

150th Anniversary

Minnesota Security Hospital

Employees at the hospital worked 12-hour shifts. They got a half-day each week off, which was Sunday, and one full day off every two weekends.

Mrs. Pennington at work in the laboratory. She was a technician at the hospital. Her husband was a doctor there.

The men's sick room, circa 1917. Employee Auggie Palmer, far left, worked from 1912 though 1966.

Until 1907, staff lived on wards with patients. Later, there were dormitories and other residences where they could relax when not on duty.

Say Ahhhhh ...
Dentistry over the years. Photo on the left was likely taken in the 1920s.

Because many of them lived on campus, employees spent their free time there. Sports were a popular diversion. Above is the hospital's baseball team.