.F. [1998]. Minnetonka, MN: Peytra Publications, Inc. This book consists of cartoons that provide humorous and thought-provoking illustrations of service delivery challenges. Inclusion, teaming, IFSPs, IEPs, and consultation are some of the areas featured. Cost: $19.95.

Active learning: Cooperation in the college classroom

Johnson, D.W., Johnson, R.T., & Smith, K.A. (1998). Edina, MN: Interaction Book Company. This book is about how college faculty can use cooperative learning to increase student achievement, create positive relationships among students, and promote healthy student psychological adjustment to college. It contains a set of practical strategies for structuring cooperative learning and the conceptual framework needed to understand how to create a truly cooperative learning community in your classes and college. Cost: $26.00.

The art of teaching adults:
How to become an exceptional instructor and facilitator

Co-instruction: A case study

Whitehead, A., & Sontag, J.C. (1994). Madison, WI: Waisman Center, Early Intervention Program. This publication, intended to provide guidance to those who are interested in parent-professional collaboration in an academic setting, describes the process of co-instruction undertaken by the authors (a professor and a parent of a child with a disability). The course syllabus, objectives, structure/approach, and accompanying materials are provided, along with instructor reflections and recommendations. Cost: $5.00.

Cooperative learning:
Increasing college faculty instructional productivity

Johnson, D.W., Johnson, R.T., & Smith, K.A. [1991]. Washington, DC: ERIC Clearinghouse on Higher Education, The George Washington University, School of Education and Human Development. The use of active learning strategies, such as cooperative learning, is growing at a remarkable rate. This monograph is about how faculty can ensure that students actively create their knowledge rather than passively listening to yours. Good ideas for structuring learning situations cooperatively at the college level so students work together to achieve shared goals. Stock No. ED347871. Cost: $17.00.

Flying by the seat of your pants: More absurdities and realities of special education

Games trainers play: Experiential learning exercises
Newstrom, J.W., & Scannell, E.E. (1980). Des Moines, IA: Training Express. A collection of activities, exercises, and games to supplement learning on any topic. All of the exercises, which are divided into categories such as climate setting & icebreakers, listening, problem solving & creativity, and knowledge transfer, have been previously field-tested for success. Stock No. MG22X. Cost: $29.95.

Gone through any changes lately?
Brown, J., & Edelman, L. (Producers), & Edelman, L. (Director). (1998). Denver: Western Media Products. This 4-minute video was developed for use by trainers, educators, team builders and discussion leaders to use in helping groups deal with change in a positive way. Using the imagery of a favorite childhood toy, the tape encourages personal reflection and stimulates conversation about the effects of change on peoples' lives, work environments, and relationships. Cost: $43.95 (includes shipping).

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Growing teachers: Partnerships in staff development
Jones, E. (Ed.). (1993). Washington, DC: National Association for the Education of Young Children. This publication offers eight stories involving partnerships between one or more early childhood programs—preschools, child care centers, public schools—and some other agency or individual working over time with teaching staff to facilitate growth. Along with each example is some very good material on facilitation, mentorship, communication and motivations for learning. Request #208. Cost: $6.00.

How people learn: Bridging research and practice

Making families matter at two-year colleges: Training the early childhood workforce to support families
Coffman, J. (1999). Cambridge, MA: Harvard Family Research Project. This monograph shares the findings from a study of the family-focused training available at two-year colleges that provide early childhood education programs. Included in the report are strategies and promising practices that address the gaps found in current programs. Cost: $13.00.

New teachers for a new century: The future of early childhood professional preparation

Pediatric occupational therapy and early intervention

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
Pediatric skills for occupational therapy assistants

Solomon, J.W. (2000). St. Louis: Mosby, Inc. This comprehensive, easy-to-read text covers all the fundamentals of pediatrics an occupational therapy assistant (OTA) needs to know, including information on normal development, pediatric health conditions, and the occupational therapy process. Each chapter includes objectives, outlines, key terms, summaries, review questions, and "clinical pearls" (advice from voices of experience). An instructor's manual identifies additional learning activities and resources, and provides multiple choice questions about each chapter. Cost: Text ($49.95); Instructor's Manual (free to faculty with purchase of text).

Preparing practitioners to work with infants, toddlers, and their families: Issues and recommendations for educators and trainers

Professors are from Mars, students are from Snickers: How to write and deliver humor in the classroom and in professional presentations

Berk, R. A. (1998). Madison, WI: Mendota Press. Humor can break down barriers and enable teachers and other presenters to connect with students or other audiences. A variety of techniques that can be used to integrate humor systematically into instruction and professional presentations are described and illustrated, along with suggestions on when, where and how to use humor effectively. Cost: $19.95.

Reforming personnel preparation in early intervention: Issues, models, and practical strategies

Winton, P.J., McCollum, J.A., & Catlett, C. (Eds.). (1997). Baltimore: Paul Brookes. A text designed to promote the delivery of creative and effective preparation of students and practitioners working in any area of early intervention. Four sections delineate the issues, describe the challenges, present possible solutions in the form of instructional ideas and activities, and offer specific examples of models around the country that work. Cost: $56.95.

The skillful teacher: On technique, trust, and responsiveness in the classroom

Brookfield, S. D. (1990). San Francisco: Jossey-Bass. Drawing on 20 years of his own teaching experience, Brookfield identifies critical areas in the teacher-learner relationship—such as building trust with students or overcoming resistance to learning—to demonstrate what teachers can do to improve their skills. Guiding discussions, balancing learning styles, and utilizing diverse instructional methods are a few of the topics covered. It’s a classic! Cost: $32.95.

For ordering information, please see the Source List on page 119.
The teaching game: A practical guide to mastering training
Saunders, M.K., & Hawkins, R.L. (1986). Dubuque, IA: Kendall/Hunt Publishing Company. This practical guide was designed to assist teachers/trainers of adults. It provides lots of useful examples throughout chapters that focus on the characteristics of adult learners (and what to do about them), the characteristics of adult educators, interpersonal styles and delivery, communication between trainers and trainees, and instructional techniques. The chapter on evaluation and feedback has clear examples of how to write test questions, obtain useful feedback, and encourage self-assessment. Cost: $32.00.

Training methods that work: A handbook for trainers

Training teachers: A harvest of theory and practice

Mentoring

The early childhood mentoring curriculum

Empowering the faculty: Mentoring redirected and renewed
Luna, G., & Cullen, D.L. (1995). Washington, DC: ERIC Clearinghouse on Higher Education, Graduate School of Education and Human Development, The George Washington University. This monograph synthesizes the literature on mentoring in terms of conceptual frameworks, mentoring arenas, and roles and functions of mentors and proteges. It also discusses the dynamics of mentoring for empowering faculty members as leaders and the importance of mentoring women and minorities in academe. In discussions designed to convey the benefits of mentoring to the entire institute, the authors guidelines and examples that range from getting a program started to keeping the ball rolling. Stock No. ED399889. Cost: $25.00.

Learning through supervision and mentorship to support the development of infants, toddlers and their families

Learning through supervision and mentorship to support the development of infants, toddlers and their families: A source book

Team Models

Collaboration in interprofessional practice and training: An annotated bibliography

Cooperative learning teams: Enhancing early intervention competencies

Forest, S. (1997). Missoula, MT: University of Montana. Here’s a manual describing everything you need to know to promote cooperative learning among adults. Sections include: (1) what is cooperative learning (basic components, benefits, differences from traditional training); (2) what steps are necessary to implement cooperative learning approaches for preservice or inservice education; (3) techniques and procedures necessary to effectively plan, implement, and evaluate cooperative learning activities; and (4) skills necessary to support cooperative learning teams. Cost: $6.00 plus postage and handling.

What’s in the Resource Guide?

- Over 400 entries divided into 16 sections that correspond with key early childhood/early intervention instructional content and process areas.

- Descriptions of complete products to assist you in designing quality personnel development efforts (i.e., curricula, videotapes, discussion guides).

- Annotated entries for materials that can serve as supplemental resources to your preservice and inservice efforts (i.e., articles, bibliographies, free publications, annotated directories).

- 9th edition (2000) features more materials on early care and development (0-9) and free products that you can download from the Web. Available July 1.

Since 1992, a cluster of projects at the Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center has been exploring policies and practices that promote improvements in the preparation of the workforce to serve young children (0–9), especially those infants, toddlers, and young children with disabilities and their families. Each project (SIFT, SIFT-OUT, SCRIPT, New Scripts) has been organized to promote systemic change. Visit this website to learn more about the states that have participated as well as new methods and materials for promoting systemic change and family-centered personnel preparation priorities at the state and local level.
