FCC Partner Toolkit
The Emergency Broadband Benefit Program is a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) Program that provides a temporary discount on monthly broadband bills for qualifying low-income households. Eligible households can receive:

• Up to $50/month discount for broadband service and associated equipment rentals;
• Up to $75/month discount for households on Tribal lands, and;
• A one-time discount of up to $100 for a laptop, desktop computer, or tablet purchased through a participating provider.
Who Qualifies for the Benefit?

A Household is Eligible If Any Member

• Received a Pell Grant in the current award year;
• Is approved to receive benefits under the free and reduced school lunch program or school breakfast program in the 2019-2020 or 2020-2021 school year;
• Experienced a substantial loss of income, due to a job loss or furlough since 2/29/20 and the household had a total income in 2020 below $99,000 (single filers) or $198,000 (joint filers); or
• Meets the eligibility of a participating providers' existing COVID-19 or low-income program.

A household is a group of people who live together and share money (even if they are not related to each other.) If you live together and share money, you are one household. If you either don’t live together or you don’t share money, you are two or more households.

- A household can qualify because of eligible dependent children that meet the eligibility criteria.
- You may have to answer questions about your household when you apply for the Emergency Broadband Benefit Program.
- A household worksheet will be available to assist in determining household eligibility.
Eligible households within multi-unit dwellings such as apartment buildings, nursing homes, and group homes can also take advantage of the benefit.

- Households within multi-unit dwellings, where the landlord or the property manager is the internet account holder, may be able to apply the benefit to that broadband service if they otherwise qualify.

- If the household has a bill or other liability for their broadband access that someone else, such as the property owner, is helping to pay, the household could switch temporarily to using EBB support to pay for broadband service instead of relying on that third party’s support.
The Emergency Broadband Benefit opened enrollment on May 12, 2021.

The Emergency Broadband Benefit is a temporary program developed in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The program will end once the program funds are exhausted, or six months after the Department of Health and Human Services declares an end to the pandemic, whichever comes first.

The program is administered by the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC). They also administer the Lifeline program. USAC hosts the application portal and the GetEmergencyBroadband.org consumer website.
Participating providers must give households notice about the last date or billing cycle that the full benefit will apply to their bill and the date or billing cycle that a partial benefit will apply to their bill, in addition to information about the cost of broadband service after the program ends.

Households will need to opt-in or request to continue broadband services with their provider. If they don’t opt-in or select a new service plan with the provider, their broadband service will end once the program ends. Even if they had service with the same provider before enrolling in the Emergency Broadband Benefit, they will need to opt-in to continue broadband services after the program ends.
The program is open to all broadband providers, not just those currently offering Lifeline services.

- Fixed broadband services are provided to your home, or a single location. These include cable, fiber optic, DSL, satellite, and fixed wireless services.
- Mobile broadband services are device-based and available throughout the service provider’s cellular coverage area, similar to cell phone services.

Check with the broadband providers in your area to learn about their plans for program participation and eligible service offerings. You can find a list of participating providers by state and territory linked on www.fcc.gov/broadbandbenefit.

Not all providers plan to offer connected devices through the program.
There are three ways to apply for the Emergency Broadband Benefit

Option 1: Contact a participating broadband provider directly to learn about their application process.

Option 2: Go to GetEmergencyBroadband.org to apply online and to find participating providers near you.

Option 3: Send a mail-in application, along with proof of eligibility to:

Emergency Broadband Support Center
