Telling Your Story

You can change the system through the power of your personal story. You can change a law. You can help make laws or change existing policies and practices. This app will help you. Using this app, you will identify the problem, come up with solutions, and describe your personal story.

Your personal story should relate to the problem you are trying to resolve. You can use this app to help write letters or emails to your elected public officials or other policymakers, help with making phone calls, and assist you in preparing testimony to present at a legislative hearing or meeting with a public official in person.

Follow the steps in this app to build your story. You can then review and send the written results, and use your tablet to record your story as a means of practicing what you want to say. The app is designed for both self advocacy problems/issues and parent/family problems/issues.

Tony Coelho provided his personal story to Congress more than 20 years ago. His story is still very powerful. You can watch him present his story to Congress, read more example stories, or skip ahead to begin.

Thea Graham

My name is Thea Graham. I live in your district. I have been waiting all year to come to the Capitol to meet with you. I want to tell you a little about myself.

Currently, I live with my mother. She is very good to me and I love her a lot. I do know that I will not always be able to live with my mom. We have been looking at different residential support options to see what would be the best match. I know when I move out, I will need staff to support me in using my “wise mind” since I can get upset.

Staff will also need to help me with making sure that I look nice since this is very important to me. They will also need to help me drive to the doctor and help me understand what the doctor is saying about my health needs. My mom does all of this for me now.

I receive services at Merrick, Inc., a day program in Vadnais Heights. It is here that I have learned to use my “wise mind” more and more. Before I would swear, yell, and hit people when I got mad—now I use my “wise mind”. This means that I “stop, calm down, think, and come up with another solution that will help resolve the situation”.

I do the following jobs at Merrick: pick up plastic recycling at the Maplewood Mall, package medical supplies, take Styro-foam from Culligan caps, and shred pull tabs. I love to make money and work like everyone else does. My job coach Kathy and “Christian” support my job and they tell me I am doing a good job not only with jobs but how I handle things that come my way.
1. What Is the Problem?

Introduce the problem...

My right to vote is being threatened.
My local post office is inaccessible.
My child is being restrained and secluded in school.
My services might be cut.
The education program for my son/daughter is not working.
I want a job but have been told that I cannot earn too much money.
My insurance company won't cover hearing aids.
The local playground is inaccessible.

Record yourself rehearsing your story... 30 second time limit per screen.
2. What is my problem in terms of others in my community?

Refer to the checklist...

In this box, list other people who might be affected by the problem you’ve identified. The idea is to join your personal story with others working on the same topic.

For example:
- Voting issues affect many people, not just yourself.
- The use of parks affects many people, including veterans with disabilities and older individuals.

An inaccessible building affects many people with a range of issues.

Take a photo or select a photo from your device...
3. What is my personal story?

B. Describe yourself:

- Your name:

- Are you a constituent?

- Where do you live?

- Where do you work?

- Say something about yourself. What are your interests? Do you do any volunteer work?
3C. What is my personal story?

Describe why you are concerned about this particular issue...
4. My Request for Action

Describe what you would like the policymaker to do.

Examples:

I am asking you to support legislation that reduces the amount of paperwork needed to apply for a personal care waiver in this state.

I am asking you to sponsor legislation that would require all public parks to be constructed using universal design principles so that everyone can use them, regardless of ability.

I am asking that you include self advocates on committees that are established under legislation that affects individuals with developmental disabilities.
