

EVIDENCE

Minnesota Rules of Evidence

	PAGE
Table of Headnotes	463
Text of Rules	464
Index	514

Minnesota Rules of Evidence

Effective July 1 1977

With amendments received through August 1 1998

TABLE OF HEADNOTES

ARTICLE 1 GENERAL PROVISIONS

Rule

- 101 Scope
- 102 Purpose and Construction
- 103 Rulings on Evidence
- 104 Preliminary Questions
- 105 Limited Admissibility
- 106 Remainder of or Related Writings or Recorded Statements

ARTICLE 2 JUDICIAL NOTICE

- 201 Judicial Notice of Adjudicative Facts

ARTICLE 3 PRESUMPTIONS IN CIVIL ACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS

- 301 Presumptions in General in Civil Actions and Proceedings

ARTICLE 4 RELEVANCY AND ITS LIMITS

- 401 Definition of 'Relevant Evidence'
- 402 Relevant Evidence Generally Admissible Irrelevant Evidence Inadmissible
- 403 Exclusion of Relevant Evidence on Grounds of Prejudice, Confusion, or Waste of Time
- 404 Character Evidence Not Admissible to Prove Conduct, Exceptions Other Crimes
- 405 Methods of Proving Character
- 406 Habit, Routine Practice
- 407 Subsequent Remedial Measures
- 408 Compromise and Offers to Compromise
- 409 Payment of Medical and Similar Expenses
- 410 Offer to Plead Guilty Nolo Contendere Withdrawn Plea of Guilty
- 411 Liability Insurance
- 412 Past Conduct of Victim of Certain Sex Offenses

ARTICLE 5 PRIVILEGES

- 501 General Rule

ARTICLE 6 WITNESSES

- 601 Competency
- 602 Lack of Personal Knowledge
- 603 Oath or Affirmation
- 604 Interpreters
- 605 Competency of Judge as Witness
- 606 Competency of Juror as Witness
- 607 Who May Impeach
- 608 Evidence of Character and Conduct of Witness
- 609 Impeachment by Evidence of Conviction of Crime
- 610 Religious Beliefs or Opinions
- 611 Mode and Order of Interrogation and Presentation
- 612 Writing Used to Refresh Memory
- 613 Prior Statements of Witnesses

- 614 Calling and Interrogation of Witnesses by Court
- 615 Exclusion of Witnesses
- 616 Bias of Witness
- 617 Conversation with Deceased or Insane Person

ARTICLE 7 OPINIONS AND EXPERT TESTIMONY

- 701 Opinion Testimony by Lay Witness
- 702 Testimony by Experts
- 703 Bases of Opinion Testimony by Experts
- 704 Opinion on Ultimate Issue
- 705 Disclosure of Facts or Data Underlying Expert Opinion
- 706 Court Appointed Experts

ARTICLE 8 HEARSAY

- 801 Definitions
- 802 Hearsay Rule
- 803 Hearsay Exceptions, Availability of Declarant Immaterial
- 804 Hearsay Exceptions, Declarant Unavailable
- 805 Hearsay Within Hearsay
- 806 Attacking and Supporting Credibility of Declarant

ARTICLE 9 AUTHENTICATION AND IDENTIFICATION

- 901 Requirement of Authentication or Identification
- 902 Self-Authentication
- 903 Subscribing Witness Testimony Unnecessary

ARTICLE 10 CONTENTS OF WRITINGS, RECORDINGS AND PHOTOGRAPHS

- 1001 Definitions
- 1002 Requirement of Original
- 1003 Admissibility of Duplicates
- 1004 Admissibility of Other Evidence of Contents
- 1005 Public Records
- 1006 Summaries
- 1007 Testimony or Written Admission of Party
- 1008 Functions of Court and Jury

ARTICLE 11 MISCELLANEOUS RULES

- 1101 Rules Applicable

INDEX

Revisor's Note: Supreme Court Order dated December 28, 1989 promulgating amendments to the Rules of Evidence provide in part:

The inclusion of Advisory Committee comments is made for convenience and does not reflect court approval of the comments made therein.

TEXT OF RULES

ARTICLE 1 GENERAL PROVISIONS

Rule 101 Scope

These rules govern proceedings in the courts of this state to the extent and with the exceptions stated in Rule 1101.

Rule 102 Purpose and Construction

These rules shall be construed to secure fairness in administration, elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay, and promotion of growth and development of the law of evidence to the end that the truth may be ascertained and proceedings justly determined.

Committee Comment—1977

Rule 102 sets the stage for the application of the evidentiary rules. In the interpretation of the rules principles of fairness and convenience should be paramount. The rules should not be read narrowly but with a view for accomplishing essential fairness, with a minimum of formality and procedural obstacles in the search for the truth. The rules provide for a great deal of flexibility and discretion. This rule urges that such discretion and flexibility be exercised to accomplish the stated purpose.

Rule 103. Rulings on Evidence

(a) Effect of erroneous ruling. Error may not be predicated upon a ruling which admits or excludes evidence unless a substantial right of the party is affected, and

(1) Objection. In case the ruling is one admitting evidence a timely objection or motion to strike appears of record, stating the specific ground of objection, if the specific ground was not apparent from the context, or

(2) Offer of proof. In case the ruling is one excluding evidence, the substance of the evidence was made known to the court by offer or was apparent from the context within which questions were asked

(b) Record of offer and ruling. The court may add any other or further statement which shows the character of the evidence, the form in which it was offered, the objection made and the ruling thereon. Upon request of any party the court shall place its ruling on the record. The court may direct the making of an offer in question and answer form.

(c) Hearing of jury. In jury cases proceedings shall be conducted, to the extent practicable so as to prevent inadmissible evidence from being suggested to the jury by any means, such as making statements or offers of proof or asking questions in the hearing of the jury.

(d) Error. Nothing in this rule precludes taking notice of errors in fundamental law or of plain errors affecting substantial rights although they were not brought to the attention of the court.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

Rule 103(a) codifies the existing practice in Minnesota. Only error affecting substantial rights is actionable. Minn. R. Civ. P. 61 and Minn. R. Crim. P. 31.01. The rule does not define what is meant by substantial rights but leaves this for case by case decision. Although there are many cases applying this standard no clear cut definition of substantial rights has emerged. The normal procedure in these cases appears to be an examination of the effect of the alleged error upon the trial as a whole for determination as to whether or not the error was prejudicial. See J. Hetland and O. Adamson, Minnesota Practice Rule 61 (1970) and cases cited therein. In criminal cases certain constitutional errors require automatic reversal see State v. Schmit, 273 Minn. 78, 88, 139 N.W.2d 800, 807 (1966) whereas others must be harmless beyond a reasonable doubt. Chapman v. California, 386 U.S. 18, 24, 87 S.Ct. 824, 828, 17 L.Ed.2d 705, 710, 711 (1967) and see State ex rel. Kopetka v. Tahash, 281 Minn. 52, 56, 160 N.W.2d 399, 402 (1968). See also C. Wright, Federal Practice and Procedure section 856, rule 52 (1969) and cases cited therein. In cases involving nonconstitutional errors where the error has the effect of depriving the defendant of a fair trial the court has applied the reasonable doubt standard. State v. White, 295 Minn. 217, 226, 203 N.W.2d 852, 859 (1973) and something akin to the automatic reversal standard see e.g. State v. Flowers, 262 Minn. 164, 169, 114 N.W.2d 78, 81 (1962). State v. Reardon, 245 Minn. 509, 513, 514, 73 N.W.2d 192, 195 (1955). However in cases involving error of a less grievous type presumably error not affecting the fairness of the trial process the Court has inquired into whether it is likely that the error played a substantial part in influencing the jury to convict. State v. Caron, 300 Minn. 123, 127, 128, 218 N.W.2d 197, 200 (1974). See State v. Van Alstine, 232 N.W.2d 899, 905 (1975). State v. Fields, Minn., 237 N.W.2d 634, 635 (1976). State v. Wilebski, Minn., 238 N.W.2d 213, 215 (1976).

The rule continues the existing practice of requiring not only a timely objection but a specific objection unless the context of the question makes the grounds for objection obvious.

See Kenney v Chicago Great Western Ry 245 Minn 284 289 71 N W2d 669, 672 673 certiorari denied 350 U S 903 76 S Ct 182 100 L Ed 793 (1955) Adelmann v Elk River Lumber Co 242 Minn 388 393 394 65 N W2d 661 666 (1954) Under current practice a motion in limine to strike or prohibit the introduction of evidence operates as a timely objection and obviates the requirement of any further objection with respect to such evidence If the Court excludes evidence an offer of proof must be made to preserve the issue for review unless the substance of the evidence is apparent from its context See Auger v Rofshus 267 Minn 87 91 125 N W2d 159 162 (1963) Wozniak v Luta 258 Minn 234 241 103 N W2d 870 875 (1960), Minn R Civ P 43 03 see also Minn R Civ P 46 59 01(6) and Minn R Crim P 26 03 subdivision 14(1)

This rule is adapted from Minn R Civ P 43 03 In order to determine on review whether or not a substantial right of a party was affected by the exclusion of evidence the reviewing court must have some information as to the nature of the excluded testimony Parties are entitled to have the rulings of the court placed on the record if they so request The rule gives the court authority to require that the offer of proof be in question and answer form to provide an accurate record for review It would also be permissible to allow cross-examination of the witness making the offer of proof

The rule gives the court the discretion in the conduct of the trial to employ procedures that would minimize the possibility of inadmissible evidence being suggested to the jury It puts to rest the issue that was unresolved in In re McConnell 370 U S 230 82 S Ct 1288 8 L Ed 2d 434 (1962) as to whether or not questions on which an offer of proof is based must be asked to a witness in the presence of the jury

This subdivision (d) makes it clear that the rule is not meant to affect the application of the plain error rule or the application of Minn R Civ P 51 with respect to error in fundamental law contained in instructions to the jury Plain error is a federal term which has recently been adopted in Minn R Crim P 31 02 See State ex rel Rasmussen v Tahash 272 Minn 539 550 551 141 N W2d 3 11 (1965) The Minnesota Supreme Court has not formally recognized the plain error rule in civil cases although in several cases they have addressed issues on appeal that were not properly preserved by a timely specific objection E g Rosenfeld v Rosenfeld Minn 249 N W2d 168 (1976) Jones v Peterson 279 Minn 241 156 N W2d 733 (1968) Magistad v Potter 227 Minn 570 36 N W2d 400 (1949)

Rule 104 Preliminary Questions

(a) Questions of admissibility generally Preliminary questions concerning the qualification of a person to be a witness the existence of a privilege or the admissibility of evidence shall be determined by the court subject to the provisions of subdivision (b) In making its determination it is not bound by the rules of evidence except those with respect to privileges

(b) Relevancy conditioned on fact When the relevancy of evidence depends upon the fulfillment of a condition of fact, the court shall admit it upon, or in the court's discretion subject to the introduction of evidence sufficient to support a finding of the fulfillment of the condition

(c) Hearing of jury Hearings on the admissibility of confessions shall in all cases be conducted out of the hearing of the jury Hearings on other preliminary matters shall be so conducted when the interests of justice require or when an accused is a witness, and so requests

(d) Testimony by accused The accused does not by testifying upon a preliminary matter become subject to cross-examination as to other issues in the case

(e) Weight and credibility This rule does not limit the right of a party to introduce before the jury evidence relevant to weight or credibility

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

Rule 104 sets out the relative function of the judge and jury in the trial process It is clear that the application of the exclusionary rules of evidence rests in the hands of the court To the extent that admissibility of evidence is conditioned on the resolution of a second question (unavailability of a witness rule 804 qualification of expert witness rule 702 existence of privilege etc) it is the function of the court to determine whether or not the condition has been fulfilled Often the resolution of the second question will involve a factual determination and to that extent the court acts as a trier of fact In this capacity the court is not bound by the exclusionary rules of evidence other than the rules dealing with privilege The exclusionary rules of evidence reflect a concern over the capabilities of a lay jury to make technical legal and factual distinctions The same considerations are not present when the decision as to such a preliminary question is to be made by the court Furthermore in the interest of judicial time and expense practicality dictates that the court be permitted to consider reliable hearsay affidavit or offers of proof on the preliminary questions as to the competence of an offer of evidence See C McCormick Evidence section 53 (2d ed 1972) Many existing rules of procedure permit the court to make important decisions based on affidavit Minn R Civ P 43 05 4 06 56 65 01, 65 02 and Minn R Crim P 28 05 subd 5(2) 32 The policy behind preserving the confidentiality of certain communications would be destroyed by permitting the court to inquire into privilege

The rule should continue existing practice in Minnesota See State v Martin 293 Minn 116 125 197 N W 2d 219 225 (1972) where the court discusses this rule with apparent approval

Rule 104(a) must be read consistently with 104(b) and (c) Pursuant to rules 401–403 the court must make a determination as to the relevance and admissibility of an offer of evidence If the relevance of the offer is dependent on the existence of a second fact the court's function is to determine whether there is sufficient evidence admitted for a jury decision as to the existence of the second fact It is for the jury to determine whether or not the second fact is established and the weight to be given the original offer Questions of fact are deemed to be appropriate for jury determination To permit the court to determine preliminary questions of this nature would be to severely limit the fact finding function of the jury

For specific application of this provision see rules 901 and 1008 The Committee recommends the rule as provided in the Uniform Rules of Evidence since it clearly preserves the court's control over the order of proof

Preliminary hearings on the admissibility of confessions must be heard outside of the presence of the jury Jackson v Denno 378 U S 368 394 84 S Ct 1774 1790 12 L Ed 2d 908 925 926 1 A L R 3d 1205 (1964) State ex rel Rasmussen v Tahash 272 Minn 539 554 141 N W 2d 3 13 (1965) and Minn R Crim P 7 01 8 03 and 11 02 The second sentence of the rule is applicable to both civil and criminal proceedings

Hearings on preliminary questions should be heard outside of the presence of the jury when requested by the accused or where the interests of justice so require This is consistent with rule 103(c) See Minn R Crim P 7 01 8 03 and 11 02 for specific types of preliminary questions that are resolved at the omnibus hearing in a criminal case

This rule limits the court's discretion as to the scope of cross-examination pursuant to rule 611(b) The rule does not speak to the issue of the subsequent use of testimony on preliminary matters See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note

Rule 105 Limited Admissibility

When evidence which is admissible as to one party or for one purpose but not admissible as to another party or for another purpose is admitted the court upon request shall restrict the evidence to its proper scope and instruct the jury accordingly

Committee Comment—1977

Consistent with rule 103 the rule places the burden on the opposing party to request a limiting instruction before a court is required to give such an instruction This is generally consistent with existing practice State v DeZeler 230 Minn 39 48 41 N W 2d 313 319 15 A L R 2d 1137 (1950) State v Soltau 212 Minn 20 25 2 N W 2d 155 158 (1942) The rule should not be read to indicate that a limiting instruction in every case will cure any potential prejudice that might be encountered by the admission of the evidence E g Bruton v United States 391 U S 123 88 S Ct 1620 20 L Ed 2d 476 (1968) Such a decision is for the court to make under rule 403 or applicable statutory or constitutional provisions

Rule 106 Remainder of or Related Writings or Recorded Statements

When a writing or recorded statement or part thereof is introduced by a party an adverse party may require the introduction at that time of any other part or any other writing or recorded statement which ought in fairness to be considered contemporaneously with it

Committee Comment—1977

The rule extends the present rule with regard to depositions to other writings and recordings Minn R Civ P 32 01(4) The rule is not intended to apply to conversations

ARTICLE 2 JUDICIAL NOTICE

Rule 201 Judicial Notice of Adjudicative Facts

(a) Scope of rule This rule governs only judicial notice of adjudicative facts in civil cases

(b) Kinds of facts A judicially noticed fact must be one not subject to reasonable dispute in that it is either (1) generally known within the territorial jurisdiction of the trial court or (2) capable of accurate and ready determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned

(c) When discretionary A court may take judicial notice, whether requested or not

(d) When mandatory A court shall take judicial notice if requested by a party and supplied with the necessary information

(e) Opportunity to be heard A party is entitled upon timely request to an opportunity to be heard as to the propriety of taking judicial notice and the tenor of the matter noticed In the absence of prior notification the request may be made after judicial notice has been taken

(f) Time of taking notice Judicial notice may be taken at any stage of the proceeding

(g) Instructing jury The court shall instruct the jury to accept as conclusive any fact judicially noticed

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1989

The rule governing judicial notice is applicable only to civil cases The status of the law governing the use of judicial notice in criminal cases is unsettled and not appropriate for codification While it is understood that a trial judge should not direct a verdict against an accused in a criminal case it is less clear the extent to which the court can take judicial notice of uncontested and uncontradictable peripheral facts or facts establishing venue See e g State v White 300 N W2d 176 (Minn 1980) State v Trezona 286 Minn 531, 176 N W2d 95 (1970) Trial courts should rely on applicable case law to determine the appropriate use of judicial notice in criminal cases

This rule is limited to judicial notice of adjudicative facts and does not govern judicial notice of legislative facts The distinction between adjudicative and legislative facts was developed by Professor Kenneth C Davis An Approach to Problems of Evidence in the Administrative Process 55 Harv L Rev 364 404-407 (1942) Judicial Notice 55 Colum L Rev 945 (1955) Administrative Law Text, Ch 15 (3d ed 1972)

Adjudicative facts generally are the type of facts decided by juries Facts about the parties their activities, properties motives and intent the facts that give rise to the controversy, are adjudicative facts

Legislative facts involve questions of law and policy and normally are decided by the court See Beaudette v Frana 285 Minn 366 372 173 N W2d 416 419 420 (1969) where the Court notices the effect which various courses of conduct might have upon the integrity of the marriage relationship See also McCormack v Hanksraft Co 278 Minn 322 338 154 N W2d 488 500 (1967) '(e)nlarging a manufacturer s liability to those injured by its prod ucts more adequately meets public policy demands to protect consumers from the inevitable risks of bodily harm created by mass production and complex marketing conditions The Committee was in agreement with the promulgators of the federal rule of evidence in not lim iting judicial notice of legislative facts See United States Supreme Court Advisory Commi-tee Note

Minnesota has traditionally limited judicial notice of adjudicative facts to situations incapable of serious dispute See State ex rel Remick v Clousing 205 Minn 296 301 285 N W 711, 714 123 A L R 465 (1939) This includes matters capable of accurate and ready determination See Bollenbach v Bollenbach 285 Minn 418 429 175 N W2d 148 156 (1970) as well as facts of common knowledge In re Application of Baldwin 218 Minn 11 16 17 15 N W2d 184 187 (1944)

These issues have received little attention in Minnesota See generally State Depart-ment of Highways v Halvorson 288 Minn 424 429 181 N W2d 473 476 (1970) The net effect of the rule should be to encourage the taking of judicial notice in appropriate circum stances The improper refusal to take judicial notice would not necessarily be reversible See rule 103

The opportunity to be heard is a mainstay of procedural fairness This right is protected by the rule If the limits imposed upon the judicial notice by subdivision (b) of this rule are properly observed there should be relatively little controversy concerning the right to be heard The shape of the hearing on the issue of judicial notice rests in the discretion of the trial judge However in a jury trial such a hearing should always be outside of the presence of the jury Rule 103(c) See also rule 104(c)

This subdivision recognizes that the circumstances which make judicial notice of adju dicative facts appropriate are not limited to any particular stage of the judicial process

The conclusive nature of judicially noticed facts in civil cases is consistent with the re strictions which the rule places upon the kinds of facts which can be judicially noticed

The rule does not affect judicial notice of foreign law See Minn R Civ P 44 04 There are a number of existing statutes that deal with judicial notice of local laws regulations etc See e g, Minnesota Statutes chapter 599 and sections 268 12(3) 410 11 (1974) Minnesota Statutes 1975 Supplement, section 15 049

ARTICLE 3 PRESUMPTIONS IN CIVIL ACTIONS AND PROCEEDINGS

Rule 301 Presumptions in General in Civil Actions and Proceedings

In all civil actions and proceedings not otherwise provided for by statute or by these rules a presumption imposes on the party against whom it is directed the burden of going forward with evidence to rebut or meet the presumption but does not shift to such party the burden of proof in the sense of the risk of nonpersuasion which remains throughout the trial upon the party on whom it was originally cast

Committee Comment—1977

Only the burden of producing evidence is affected by a presumption A presumption is a procedural device that satisfies the burden of producing evidence Once the basic facts that give rise to the presumption are established the opponent must produce evidence to rebut the assumed fact or a verdict will be directed on the issue If sufficient evidence is introduced that would justify a finding of fact contrary to the assumed fact the presumption is rebutted and has no further function at the trial

The disappearance of the presumption does not deprive the offered evidence of whatev er probative value and whatever effect to which it would otherwise be entitled For example, it may be that the presumption is rebutted but the underlying facts that give rise to the pre sumption are sufficiently probative to justify an instruction as to a permissive inference In approving the federal rule the United States Congress contemplated such instruction 4 U S Code Cong & Ad News 93d Cong 2d Sess House Conference Report No 93-1597 Dec

14 1974 p 7099 4 U S Code Cong & Ad News 93d Cong 2d Sess Senate Report No 93-1277 Oct 11 1974 p 7051 The Court's authority to give such an instruction does not flow from the presumption which has disappeared but from the Court's power and duty to sum up and instruct the jury Under this rule a jury should never be instructed in terms of presumption Furthermore a presumption has no effect on the burden of persuasion

The rule is largely consistent with the stated practice in Minnesota Ryan v Metropolitan Life Ins Co, 206 Minn 562 289 N W 557 (1939) Te Poel v Larson 236 Minn 482 53 N W 2d 468 (1952) However, the application of the rule has been inconsistent See Jones v Peterson, 279 Minn 241, 246 156 N W 2d 733 736 (1968) Krinke v Faricy 304 Minn 450 231 N W 2d 491 492 (1975) Thompson Presumptions and the New Rules of Evidence in Minnesota 2 Wm Mitchell L Rev—(1976)

The rule does not define presumption leaving this to court or statutory resolution Because the term presumption has been used loosely in the past to refer to inferences assumptions and matters of substantive law the court must determine whether it is dealing with a true procedural presumption For example the statement that everyone is presumed to know the law is not based on presumption but is a mere shorthand statement for the proposition that the substantive law does not recognize ignorance of the law as a permissible defense or excuse J Thayer A Preliminary Treatise on Evidence at the Common Law p 335 (1898) Electric Short Line Term Co v City of Minneapolis, 242 Minn 1 7 64 N W 2d 149, 153 (1954) Similarly the so called presumption of legitimacy that attaches when a child is born during wedlock is not a true presumption but an operation of the substantive law that allocates the burden of persuasion in a litigation

The rule applies to both common law presumptions and statutory presumptions with the exception of those statutory presumptions in which the legislature has specifically provided that the presumption shall have some other effect See Minnesota Statutes, section 602.04 (1974) The rule applies only in civil actions and proceedings

ARTICLE 4 RELEVANCY AND ITS LIMITS

Rule 401 Definition of "Relevant Evidence"

"Relevant evidence" means evidence having any tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action more probable or less probable than it would be without the evidence

Committee Comment—1977

The threshold test for the admissibility of evidence is the test of relevancy Essentially it is a test of logic and assessment of probative value Evidence must have some probative value or it should not be admitted The rule adopts a liberal as opposed to restrictive approach to the question of relevancy If the offer has any tendency to make the existence of a fact of consequence more or less probable than it would be without the evidence it is relevant A slight probative tendency is sufficient under rule 401 Even where probative value is established and the evidence is relevant it still might be excluded under various other provisions in these rules state and federal constitutions and other court rules Rule 402

The evidentiary offer must tend to prove or disprove a fact that is of consequence to the litigation What is of consequence to the litigation depends upon the scope of the pleadings the theory of recovery and the substantive law The rule avoids reference to materiality, an overused term meaning different things in different situations The fact to be established need not be an ultimate fact or a vital fact It need only be a fact that is of some consequence to the disposition of the litigation

The liberal approach to relevancy is consistent with Minnesota practice In Boland v Morrill 270 Minn 86 98 99, 132 N W 2d 711 719 (1965) the Court defined relevancy as a function of the effect the offered evidence might have upon the proof of a material fact in issue

If the offered evidence permits an inference to be drawn that will justify a desired finding of fact it is relevant Reduced to simple terms any evidence is relevant which logically tends to prove or disprove a material fact in issue

Rule 402 Relevant Evidence Generally Admissible, Irrelevant Evidence Inadmissible

All relevant evidence is admissible except as otherwise provided by the United States Constitution, the State Constitution statute by these rules or by other rules applicable in the courts of this state. Evidence which is not relevant is not admissible.

Rule 403 Exclusion of Relevant Evidence on Grounds of Prejudice, Confusion, or Waste of Time

Although relevant evidence may be excluded if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of the issues, or misleading the jury, or by considerations of undue delay, waste of time or needless presentation of cumulative evidence.

Committee Comment—1977

This rule along with rule 102 provides the guidance for the proper application of these rules. Rule 403 sets forth the appropriate considerations that must be addressed in resolving challenges to the admissibility of relevant evidence. The rule creates a balancing test. Probative value is balanced against other considerations of policy, fairness, and convenience. The rule favors the admission of relevant evidence by requiring a determination that its probative value be substantially outweighed by the dangers listed in the rule before relevant evidence will be excluded.

*Conspicuously missing from the proposed rule is the exclusion of relevant evidence on the basis of surprise. Even with modern discovery methods the question of surprise may still come up in litigation but a continuance rather than the exclusion of the evidence is deemed to be the better method of handling such a case. Minnesota cases list surprise as a basis for excluding otherwise relevant evidence. However few if any reported cases have excluded relevant evidence on this ground. CF State v Spreigl 272 Minn 488 139 N W 2d 167 (1965) (new trial ordered essentially on a surprise analysis). Otherwise the rule is consistent with existing Minnesota practice. State v Gavle 234 Minn 186 208 48 N W 2d 44 56 (1951) State v Haney 219 Minn 518 520 18 N W 2d 315 316 (1945).*

Rule 404 Character Evidence Not Admissible to Prove Conduct, Exceptions, Other Crimes

(a) Character evidence generally. Evidence of a person's character or a trait of character is not admissible for the purpose of proving action in conformity therewith on a particular occasion except

(1) Character of accused. Evidence of a pertinent trait of character offered by an accused, or by the prosecution to rebut the same.

(2) Character of victim. Evidence of a pertinent trait of character of the victim of the crime offered by an accused or by the prosecution to rebut the same or evidence of a character trait of peacefulness of the victim offered by the prosecution in a homicide case to rebut evidence that the victim was the first aggressor.

(3) Character of witness. Evidence of the character of a witness, as provided in rules 607, 608, and 609.

(b) Other crimes, wrongs, or acts. Evidence of another crime, wrong or act is not admissible to prove the character of a person in order to show action in conformity therewith. It may, however, be admissible for other purposes, such as proof of motive, opportunity, intent, preparation, plan, knowledge, identity, or absence of mistake or accident. In a criminal prosecution, such evidence shall not be admitted unless the other crime, wrong or act and the participation in it by a relevant person are proven by clear and convincing evidence. Evidence of past sexual conduct of the victim in prosecutions under Minnesota Statutes sections 609.342 to 609.346 is governed by Minn R Evid 412.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

Rules 404 to 411 give specific treatment to several areas where questions of relevancy commonly arise. To the extent that these rules call for the exclusion of certain offers of evidence, the court's discretion has been limited. All issues of admissibility are ultimately subject to the provisions of rules 401 and 403, which also serve to limit the court in its exercise of discretion.

The use of character evidence to prove conduct is subject to the limitations of rule 404. The rule is generally consistent with the common law doctrine that character evidence is not admissible to prove that an individual acted in conformity with his character on a specific occasion. Certain exceptions to this general doctrine are contained in the rule.

*The rule recognizes the traditional exception which permits the accused in a criminal case to introduce evidence of his good character as proof of the substantive issue of guilt or innocence. State v. Peery, 224 Minn. 346, 353, 28 N.W.2d 851, 855 (1947); State v. Dolliver, 150 Minn. 155, 184 N.W. 848 (1921). If the accused puts his character in issue, the prosecutor may offer evidence in rebuttal. State v. Sharich, 297 Minn. 19, 23, 209 N.W.2d 907, 911 (1973).*

*The former Minnesota practice in civil actions which extended similar rights to a defendant where the cause of action was predicated upon defendant's (d)epaved conduct or acts involving moral turpitude. State v. Oslund, 199 Minn. 604, 605, 273 N.W. 76 (1937) has been discontinued by this rule.*

*Rule 404(a)(2) continues the existing practice which permits the admission of a pertinent character trait of the victim to be offered by the accused in a criminal case. See State v. Keaton, 258 Minn. 359, 367, 104 N.W.2d 650, 656, 86 A.L.R. 2d 649 (1960). Evidence of this type is most commonly offered in cases involving issues of self-defense. The rule also permits the prosecution in homicide cases to introduce evidence of the character trait of peacefulness of the victim to rebut any evidence that the victim was the first aggressor. Before an accused can introduce evidence of the victim's past sexual conduct in cases involving sexual offenses, the provisions of rule 404(c) must be satisfied.*

*The subdivision (b) suggests certain purposes for which evidence of other acts or crimes may be admitted subject to the provisions of rule 403. The list of acceptable purposes is not meant to be exclusive. See Minn. R. Crim. P. 7.02 which provides that the prosecuting attorney must give notice of certain additional offenses that might be offered pursuant to this rule of evidence. See also State v. Billstrom, 276 Minn. 174, 149 N.W.2d 281 (1967); State v. Spreigl, 272 Minn. 488, 139 N.W.2d 167 (1965).*

*The Committee has revised rule 404(b) by adding one sentence which codifies Minnesota case law. State v. Billstrom.*

The Committee renumbered the rules in Article 4, moving the rule addressing evidence of the victim's past sexual conduct to a new rule 412 to conform to the numbering in the Federal Rules of Evidence and Uniform Rules of Evidence.

Rule 405 Methods of Proving Character

(a) Reputation or opinion. In all cases in which evidence of character or a trait of character of a person is admissible, proof may be made by testimony as to reputation or by testimony in the form of an opinion. On cross-examination, inquiry is allowable into relevant specific instances of conduct.

(b) Specific instances of conduct. In cases in which character or trait of character of a person is an essential element of a charge, claim, or defense, proof may also be made of specific instances of that person's conduct.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

While rule 404 determines when character evidence is admissible, rule 405 determines the proper methods of introducing character evidence. In the note to the federal rule, the Su preme Court Advisory Committee explained the rationale for drawing distinctions as to the various methods of proving character

Of the three methods of proving character provided by the rule evidence of specific instances of conduct is the most convincing. At the same time it possesses the greatest capacity to arouse prejudice to confuse to surprise and to consume time. Consequently the rule confines the use of evidence of this kind to cases in which character is in the strict sense in issue and hence deserving of a searching inquiry. When character is used circumstantially and hence occupies a lesser status in the case proof may be only by reputation and opinion. These latter methods are also available when character is in issue. This treatment is with respect to specific instances of conduct and reputation conventional contemporary common law doctrine. Citing C McCormick Evidence section 153 (1954)

When character is not in issue the rule permits evidence by way of reputation or opinion. The rule is consistent with Minnesota law. Minnesota has long followed the minority rule and has permitted opinion evidence to establish good character. State v Humphrey 173 Minn 410 413 217 N W 373 374 (1928) State v Lee 22 Minn 407 409 410 (1876) The foundation for the opinion and the competency of the witness to make the statement should be governed by the principles in Articles 6 and 7

On cross-examination of a character witness the opposing party may inquire into specific instances in order to test the basis for the testimony on direct. The rule is not meant to provide an opportunity for attorneys to make points by innuendo by asking questions about unsubstantiated instances and the Court should levy appropriate sanctions where such is the case. See gen State v Flowers 262 Minn 164 114 N W 2d 78 (1962) State v Silvers 230 Minn 12 40 N W 2d 630 (1950)

Rule 406 Habit, Routine Practice

Evidence of the habit of a person or of the routine practice of an organization whether corroborated or not and regardless of the presence of eyewitnesses, is relevant to prove that the conduct of the person or organization on a particular occasion was in conformity with the habit or routine practice

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1989

The change in the title of the rule conforms the title to the text of the rule and to the title of the corresponding Federal Rule and Uniform Rule 406. Habit is not defined in the rule but the definition as set forth in McCormick is generally accepted and should be used in conjunction with this rule. Whereas character evidence is considered to be a generalized description of one's disposition or of one's disposition in respect to a generalized trait habit describes one's regular response to a repeated specific situation. C McCormick Evidence section 195 (2d ed 1972) Whether the response is sufficiently regular and whether the specific situation has been repeated enough to constitute habit are questions for the trial court. See Lewan Rationale of Habit Evidence 16 Syracuse L Rev 39 (1964) The Court should make a searching inquiry to assure that a true habit exists. Once it is established that a habit does exist testimony as to that habit is highly probative. Such testimony has been received in Minnesota Courts. See Department of Employment Security v Minnesota Drug Products Inc 258 Minn 133 138 104 N W 2d 640 644 (1960) Evison v Chicago St Paul Minneapolis & Omaha Ry 45 Minn 370 372 373 48 N W 6 7 11 (1891)

Rule 407 Subsequent Remedial Measures

When after an event measures are taken which, if taken previously, would have made the event less likely to occur, evidence of the subsequent measures is not admissible to prove negligence or culpable conduct in connection with the event. This rule does not require the exclusion of evidence of subsequent measures when offered for another purpose such as proving ownership control, or feasibility of precautionary measures if controverted or impeachment

Committee Comment—1989

The rule reflects the conventional approach to the admissibility of subsequent remedial measures. Based on policy considerations aimed at encouraging people to make needed repairs along with the real possibility that subsequent repairs are frequently not indicative of past fault, such evidence is not admissible to establish negligence or culpable conduct. The evidence might be admissible to establish other controverted issues in the case or for impeachment purposes. The rule is consistent with existing Minnesota practice. See Faber v Roelofs, 298 Minn. 16, 20–23, 212 N.W.2d 856, 859–860 (1973).

Under the rule, subsequent remedial measures can be admissible to establish feasibility of precautionary measures in any case where such feasibility is in issue. Subsequent remedial measures are not admissible to prove defect in design defect cases. See Kallio v Ford Motor Co., 407 N.W.2d 92 (Minn. 1987), rejecting Ault v International Harvester Co., 13 Cal.3d 113, 117 Cal. Rptr. 812, 528 P.2d 1148 (1975). The Committee is of the view that such measures are also inadmissible in failure to warn cases in view of Bilotta v Kelly Co. Inc., 346 N.W.2d 616 (Minn. 1984), which held that design defect and failure to warn cases can be submitted to the jury on a single theory of products liability. See DeLuryea v Winthrop Laboratories, 697 F.2d 222 (8th Cir. 1983).

Rule 408 Compromise and Offers to Compromise

Evidence of (1) furnishing or offering or promising to furnish, or (2) accepting or offering or promising to accept, a valuable consideration in compromising or attempting to compromise a claim which was disputed as to either validity or amount, is not admissible to prove liability for or invalidity of the claim or its amount. Evidence of conduct or statements made in compromise negotiations is likewise not admissible. This rule does not require the exclusion of any evidence otherwise discoverable merely because it is presented in the course of compromise negotiations. This rule also does not require exclusion when the evidence is offered for another purpose, such as proving bias or prejudice of a witness, negating a contention of undue delay, or proving an effort to obstruct a criminal investigation or prosecution.

Committee Comment—1977

This rule will substantially alter present practice in Minnesota, affording more protection to compromise discussions that presently exist. The increased protection is justified to the extent that it will encourage frank and free discussion to compromise negotiations and avoid the necessity for parties to speak in terms of hypotheticals. Not only are offers of compromise or the acceptance of compromise inadmissible but also all statements made in compromise negotiations. Contra Esser v Brophrey, 212 Minn. 194, 196–99, 3 N.W.2d 3, 4, 5 (1942). Before the rule of exclusion is applicable, there must be a genuine dispute as to either validity or amount. Absent such a dispute, there is no real compromise. The rule does not immunize otherwise discoverable material merely because it was revealed within the context of an offer of compromise. Finally, the rule only excludes evidence of compromise on the issue of liability, not for other possible purposes as suggested in the rule. See Esser, id. at 199, 200, 3 N.W.2d at 6.

Rule 409 Payment of Medical and Similar Expenses

Evidence of furnishing or offering or promising to pay medical, hospital, or similar expenses occasioned by an injury is not admissible to prove liability for the injury.

Committee Comment—1977

The rule is based on many of the same considerations that give rise to rule 408. Unlike rule 408, there is no requirement that there be an actual dispute at the time the medical payments are made or offered. In addition, the rule does not preclude the admissibility of statements that accompany the payments or offers to pay. Consistent with rule 408, the rule only precludes such an offer of evidence when offered to prove liability for the injury. Subject to the provisions of rules 401–403 such evidence may be admissible to prove other issues of consequence to the litigation

Rule 410 Offer to Plead Guilty, Nolo Contendere, Withdrawn Plea of Guilty

Evidence of a plea of guilty later withdrawn or a plea of nolo contendere or of an offer to plead guilty or nolo contendere to the crime charged or any other crime or of statements made in connection with any of the foregoing pleas or offers is not admissible in any civil criminal, or administrative action case or proceeding whether offered for or against the person who made the plea or offer

Committee Comment—1977

At present the subsequent effect of a withdrawn plea of guilty or an offer to plead guilty is governed by Minn R Crim P 15 06 which provides

If the defendant enters a plea of guilty which is not accepted or which is withdrawn neither the plea discussions nor the plea agreement nor the plea shall be received in evidence against or in favor of the defendant in any criminal civil or administrative proceeding

The rule of evidence makes it clear that not only the plea but also those statements that accompany the plea are inadmissible See gen Minn R Crim P 15 02

Based on principles of comity as well as fairness to the person making the plea the rule also precludes evidence of pleas or offers to plea nolo contendere in those jurisdictions that permit such a plea

Rule 411 Liability Insurance

Evidence that a person was or was not insured against liability is not admissible upon the issue whether the person acted negligently or otherwise wrongfully This rule does not require the exclusion of evidence of insurance against liability when offered for another purpose such as proof of agency, ownership or control or bias or prejudice of a witness (Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

The rule is in agreement with the approach currently followed in Minnesota that evidence as to whether a person is or is not insured against liability is inadmissible upon the issue of negligence or wrongful conduct See Olson v Prayfrock 254 Minn 42 44 94 N W 2d 540 542 (1958) Such evidence may be admissible to prove other issues such as bias of a witness See Scholte v Biabec 177 Minn 13 16 224 N W 259 260 (1929) The rule is obviously not intended to apply to those cases in which liability turns on whether or not a person was insured See Minnesota Statutes section 65B 67 (1974)

Rule 412 Past Conduct of Victim of Certain Sex Offenses

(1) In a prosecution under Minnesota Statutes sections 609 342 to 609 346 evidence of the victim's previous sexual conduct shall not be admitted nor shall any reference to such conduct be made in the presence of the jury except by court order under the procedure provided in rule 412 Such evidence can be admissible only if the probative value of the evidence is not substantially outweighed by its inflammatory or prejudicial nature and only in the following circumstances

(A) When consent of the victim is a defense in the case

(i) evidence of the victim's previous sexual conduct tending to establish a common scheme or plan of similar sexual conduct under circumstances similar to the case at issue relevant and material to the issue of consent

(ii) evidence of the victim's previous sexual conduct with the accused or

(B) When the prosecution's case includes evidence of semen, pregnancy or disease at the time of the incident or, in the case of pregnancy, between the time of the incident and trial, evidence of specific instances of the victim's previous sexual conduct to show the source of the semen, pregnancy or disease.

(2) The accused may not offer evidence described in rule 412 (1) except pursuant to the following procedure:

(A) A motion shall be made by the accused prior to the trial, unless later for good cause shown, setting out with particularity the offer of proof of the evidence that the accused intends to offer relative to the previous sexual conduct of the victim.

(B) If the court deems the offer of proof sufficient, the court shall order a hearing out of the presence of the jury, if any, and in such hearing shall allow the accused to make a full presentation of the offer of proof.

(C) At the conclusion of the hearing, if the court finds that the evidence proposed to be offered by the accused regarding the previous sexual conduct of the victim is admissible under the provisions of rule 412 (1) and that its probative value is not substantially outweighed by its inflammatory or prejudicial nature, the court shall make an order stating the extent to which such evidence is admissible. The accused may then offer evidence pursuant to the order of the court.

(D) If new information is discovered after the date of the hearing or during the course of trial, which may make evidence described in rule 412 (1) admissible, the accused may make an offer of proof pursuant to rule 412 (2), and the court shall hold an in camera hearing to determine whether the proposed evidence is admissible by the standards herein. (Former Rule 404(c) redesignated Rule 412 and amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

The original draft of the rules contained a proposed rule which was intended to preserve the holdings of State v. Zaccardi, 280 Minn. 291, 159 N.W.2d 108 (1968) and State v. Warford, 293 Minn. 339, 200 N.W.2d 301 (1972), cert. denied 410 U.S. 935, 93 S.Ct. 1388, 35 L.Ed.2d 598 (1973). While the Committee was drafting the rules, the Legislature passed an extensive revision of the law relating to sex offenses, Criminal Code of 1963, ch. 374, 1975 Minnesota Laws p. 1244, codified at Minnesota Statutes, section 609.341–609.35 (Supp. 1975). Included in the legislation was Minnesota Statutes, section 609.347 (Supp. 1975), which contained provisions relating to evidence procedure, substantive law and jury instructions. During the public hearings held on the rules, various persons appeared before the committee and a number of written comments were received, all in support of the provisions of Minnesota Statutes, section 609.347 (Supp. 1975). As a result, the Committee decided to revise the original proposed evidentiary rule to incorporate the evidentiary and procedural provisions of the statute.

It is the intent of the Committee that subdivisions 1, 2, and 5 of the statute shall not be affected by the rule. Subdivision 1 relates to the weight of evidence, subdivision 2 relates to the substantive law defining the offenses, and subdivision 5 concerns jury instructions. It was the opinion of the Committee that none of these subjects should be incorporated into evidentiary rules. Accordingly, it is the Committee's intent that these subdivisions shall continue in effect after the rules take effect.

Subdivision 3 of the statute relates to admissibility, and subdivision 4 relates to the procedure for determining admissibility. Both of these subjects are properly within the scope of evidentiary rules, and the Committee incorporated their substance into the revised rule 412. The revised rule contains the substance of the statute's provision that evidence of the victim's previous sexual conduct can only be admitted in limited circumstances and the provision for mandatory notice and hearing before such evidence can be admitted.

The committee made various changes, some of style and some of substance. Among the changes of style are the substitution of the words "accused" for "defendant" and "victim" for "complainant," so as to be consistent with the balance of rule 404.

Although the Committee agreed in substance with the thrust of the statute, because of the many questions that were created by the language in the statute, the Committee could not recommend the entire statute as drafted. For example, although it appears that the purpose of the statute was to eliminate the unwarranted attack on the victim's character when such evidence does not relate to the issues at trial, the effect of the statute could be the opposite. Subdivision (3)(a) suggests that the victim's past sexual conduct would be admissible to prove fabrication. This could have the effect of expanding the use of past sexual conduct to all contested trials, an unwise result that seems inconsistent with sound policy and the purposes of the legislation. The evidentiary rule does not make past conduct admissible to prove fabrication.

The statute did not make it clear that consent and identity of semen, disease, or pregnancy are the only two issues to which evidence of the victim's prior sexual conduct should be admitted. Furthermore, it is not clear from the statute the extent to which prior sexual conduct with the accused is admissible. The evidentiary rule makes it clear that this evidence is only admissible when consent or identity is in issue. Finally, portions of the statute could be subject to constitutional attack on due process or right of confrontation grounds. As a consequence, the Committee redrafted these sections trying to remain true to the overall legislative intent which the Committee endorses.

The statute recognized three situations in which previous sexual conduct of the victim would be relevant and admissible. The first of these occurs when consent is in issue. Prior sexual conduct is offered in order to give rise to an inference that the victim acted in conformity with that past conduct on a particular occasion. In the case of a victim of a sex offense, this is only relevant to prove that the victim consented to the act. If consent is not a defense, as for example, the accused denies he was involved in the incident, evidence of the victim's past conduct is not relevant. This type of evidence is treated in rule 412(1). The rule recognizes the same two categories of such evidence recognized by the statute: evidence tending to show a common scheme or plan (subsection (A)(i)) and evidence of conduct involving both the accused and the victim (subsection (A)(ii)). As in the statute, the rule allows only these two categories of past sexual conduct to be admitted to prove consent.

The second situation in which evidence of the victim's previous sexual conduct can be admitted under both the statute and the rule occurs when the prosecution has offered evidence concerning semen, pregnancy or disease, to show either that the offense occurred or that the accused committed it. In this case the accused may offer evidence of the victim's specific sexual activity to rebut the inferences raised by the prosecution's evidence. Rule 412(1)(B). In this situation consent is not material, and the rule admits such evidence without requiring consent to be a defense.

The third situation in which the statute admitted evidence of previous sexual conduct occurs when the victim testifies specifically concerning such sexual conduct—or more probably lack of sexual conduct—on direct examination. The statute allowed evidence of previous sexual conduct to impeach the victim's testimony. Minnesota Statutes, section 609.347, subdivision 3(d) (Supp. 1975). This provision was not incorporated in the rule because the Committee is of the opinion that the accused might not know whether the victim was going to testify about lack of sexual conduct until the victim had actually completed direct examination. To impose the notice and hearing requirement does not seem to be fair in such a case. Moreover, the prosecution and victim can obviate such impeaching testimony by avoiding general statements about the victim's sexual activity on direct examination. For these reasons, subdivision 3(d) of the statute is not incorporated in the rule. The Committee has not attempted to codify rules about circumstances under which prosecution evidence of this nature opens the door to rebuttal evidence by the defense.

The Committee deleted the language, 'Evidence of such conduct engaged in more than one year prior to the date of alleged offense is inadmissible,' from subdivision 3(a) of the statute. Obviously, the longer time lapse between the past conduct and the date of the alleged consent, the less probative the evidence becomes. However, there might be situations in which the victim engaged in a common scheme or plan which began more than a year before the offense and which might be relevant. The year limitation is arbitrary and may be unconstitutional. A sufficient safeguard is contained in the requirement that the probative value must not be substantially outweighed by the inflammatory and prejudicial nature of the evidence. This standard of admissibility has been altered slightly from the statutory language to conform with the general standard of admissibility found in rule 403. The change was necessary so that it would not appear that the accused had to meet a more stringent test of admissibility when proving a defense than did the prosecutor in proving the accused's guilt

With the respect to the procedural portions of the rule the Committee deleted the language to the fact of consent from subdivision 4(c) of the statute. The required finding is that the evidence be admissible as prescribed by this rule. Under both the statute and the rule certain evidence of previous sexual conduct—that concerning the source of semen, pregnancy or disease—is admissible whether or not consent is a defense.

The Committee deleted the language and prescribing the nature of the questions to be permitted at trial also from subdivision 4(c) of the statute. A court order stating the extent to which the evidence is admissible is a sufficient safeguard especially when considered with the restrictive language nor shall any reference to such conduct be made in the presence of the jury, taken from the statute and incorporated in rule 412(1). Prescribing the nature of the questions to be asked by counsel is a marked and unnecessary departure from the adversary system and may be unconstitutional.

In rare cases the due process clause, the right to confront accusers, or the right to present evidence will require admission of evidence not specifically described in Rule 412. See State v. Benedict, 397 N.W.2d 337, 341 (Minn. 1986); State v. Caswell, 320 N.W.2d 417, 419 (Minn. 1982).

ARTICLE 5 PRIVILEGES

Rule 501 General Rule

Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to modify, or supersede existing law relating to the privilege of a witness, person, government, state or political subdivision.

Committee Comment—1977

In the enabling legislation which created the committee, the legislature specifically attempted to limit the power of the Supreme Court to promulgate rules of evidence which conflicted, modified, or superseded statutes which relate to the competency of witnesses to testify found in Minn. Stats. 595.02 to 595.025 and statutes which relate to the privacy of communications. Minnesota Statutes, section 480.0591, subdivision 6(a) and (d) (1974). Rule 501 reflects the committee's recognition of these limitations. The bulk of the existing law dealing with the traditional privileges is found in Minnesota Statutes, sections 595.02 to 595.025 (1974).

ARTICLE 6 WITNESSES

Rule 601 Competency

Except as provided by these rules, the competency of a witness to give testimony shall be determined in accordance with law.

Committee Comment—1977

As with rule 501, this rule reflects the committee's adherence to the enabling legislation which attempts to limit the Court's authority to promulgate rules of evidence in this area. See Comment to rule 501. Although Minnesota Statutes, sections 595.02 to 595.08 (1974) are referred to as competency statutes, some in fact are statutes creating privilege. The general competency statutes are Minnesota Statutes, sections 595.02(6) and 595.06 (1974).

Rule 602 Lack of Personal Knowledge

A witness may not testify to a matter unless evidence is introduced sufficient to support a finding that the witness has personal knowledge of the matter. Evidence to prove personal knowledge may, but need not, consist of the witness's own testimony. This rule is subject to the provisions of rule 703 relating to opinion testimony by expert witnesses.
(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

The rule states a fundamental principle of evidence law. Expert witnesses provide the only exception to the rule that witnesses must testify from firsthand knowledge. See rule 703. The rule, although phrased in terms of competency, is essentially a specific application of rule 104(b). Testimony simply is not relevant unless the witness testifies from firsthand knowledge.

The requirement of firsthand knowledge does not preclude a witness from testifying as to a hearsay statement which qualifies as an exception to the hearsay rule (see Article 8) and was heard by the witness. Whereas the witness in such circumstances could repeat the hearsay statements, the witness could not testify as to the subject matter of the statements without firsthand knowledge. See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note.

The rule requires that witnesses have firsthand knowledge. It does not specifically refer to the declarant of a hearsay statement that is admitted subject to an exception to the hearsay rule. With the exception of party admissions, which are admitted as a function of the adversary system (and are not hearsay under rule 801(d)(2)), the Courts have generally required that the declarant of a hearsay statement have firsthand knowledge before the hearsay statement is admissible. The rule should be read to continue this practice. See C. McCormick, Evidence sections 18, 264, 285, 300, 310 (2d ed. 1972).

Rule 603 Oath or Affirmation

Before testifying, every witness shall be required to declare that the witness will testify truthfully by oath or affirmation administered in a form calculated to awaken the witness conscience and impress the witness' mind with the duty to do so.
(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Rule 604 Interpreters

An interpreter is subject to the provisions of these rules relating to qualification as an expert and the administration of an oath or affirmation to make a true translation.
(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

This rule is intended to implement Minn. R. Civ. P. 43.07.

Rule 605 Competency of Judge as Witness

The judge presiding at the trial may not testify in that trial as a witness. No objection need be made in order to preserve the point.

Committee Comments—1977

The rule as provided states the general rule in Minnesota as well as the approach generally followed in the United States. State v. Sandquist, 146 Minn. 322, 178 N.W. 883 (1920). See also Annot. 157 A.L.R. 315 (1945).

Rule 606 Competency of Juror as Witness

(a) At the trial. A member of the jury may not testify as a witness before that jury in the trial of the case in which the juror is sitting. If the juror is called to so testify, the opposing party shall be afforded an opportunity to object out of the presence of the jury.

(b) Inquiry into validity of verdict or indictment. Upon an inquiry into the validity of a verdict or indictment, a juror may not testify as to any matter or statement occurring during the course of the jury's deliberations or to the effect of anything upon that or any other juror's mind or emotions as influencing the juror to assent to or dissent from the verdict or indictment or concerning the juror's mental processes in connection therewith, except that a juror may testify on the question whether extraneous prejudicial information was improperly brought to the jury's attention or whether any outside influence was improperly brought to bear upon any juror or as to any threats of violence or violent acts brought to bear on jurors from whatever source to reach a verdict. Nor may a juror's affidavit or evidence of any statement by the juror concerning a matter about which the juror would be precluded from testifying be received for these purposes.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

The rule is based on the same rationale that gives rise to rule 605. However, when a juror is called as a witness an objection is required by the party opposing this testimony. Opportunity should be provided for an objection out of the presence of the jury.

*Rule 606(b) is a reasoned compromise between the view that jury verdicts should be totally immunized from review in order to encourage freedom of deliberation, stability, and finality of judgments, and the necessity for having some check on the jury's conduct. Under the rule, the juror's thought processes and mental operations are protected from later scrutiny. Only evidence of the use of extraneous prejudicial information or other outside influence that is improperly brought to bear upon a juror is admissible. In criminal cases such an intrusion on the jury's processes on behalf of the accused might be mandated by the Sixth Amendment. See Parker v. Gladden, 385 U.S. 363, 364, 87 S.Ct. 468, 470, 17 L.Ed.2d 420, 422 (1966).*

*The application of the rule may be simple in many cases, such as unauthorized views, experiments, investigations, etc., but in other cases the rule merely sets out guidelines for the court to apply in a case-by-case analysis. Compare Olberg v. Minneapolis Gas Co., 291 Minn. 334, 340, 191 N.W.2d 418, 422 (1971), in which the Court stated that evidence of a juror's general bias, motives, or beliefs should not be considered, with State v. Hayden Miller Co., 263 Minn. 29, 35, 116 N.W.2d 535, 539 (1962), in which the Court holds that bias resulting from specialized or personal knowledge of the dispute and withheld on voir dire is subject to inquiry.*

*The rule makes the juror's statements by way of affidavit or testimony incompetent. The rule does not purport to set out standards for when a new trial should be granted on the grounds of juror misconduct. Nor does the rule set the proper procedure for procuring admissible information from jurors. In Minnesota it is generally considered improper to question jurors after a trial for the purpose of obtaining evidence for a motion for a new trial. If possible misconduct on behalf of a juror is suspected, it should be reported to the Court, and if necessary the jurors will be interrogated on the record and under oath in court. Schwartz v. Minneapolis Gas Co., 258 Minn. 325, 328, 104 N.W.2d 301, 303 (1960); Olberg v. Minneapolis Gas Co., 291 Minn. 334, 343, 191 N.W.2d 418, 424 (1971); Minn. R. Crim. P. 26.03, subd. 19(6). See also rule 3.5 of the Rules of Professional Conduct in regard to communications with jurors. The amended rule allows jurors to testify about overt threats of violence or violent acts brought to bear on jurors by anyone, including by other jurors. Threats of violence and use of violence is clearly outside of the scope of the acceptable decisionmaking process of a jury. The pressures and dynamics of juror deliberations will frequently be stressful and jurors will, of course, become agitated from time to time. The trial court must distinguish between testimony about psychological intimidation, coercion, and persuasion, which would be inadmissible, as opposed to express acts or threats of violence. See State v. Scheerle, 285 N.W.2d 686 (Minn. 1979); State v. Hoskins, 292 Minn. 111, 193 N.W.2d 802 (1972).*

Rule 607 Who May Impeach

The credibility of a witness may be attacked by any party, including the party calling the witness.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

It has been settled for some time in Minnesota that absent surprise a party cannot impeach his own witness. The Minnesota Court has recognized that attorneys must take their witnesses where they find them and cannot always vouch for their credibility, but has followed the rule in an effort to avoid subjecting the jury to hearsay statements ostensibly admitted for impeachment purposes. State v Saporen 205 Minn 358 285 N W 898 (1939) Selover v Bryant 54 Minn 434 438, 439 56 N W 58 59 (1893). The Court has used the surprise doctrine as a means for screening those cases in which a prior inconsistent statement is improperly being offered to prejudice the jury with hearsay from the case where the introduction of the prior statement is essential to a fair presentation of the claims.

Not only has the application of the rule resulted in technical distinctions but occasionally operates to deprive the trier of fact of valuable relevant evidence. A witness with firsthand knowledge might not be called by either party or if a witness does testify the rule may preclude impeachment to place the testimony in proper perspective. Such results are inconsistent with the principles of these evidentiary rules as expressed in rule 102.

Some intrusions on the traditional rule have already been implemented in civil cases by Minn R Civ P 43.02 and by the operation of the Sixth Amendment Confrontation Clause in criminal cases. Chambers v Mississippi 410 U S 284 93 S Ct 1038 35 L Ed 2d 297 (1973). It was the committee's belief that the surprise doctrine no longer was justified. Consequently it is recommended that the proposed rule be adopted bringing Minnesota into conformity with the modern trend.

Rule 608 Evidence of Character and Conduct of Witness

(a) Opinion and reputation evidence of character The credibility of a witness may be attacked or supported by evidence in the form of opinion or reputation, but subject to these limitations

(1) the evidence may refer only to character for truthfulness or untruthfulness, and

(2) evidence of truthful character is admissible only after the character of the witness for truthfulness has been attacked by opinion or reputation evidence or otherwise

(b) Specific instances of conduct Specific instances of the conduct of a witness for the purpose of attacking or supporting the witness' credibility other than conviction of crime as provided in rule 609 may not be proved by extrinsic evidence. They may, however, in the discretion of the court, if probative of truthfulness or untruthfulness, be inquired into on cross-examination of the witness (1) concerning the witness' character for truthfulness or untruthfulness or (2) concerning the character for truthfulness or untruthfulness of another witness as to which character the witness being cross-examined has testified

The giving of testimony whether by an accused or by any other witness does not operate as a waiver of the accused's or witness' privilege against self-incrimination when examined with respect to matters which relate only to credibility

(Amended effective January 1, 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

The rule permits impeachment by means of reputation or opinion evidence. Traditionally Minnesota has distinguished between opinion and reputation when dealing with the issue of credibility. Reputation testimony has been permitted but personal opinion has been excluded. See Simon v Carroll 241 Minn 211 220 221 62 N W 2d 822 828 829 (1954) State v Kahner 217 Minn 574 582, 15 N W 2d 105 109 (1944). However, since the Minnesota courts permit the witness to testify as to whether he would believe the testimony which the impeached witness would give under oath, Minnesota courts come very close to permitting opinion testimony as to credibility.

Evidence of truthful character is only admissible for rehabilitation purposes after the character of the witness is attacked. What is meant by "otherwise" in the rule is left for case by case analysis. The United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note indicates that impeachment of a witness by introducing evidence of bias is not an attack on the character of the witness sufficient to justify rehabilitation. It is further suggested that evidence of misconduct admitted under rule 608(b) or 609 is such an attack. Impeachment in the form of contradiction may justify rehabilitation depending on the circumstances. See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note.

This subdivision (b) considers the use of specific conduct to attack or support the credibility of a witness. (See rule 609 for the admissibility of a criminal conviction.) The rule corresponds to existing practice in Minnesota. It is permissible to impeach a witness on cross-examination by prior misconduct if the prior misconduct is probative of untruthfulness. See State v. Gress, 250 Minn. 337, 343, 84 N.W.2d 616, 621 (1957). Note 36 Minn. L. Rev. 724, 733 (1952). However, because this is deemed an inquiry into a collateral matter, the cross-examiner may not disprove an answer by extrinsic evidence. State v. Nelson, 148 Minn. 285, 296, 181 N.W. 850, 855 (1921). In criminal cases the courts have been somewhat reluctant to permit such evidence if it tends to involve matters that might prejudice the jury. See State v. Haney, 219 Minn. 518, 520, 18 N.W.2d 315, 316 (1945).

The last sentence in rule 608 preserves the rights of an accused or other witness to assert the Fifth Amendment privilege as to those questions which relate only to credibility. If the question relates to matters other than credibility this rule has no application.

Rule 609 Impeachment by Evidence of Conviction of Crime

(a) General rule. For the purpose of attacking the credibility of a witness, evidence that the witness has been convicted of a crime shall be admitted only if the crime (1) was punishable by death or imprisonment in excess of one year under the law under which the witness was convicted, and the court determines that the probative value of admitting this evidence outweighs its prejudicial effect, or (2) involved dishonesty or false statement, regardless of the punishment.

(b) Time limit. Evidence of a conviction under this rule is not admissible if a period of more than ten years has elapsed since the date of the conviction or of the release of the witness from the confinement imposed for that conviction, whichever is the later date, unless the court determines, in the interests of justice, that the probative value of the conviction supported by specific facts and circumstances substantially outweighs its prejudicial effect. However, evidence of a conviction more than 10 years old as calculated herein is not admissible unless the proponent gives to the adverse party sufficient advance written notice of intent to use such evidence to provide the adverse party with a fair opportunity to contest the use of such evidence.

(c) Effect of pardon, annulment, vacation or certificate of rehabilitation. Evidence of a conviction is not admissible under this rule if (1) the conviction has been the subject of a pardon, annulment, vacation or certificate of rehabilitation or other equivalent procedure based on a finding of the rehabilitation of the person convicted, and that person has not been convicted of a subsequent crime which was punishable by death or imprisonment in excess of one year, or (2) the conviction has been the subject of a pardon, annulment, vacation or other equivalent procedure based on a finding of innocence.

(d) Juvenile adjudications. Evidence of juvenile adjudications is not admissible under this rule unless permitted by statute or required by the state or federal constitution.

(e) Pendency of appeal. The pendency of an appeal therefrom does not render evidence of a conviction inadmissible. Evidence of the pendency of an appeal is admissible. (Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

Subdivision (a)

The question of impeachment by past conviction has given rise to much controversy. Originally convicted felons were incompetent to give testimony in courts. It was later determined that they should be permitted to testify but that the prior conviction would be evidence which the jury could consider in assessing the credibility of the witness. However, not all convictions reflect on the individual's character for truthfulness. In cases where a conviction is not probative of truthfulness the admission of such evidence theoretically on the issue of credibility breeds prejudice. The potential for prejudice is greater when the accused in a criminal case is impeached by past crimes that only indirectly speak to character for truthfulness or untruthfulness. The rule represents a workable solution to the problem. Those crimes which involve dishonesty or false statement are admissible for impeachment purposes because they involve acts directly bearing on a person's character for truthfulness. Dishonesty in this rule refers only to those crimes involving untruthful conduct. When dealing with other serious crimes which do not directly involve dishonesty or false statement the Court has some discretion to exclude the offer where the probative value is outweighed by prejudice. Convictions for lesser offenses not involving dishonesty or false statement are inadmissible.

The substantive amendment is designed to conform this rule to the accepted practice in Minnesota which is to allow the accused to introduce evidence of past crimes in the direct examination of the accused.

Contrary to the practice in federal courts the defendant can preserve the issue at a motion in limine and need not testify to litigate the issue in post trial motions and appeals. Compare State v. Jones, 271 N.W.2d 534 (Minn. 1978) with Luce v. United States, 469 U.S. 38, 105 S.Ct. 460, 83 L.Ed.2d 443 (1984). The trial judge should make explicit findings on the record as to the factors considered and the reasons for admitting or excluding the evidence. If the conviction is admitted the court should give a limiting instruction to the jury whether or not one is requested. State v. Bissell, 368 N.W.2d 281 (Minn. 1985).

Subdivision (b)

The rule places a ten year limit on the admissibility of convictions. This limitation is based on the assumption that after such an extended period of time the conviction has lost its probative value on the issue of credibility. Provision is made for going beyond the ten year limitation in unusual cases where the general assumption does not apply.

The rule will supersede Minnesota Statutes section 595.07 (1974).

Subdivision (c)

The rule is predicated on the assumption that if the conviction has been set aside for reasons that suggest rehabilitation the probative value of the conviction on the issue of credibility is diminished. For example, pardons pursuant to Minnesota Constitution Article 5 section 7 (restructured 1974) or Minnesota Statutes section 638.02 (1974) would operate to make a prior conviction inadmissible as would a vacation of the conviction or subsequent nullification pursuant to Minnesota Statutes sections 609.166-609.168 (1974) or Minnesota Statutes section 242.01 et seq. (1974). A restoration of civil rights which does not reflect findings of rehabilitation would not qualify under the rule. See Minnesota Statutes section 609.165 (1974). If there is a later conviction as defined in the rule the assumption of rehabilitation is no longer valid. If otherwise relevant and competent both convictions may be used for impeachment purposes. Obviously if the first conviction is set aside based on a finding of innocence the conviction would have no more probative value under any circumstances. See rules 401-403.

Subdivision (d)

The amendment is a change in style not substance. Minnesota Statutes section 260.211 subdivision 2 (1988) does permit the disclosure of juvenile records in limited circumstances. Pursuant to Minnesota Statutes section 260.211 subdivision 1 (1988) a juvenile adjudication is not to be considered a conviction nor is it to impose civil liabilities that accompany the conviction of a crime. Rule 609(d) reflects this policy by precluding impeachment by evidence of a prior juvenile adjudication. It is conceivable that the state policy protecting juveniles as embodied in the statute and the evidentiary rule might conflict with certain constitutional provisions e.g. the sixth amendment confrontation clause. Under these circumstances the evidentiary rule becomes inoperative See Davis v Alaska 415 U S 308 94 S Ct 1105 39 L Ed 2d 347 (1974) construed in State v Schilling 270 N W 2d 769 (Minn 1978)

Rule 610 Religious Beliefs or Opinions

Evidence of the beliefs or opinions of a witness on matters of religion is not admissible for the purpose of showing that by reason of their nature the witness' credibility is impaired or enhanced

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Rule 611 Mode and Order of Interrogation and Presentation

(a) Control by court The court shall exercise reasonable control over the mode and order of interrogating witnesses and presenting evidence so as to (1) make the interrogation and presentation effective for the ascertainment of the truth (2) avoid needless consumption of time, and (3) protect witnesses from harassment or undue embarrassment

(b) Scope of cross-examination Cross-examination should be limited to the subject matter of the direct examination and matters affecting the credibility of the witness The court may in the exercise of discretion permit inquiry into additional matters as if on direct examination An accused who testifies in a criminal case may be cross-examined on any matter relevant to any issue in the case including credibility

(c) Leading questions Leading questions should not be used on the direct examination of a witness except as may be necessary to develop the witness' testimony Ordinarily leading questions should be permitted on cross-examination When a party calls a hostile witness an adverse party or a witness identified with an adverse party, interrogation may be by leading questions

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

The mechanics of the trial process and the method and order of interrogating witnesses is left to the discretion of the trial court The rule makes it clear that the court must bear the ultimate responsibility for the proper conduct of the trial The rule presents three general principles which should guide the court in its exercise of reasonable control See also rule 102

The court is also given some discretion over the scope of cross-examination Generally the scope of cross-examination should be limited to the subject matter of the direct examination and matters affecting the credibility of the witness Consistent with rule 611(a) and the court's power to control the order of proof the court may permit a broader scope of cross-examination in the appropriate case However inquiries into matters which were not the subject of direct examination will be treated as if originating from direct examination The rule makes it clear that the scope of cross-examination of an accused who takes the witness stand in a criminal trial is limited only by principles of relevancy and the Fifth Amendment See e g rules 104(d) 608(b)

The use of leading questions is left to the discretion of the trial court Generally leading questions should not be permitted when the witness is sympathetic to the examiner However for preliminary matters and the occasional situation in which leading questions are necessary to develop testimony because of temporary lapse of memory mental defect immaturity of a witness etc the court may permit inquiry by leading questions on direct examination When a party calls the opposing party a witness identified with the opposing party or a hostile witness leading questions should also be permitted

Usually there is a right to ask leading questions on cross-examination When the witness is clearly sympathetic to the examiner the court has discretion to prohibit the use of leading questions For example if a party defendant is called as a witness by the plaintiff for direct examination leading questions should not be permitted on the cross-examination by the defendant's own attorney This rule and rule 607 incorporate and expand Minn R Civ P 43 02 The committee urges that the procedural rule be repealed

Rule 612 Writing Used to Refresh Memory

Except as otherwise provided in criminal proceedings by the rules of criminal procedure if a witness uses a writing to refresh memory for the purpose of testifying either

(1) while testifying, or

(2) before testifying if the court in its discretion determines it is necessary in the interests of justice an adverse party is entitled to have the writing produced at the hearing to inspect it to cross-examine the witness thereon and if otherwise admissible to introduce in evidence those portions which relate to the testimony of the witness If it is claimed that the writing contains matters not related to the subject matter of the testimony the court shall examine the writing in camera excise any portions not so related and order delivery of the remainder to the party entitled thereto Any portion withheld over objections shall be preserved and made available to the appellate court in the event of an appeal If a writing is not produced or delivered pursuant to order under this rule the court shall make any order justice requires

(Amended effective January 1, 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

The rule continues existing practice requiring disclosure of any statements that are used by a witness for the purpose of refreshing his recollection on the witness stand Once the witness recollection is refreshed the witness can testify from present recollection Documents used for refreshing recollection need not satisfy any requirements of trustworthiness authenticity etc This should be contrasted with the process involved when a witness has no present recollection and attempts to introduce a document into evidence pursuant to rule 803(5) The rule substantially expands the common law approach by requiring production within the discretion of the Court of writings that were reviewed by a witness in preparation for testifying Most of the writings that would be used for these purposes would be discoverable prior to trial pursuant to Minn R Civ P 26–37 and Minn R Crim P 9 The rule is expressly made subject to the rules of criminal procedure Specifically the operative provisions of the criminal rules would be rules 9 01 subdivision 3 and 9 02 subdivision 3 which preclude inquiry into legal theories opinions, and conclusions as well as certain reports and internal documents Additionally rule 9 01 provides for the timing of the disclosure in certain cases

Although it was the committee's view that in most cases the materials reviewed by a witness prior to testifying should be turned over upon request it was thought that the trial court should have some discretion in the matter Cf State v Grunau 273 Minn 315 141 N W2d 815 (1966) Some flexibility might be necessary in the large case if the witness reviewed an extraordinary amount of documentary material and in the very small case where the attorney might not have access to all of the materials reviewed by a witness prior to trial

If the statements are turned over the opposing party may use the statements for cross-examination purposes If admissible for impeachment purposes or otherwise the statements can be introduced into evidence The rule should not be read to disregard applicable privileges that are validly asserted to protect the confidentiality of a communication See rule 501 The rule does not speak to the issue that will be raised in civil cases if the document that is used to refresh a witness recollection falls under the work product doctrine See Minn R Civ P 26 02 subdivision 3 The issue is left for development in the traditional common law fashion See 3 J Weinstein and M Berger Weinstein's Evidence paragraph 612(04) (1975)

Rule 613 Prior Statements of Witnesses

(a) Examining witness concerning prior statement In examining a witness concerning a prior statement made by the witness whether written or not the statement need not be shown nor its contents disclosed to the witness at that time but on request the same shall be shown or disclosed to opposing counsel

(b) Extrinsic evidence of prior inconsistent statement Extrinsic evidence of a prior inconsistent statement by a witness is not admissible unless the witness is afforded a prior opportunity to explain or deny the same and the opposite party is afforded an opportunity to interrogate the witness thereon, or the interests of justice otherwise require. This provision does not apply to admissions of a party-opponent as defined in rule 801(d) (2)

(Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

Prior statements of a witness may be used for cross-examination purposes without disclosing the statement to the witness. The rule deviates from the longstanding practice in most American jurisdictions which require disclosure to the witness before any such cross-examination. This practice has been soundly criticized as depriving the cross-examiner of a vital tool. See C McCormick Evidence section 28 (2d ed 1972) 4 Wigmore Evidence section 1260 (Chadbourn ed 1972). The rule is based on the belief that the truth finding function of cross-examination will be better served by permitting such examination without providing the witness with a warning as to where the examiner is going. The rule provides for disclosure to the opposing counsel to insure the integrity of the process.

If a prior inconsistent statement is offered for impeachment purposes by means of extrinsic evidence this subdivision is applicable. The committee altered the federal rule in order to continue the existing practice of requiring prior disclosure to the witness and an opportunity to explain before offering a prior inconsistent statement into evidence. This procedure would obviate the necessity for proof by extrinsic evidence if the witness admits making the inconsistent statement. In the appropriate case the court has the discretion to waive this foundational requirement. See generally Carroll v Pratt 247 Minn 198 203, 204 76 N W 2d 693 697 698 (1956).

The rule does not apply to party admissions that are admissible as substantive evidence. See rule 801(d)(2). See also Minn R Civ P 32.01 subdivision 2.

Rule 614 Calling and Interrogation of Witnesses by Court

(a) Calling by court The court may, on its own motion or at the suggestion of a party call witnesses and all parties are entitled to cross-examine witnesses thus called.

(b) Interrogation by court The court may interrogate witnesses whether called by itself or by a party.

(c) Objections Objections to the calling of witnesses by the court or to interrogation by it may be made at the time or at the next available opportunity when the jury is not present.

Committee Comment—1977

Trial courts have traditionally been vested with the power to call and interrogate witnesses. This right is consistent with the responsibility of the Court in insuring a speedy and just determination of the issues. See rules 102 and 611(a). The rule does not immunize the trial court's action from review. The right to call and question witnesses can be abused by the trial court which assumes an advocate's position particularly in a jury trial. The precise manner and extent of questioning by the Court cannot be reduced to a simple rule of evidence and must be developed on a case by case basis. United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note. See also State v Rasmussen 268 Minn 42 44-46 128 N W 2d 289 290 291 certiorari denied 379 U S 916 85 S Ct 267 13 L Ed 2d 187 (1964).

A specific objection is required to preserve the issue for appeal. See rule 103. However the objection need not be made contemporaneously with the objectionable act if the jury is present. The objection can be made at the next available opportunity when the jury is absent.

Rule 615 Exclusion of Witnesses

At the request of a party the court may order witnesses excluded so that they cannot hear the testimony of other witnesses and it may make the order of its own motion.

Committee Comment—1989

The rule conforms to existing law in Minnesota and is consistent with Minn R Crim P 26.03 subdivision 7. The rule, unlike the federal rule, leaves the issue subject to the discretion of the trial court. A request for sequestration in criminal cases rarely should be denied. State v Jones, 347 N.W.2d 796 (Minn. 1984); State v Garden, 267 Minn. 97, 125 N.W.2d 591 (1963). The committee agrees, however, with the Advisory Committee Note to Fed. R. Evid. 615 that investigating officers, agents who were involved in the transaction being litigated, or experts essential to advise counsel in the litigation can be essential to the trial process and should not be excluded.

Rule 616 Bias of Witness

For the purpose of attacking the credibility of a witness, evidence of bias, prejudice, or interest of the witness for or against any party to the case is admissible.
(Adopted effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

Rule 616 is adopted from the Uniform Rules of Evidence. Rule 616 codifies United States v. Abel, 469 U.S. 45, 105 S.Ct. 465, 83 L.Ed.2d 450 (1984), which in turn reaffirmed existing practice. Thus, the rule does not constitute a change in practice. The committee viewed the rule as useful, however, to reiterate that bias, prejudice, or interest of a witness is a fact of consequence under rule 401. Further, the rule should make it clear that bias, prejudice, or interest is not a collateral matter and can be established by extrinsic evidence. See State v. Underwood, 281 N.W.2d 337 (Minn. 1979); State v. Waddell, 308 N.W.2d 303 (Minn. 1981); State v. Garceau, 370 N.W.2d 34 (Minn. App. 1985). Included in bias, prejudice, or interest is evidence that the witness is being paid by a party.

Rule 617 Conversation with Deceased or Insane Person

A witness is not precluded from giving evidence of or concerning any conversations with, or admissions of, a deceased or insane party or person merely because the witness is a party to the action or a person interested in the event thereof.
(Former Rule 616 redesignated as Rule 617 effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

This rule, former Minn. R. Evid. 616, was renumbered to permit the inclusion of Rule 616, Bias of Witness, in a manner consistent with the organization of the Uniform Rules of Evidence. This rule supersedes Minnesota Statutes section 595.04 (1974), which is known to the bench and bar of Minnesota as the Dead Man's Statute. The purpose of this statute was to reduce the possibility of perjury in cases of this type. However, the statute was subject to all the problems and potential for injustice which are inherent in a rule which excludes otherwise admissible evidence.

The evidentiary rule represents a considered opinion that the protection which the statute had offered to decedents' estates was not sufficient to justify the problems it created for honest litigants with legitimate claims. Much of the rationale for abolishing the Dead Man's Statute is set out in detail in In re Estate of Lea, 301 Minn. 253, 222 N.W.2d 92 (1974).

ARTICLE 7 OPINIONS AND EXPERT TESTIMONYRule 701 Opinion Testimony by Lay Witness

If the witness is not testifying as an expert, the witness' testimony in the form of opinions or inferences is limited to those opinions or inferences which are (a) rationally based on the perception of the witness and (b) helpful to a clear understanding of the witness' testimony or the determination of a fact in issue.
(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

The rule is consistent with existing practice in Minnesota. The rule permits testimony by means of opinion and inference when it is based on firsthand knowledge and will be helpful to an effective presentation of the issues. Because the distinction between fact and opinion is frequently impossible to delineate, the rule is stated in the nature of a general principle, leaving specific application to the discretion of the trial court.

Rule 702 Testimony by Experts

If scientific, technical, or other specialized knowledge will assist the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue, a witness qualified as an expert by knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education, may testify thereto in the form of an opinion or otherwise.

Committee Comment—1977

The admissibility of expert opinion has traditionally rested in the discretion of the trial court. This discretion is primarily exercised in two areas:

1. determining if an opinion can assist the trier of fact in formulating a correct resolution of the questions raised; and

2. deciding if the witness is sufficiently qualified as an expert in a given subject area to justify testimony in the form of an opinion.

There will be no change in existing practice in this regard.

The rule is not limited to scientific or technical areas, but is phrased broadly to include all areas of specialized knowledge. If an opinion could assist the trier of fact, it should be admitted subject to proper qualification of the witness. The qualifications of the expert need not stem from formal training and may include any knowledge, skill, or experience that would provide the background necessary for a meaningful opinion on the subject. The rule also contemplates expert testimony in the form of lecture or explanation. The expert may educate the jury so the jurors can draw their own inference or conclusion from the evidence presented.

Rule 703 Bases of Opinion Testimony by Experts

(a) The facts or data in the particular case upon which an expert bases an opinion or inference may be those perceived by or made known to the expert at or before the hearing. If of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field in forming opinions or inferences upon the subject, the facts or data need not be admissible in evidence.

(b) Underlying expert data must be independently admissible in order to be received upon direct examination, provided that when good cause is shown in civil cases and the underlying data is particularly trustworthy, the court may admit the data under this rule for the limited purpose of showing the basis for the expert's opinion. Nothing in this rule restricts admissibility of underlying expert data when inquired into on cross-examination.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

The rule represents a fresh approach to the question of expert testimony—one which more closely conforms to modern realities. Consistent with existing practice, the expert can base an opinion on firsthand knowledge of the facts, facts revealed at trial by testimony of other witnesses, or by way of hypothetical questions. The rule also permits the opinion to be based on data or facts presented to the witness prior to trial. The sufficiency of facts or data in establishing an adequate foundation for receiving the opinion is subject to a two-part test:

1. are these facts and data of a type relied upon by experts in this field when forming inferences or opinions on the subject?

2. is this reliance reasonable?

In explanation, the United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee stated:

(A) physician in his own practice bases his diagnosis on information from numerous sources and of considerable variety including statements by patients and relatives reports and opinions from nurses technicians and other doctors hospital records and X-rays Most of them are admissible in evidence but only with the expenditure of substantial time in producing and examining various authenticating witnesses The physician makes life and death decisions in reliance upon them His validation expertly performed and subject to cross-examination ought to suffice for judicial purposes (citations omitted) Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note

The requirement that the facts or data be of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the field provides a check on the trustworthiness of the opinion and its foundation In determining whether the reliance is reasonable the judge must be satisfied that the facts and data relied on by the experts in the field are sufficiently trustworthy to ensure the validity of the opinion The sufficiency of the foundation for the opinion testimony could be treated as a preliminary question under rule 104

The rule is aimed at permitting experts to base opinions on reliable hearsay and other facts that might not be admissible under these rules of evidence Obviously a prosecution witness could not base an opinion on evidence that had been seized from a defendant in violation of the Fourth or Fifth Amendments The application of the fruit of the poisonous tree doctrine would mandate such a result See Wong Sun v United States 371 U S 471 83 S Ct 407 9 L Ed 2d 441 (1963) Similarly where state policy considerations require that certain matters not be admitted at trial the state policy should not be thwarted by allowing the same evidence to come in the back door in the form of an expert's opinion See e.g. Minnesota Statutes sections 595.02 and 169.121 (1974)

This rule deals with the adequacy of the foundation for the opinion Rule 705 determines the timing and necessity for establishing the foundation at trial Great emphasis is placed on the use of cross-examination to provide the trier of fact with sufficient information to properly assess the weight to be given any opinion

Although an expert may rely on inadmissible facts or data in forming an opinion the inadmissible foundation should not be admitted into evidence simply because it forms the basis for an expert opinion

In civil cases upon a showing of good cause the inadmissible foundation if trustworthy can be admitted on direct examination for the limited purpose of establishing the basis for the opinion See generally Carlson Policing the Bases of Modern Expert Testimony 39 Vand L Rev 577 (1986) Federal Rules of Evidence A Fresh Review and Evaluation ABA Criminal Justice Section Rule 703 and accompanying comment 120 FRD 299 at 369 (1987)

In criminal cases the inadmissible foundation should not be admitted Admitting such evidence might violate the accused's right to confrontation See State v Towne 142 Vt 241 453 A 2d 1133 (1982)

Rule 704 Opinion on Ultimate Issue

Testimony in the form of an opinion or inference otherwise admissible is not objectionable because it embraces an ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of fact

Committee Comment—1977

Expert and lay witnesses will not be precluded from giving an opinion merely because the opinion embraces an ultimate fact issue to be determined by the jury If the witness is qualified and the opinion would be helpful to or assist the jury as provided in rules 701–703 the opinion testimony should be permitted In determining whether or not an opinion would be helpful or of assistance under these rules a distinction should be made between opinions as to factual matters and opinions involving a legal analysis or mixed questions of law and fact Opinions of the latter nature are not deemed to be of any use to the trier of fact The rule is consistent with existing practice in Minnesota as stated in In re Estate of Olson 176 Minn 360 370 223 N W 677 681 (1929)

Standing alone the objection that the opinion of a qualified witness is asked upon the very issue and the ultimate one for decision is not sufficient. So long as the matter remains in the realm where opinion evidence is customarily resorted to there is ordinarily no valid objection to permitting a person who has qualified himself to express an opinion upon the ultimate issue. That is a matter well left to the discretion of the trial judge. While in a will contest the opinion of a witness lay or scientific should not be asked as to the testator's capacity to make a valid will there is certainly no objection to questions concerning his ability to comprehend his property and dispose of it understandingly.

See also In re Estate of Jenks 291 Minn 138 144 189 N W 2d 695 698 (1971)

Rule 705 Disclosure of Facts or Data Underlying Expert Opinion

The expert may testify in terms of opinion or inference and give reasons therefor without prior disclosure of the underlying facts or data unless the court requires otherwise. The expert may in any event be required to disclose the underlying facts or data on cross-examination.

Committee Comment—1989

Rule 705 streamlines the presentation of expert testimony leaving it to cross-examination to develop weaknesses in the expert's opinion. Obviously if there is to be effective cross-examination the adverse party must have advance knowledge of the nature of the opinion and the basis for it. The procedural rules provide for much of this information by way of discovery. See Minn R Civ P 26 and Minn R Crim P 9.01 subd. 1(4). In the case where the adverse party has not been provided with the necessary information to conduct an effective cross-examination the Court should, if requested by the adverse party, exercise its discretion under the rule and require that a full foundation be established on direct examination.

Rule 706 Court Appointed Experts

(a) Appointment The court may on its own motion or on the motion of any party enter an order to show cause why expert witnesses should not be appointed and may request the parties to submit nominations. The court may appoint any expert witnesses agreed upon by the parties and may appoint expert witnesses of its own selection. An expert witness shall not be appointed by the court unless the witness consents to act. A witness so appointed shall be informed of the witness' duties by the court in writing, a copy of which shall be filed with the clerk, or at a conference in which the parties shall have opportunity to participate. A witness so appointed shall advise the parties of the witness' findings, if any. The witness' deposition may be taken by any party and the witness may be called to testify by the court or any party. The witness shall be subject to cross-examination by each party, including a party calling the witness.

(b) Compensation Expert witnesses so appointed are entitled to reasonable compensation in whatever sum the court may allow. The compensation thus fixed is payable from funds which may be provided by law in criminal cases and civil actions and proceedings involving just compensation under the fifth amendment. In other civil actions and proceedings the compensation shall be paid by the parties in such proportion and at such time as the court directs and thereafter charged in like manner as other costs.

(c) Disclosure of appointment In the exercise of its discretion the court may authorize disclosure to the jury of the fact that the court appointed the expert witness.

(d) Parties' experts of own selection Nothing in this rule limits the parties in calling expert witnesses of their own selection.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

This rule implements rule 614 setting up the appropriate procedure to be used in calling an expert as a court witness. By recommending this rule the committee did not intend to en courage the use of court appointed expert witnesses. In the appropriate case a trial judge might find that the use of a court expert would be necessary to a fair expeditious and inexpensive proceeding. See e.g. Minnesota Statutes section 176.391(2) (1974) which provides for the appointment of impartial experts in Workmen's Compensation proceedings.

However court experts pose a potential danger. Particularly in a jury trial such an expert might unfairly tip the balance in the adversary process. The rule provides for ample opportunity for the parties to provide the court with the necessary information with which to make the decision whether to call an expert as a court witness.

ARTICLE 8 HEARSAY

Rule 801 Definitions

The following definitions apply under this article

(a) Statement A statement is (1) an oral or written assertion or (2) nonverbal conduct of a person if it is intended by the person as an assertion

(b) Declarant A declarant is a person who makes a statement

(c) Hearsay Hearsay is a statement other than one made by the declarant while testifying at the trial or hearing offered in evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted

(d) Statements which are not hearsay A statement is not hearsay if

(1) Prior statement by witness The declarant testifies at the trial or hearing and is subject to cross-examination concerning the statement and the statement is (A) inconsistent with the declarant's testimony and was given under oath subject to the penalty of perjury at a trial, hearing, or other proceeding, or in a deposition, or (B) consistent with the declarant's testimony and helpful to the trier of fact in evaluating the declarant's credibility as a witness, or (C) one of identification of a person made after perceiving the person, if the court is satisfied that the circumstances of the prior identification demonstrate the reliability of the prior identification, or (D) a statement describing or explaining an event or condition made while the declarant was perceiving the event or condition or immediately thereafter

(2) Admission by party-opponent The statement is offered against a party and is (A) the party's own statement, in either an individual or a representative capacity, or (B) a statement of which the party has manifested an adoption or belief in its truth, or (C) a statement by a person authorized by the party to make a statement concerning the subject, or (D) a statement by the party's agent or servant concerning a matter within the scope of the agency or employment, made during the existence of the relationship, or (E) a statement by a coconspirator of the party. In order to have a coconspirator's declaration admitted, there must be a showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, (i) that there was a conspiracy involving both the declarant and the party against whom the statement is offered, and (ii) that the statement was made in the course of and in furtherance of the conspiracy. In determining whether the required showing has been made, the Court may consider the declarant's statement, provided, however, the declarant's statement alone shall not be sufficient to establish the existence of a conspiracy for purposes of this rule. The statement may be admitted in the discretion of the Court, before the required showing has been made. In the event the statement is admitted and the required showing is not made, however, the Court shall grant a mistrial, or give curative instructions, or grant the party such relief as is just in the circumstances. (Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

Rules 801(a), (b), and (c) provide the general definition of hearsay. The definition is largely consistent with the common law. Hearsay is an out of court statement that is used in court to prove the truth of the matter asserted in the statement. If the out of court statement is being offered for some other purpose, such as to prove knowledge, notice, or for impeachment purposes, it is not hearsay. Statement is defined to include oral and written assertions as well as nonverbal conduct that is intended as an assertion, e.g., nodding of the head up and down to signify assent to a proposition. Nonverbal conduct that is not intended as an assertion is not a statement and is not affected by the hearsay rule. Hence, the rule puts to rest whatever lingering authority Wright v Tatham 7 Ad & Ell 313 (Ex Ch 1837) aff'd 5 Cl & Fin 670 7 Eng Rep 559 (HL 1838) has in Minnesota Wright involved a will contest in which it was claimed that the testator was not competent at the time he executed his will. To prove competence certain letters were introduced on the theory that the authors of the letters considered the testator to be fully alert or letters of this nature would not have been written. As implied assertions of the authors the letters were excluded as hearsay. Under the rule the conduct of writing a letter would not be hearsay and the admissibility of such conduct would be determined under a relevancy analysis. See Article 4.

Adoption of this rule will change Minnesota law as stated in State v Saporen 205 Minn 358 285 N W 898 (1939). The Court in Saporen held that prior inconsistent statements of witnesses are admissible only for impeachment purposes. But see Gave v Pyrofax Gas Corp 274 Minn 210 214 215 143 N W2d 242 246 (1966). However the Court on two occasions has indicated its willingness to reconsider the Saporen rule in the appropriate circumstances. See State v Slapnicher 276 Minn 237 241 149 N W2d 390 393 (1967). State v Marchand 302 Minn 510 225 N W2d 537 538 (1975).

Four reasons were cited to support the decision in Saporen:

- 1 Lack of oath
 - 2 Lack of cross-examination
 - 3 A different ruling might encourage the manufacture of evidence by third degree or entrapment methods
 - 4 If inconsistent statements were admitted consistent statements should be admitted
- It was the Committee's belief that the rule eliminates all but the second concern of the Court in Saporen. The requirement that the statement must be given under oath subject to the penalty of perjury is retained. Secondly the witness must be presently available for cross-examination or explanation of the prior statement.

As amended rule 801(d)(1)(B) permits prior consistent statements of a witness to be received as substantive evidence if they are helpful to the trier of fact in evaluating the credibility of the witness. Originally rule 801(d)(1)(B) applied only to statements that were offered to rebut a charge of recent fabrication or undue influence or motive. The language of the original rule if read literally was too restrictive. For example evidence of a prior consistent statement should be received as substantive evidence to rebut an inference of unintentional inaccuracy even in the absence of any charge of fabrication or impropriety. Also evidence of prompt complaint in sexual assault cases should be received as substantive evidence in the prosecution's case in chief without the need for any showing that the evidence is being used to rebut a charge of recent fabrication or improper influence or motive.

The amended rule is consistent with the result in State v Arndt 285 N W2d 478 (Minn 1979). Because of the restrictive language of former rule 801(d)(1)(B) however the Arndt Court did not rely upon that rule. Instead it relied upon the theory that the prior statement was not offered for the truth of the matter asserted and hence was not hearsay under the definition set forth in rule 801(c). As amended rule 801(d)(1)(B) eliminates the need for reliance upon this theory and thereby eliminates the need for a limiting instruction informing the jury that the evidence cannot be used to prove the truth of the matter asserted.

Amended rule 801(d)(1)(B) only applies to prior statements that are consistent with the declarant's trial testimony and that are helpful in evaluating the credibility of the declarant as a witness. Thus when a witness prior statement contains assertions about events that have not been described by the witness in trial testimony those assertions are not helpful in supporting the credibility of the witness and are not admissible under this rule.

Even when a prior consistent statement deals with events described in the witness trial testimony amended rule 801(d)(1)(B) does not make the prior statement automatically admissible. The trial judge has discretion under rules 611 and 403 to control the mode and order of presenting evidence and to exclude cumulative evidence. Thus the trial judge may prevent the witness from reading a prepared statement before giving oral testimony or prevent the proponent from using direct examination of the witness merely as a vehicle for having the witness vouch for the accuracy of a written report prepared by the witness. The trial judge may also exclude prior consistent statements that are a waste of time because they do not substantially support the credibility of the witness. Mere proof that the witness repeated the same story in and out of court does not necessarily bolster credibility.

The rule continues the existing practice of permitting testimony about the witness prior out of court identification. See e.g. State v. Jones, 277 Minn. 174, 179, 152 N.W.2d 67, 72 (1967). The rationale for the rule stems from the belief that if the original identification procedures were conducted fairly, the prior identification would tend to be more probative than an identification at trial. Obviously, if the prior identification did not occur under circumstances insuring its trustworthiness, the identification should not be admissible. The Court must be satisfied as to the trustworthiness of the out of court identification before allowing it to be introduced as substantive evidence. See gen. Minn. R. Crim. P. 7.01 which requires that criminal defendants be given notice of certain identification procedures involved in their case.

Subdivision (d)(1)(D) represents a limited exception to the definition of hearsay. The subject matter of the statement must describe an event or condition at or near the time the declarant perceives the event or condition. The federal rules treat such a statement as hearsay but would include it as an exception to the hearsay rule without regard to the availability of the declarant at trial. Federal Rule 803(1). The committee was concerned with the trustworthiness of such statements when the declarant was not available to testify at trial. When the declarant does testify at trial, the distinction between what he did or what he said contemporaneous with an event is frequently an artificial one. As a consequence, the committee recommends treating such spontaneous statements as nonhearsay. Furthermore, the traditional concerns that gave rise to the hearsay rule of exclusion are satisfied by the requirement that the declarant be a witness and be subject to cross-examination.

The rule excludes party admissions from its definition of hearsay. The requirements of trustworthiness, firsthand knowledge, or rules against opinion which may be applicable in determining whether or not a hearsay statement should be admissible, do not apply when dealing with party admissions. Because the rationale for their admissibility is based more on the nature of the adversary system than in principles of trustworthiness or necessity, it makes sense to treat party admissions as nonhearsay. In addition to a party's own statements and fully authorized statements made by agents of a party, the rule provides for the admissibility of adoptive admissions. For a discussion of the use of adoptive admissions in criminal cases, see gen. Village of New Hope v. Duplessie, 304 Minn. 417, 231 N.W.2d 548, 551 (1975). These provisions should not change existing practice.

The admissibility of statements made by agents of a party has given rise to much litigation. The rule rejects the strict agency theory in determining whether or not the statement is admissible. Rather than focusing on the agent's authority to speak for the principle, the rule requires only that the statement be made concerning a matter within the scope of the agency. For example, the statement of a truck driver concerning an accident in which he was involved while driving the truck for his employer can be received as an admission of the employer. Statements made after the employment relationship terminates will not be admissions of the employer.

In Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 107 S.Ct. 2775, 97 L.Ed.2d 144 (1987), the United States Supreme Court construed Fed. R. Evid. 801(d)(2)(E) so that the federal coconspirator rule differed from the Minnesota rule in two important particulars. First, Minnesota law required a prima facie showing of a conspiracy, and second, the showing had to be made without considering the coconspirator's statements. State v. Thompson, 273 Minn. 1, 139 N.W.2d 490 (1966). In Bourjaily, the Court continued the prior federal rule that the showing had to be made by a preponderance of the evidence, which is a higher standard than the Minnesota standard of a prima facie showing. However, the Court held that the trial judge could consider the statements in determining whether a conspiracy had been shown, overruling a line of federal cases which held that the statements could not be considered. The amended rule adopts the Bourjaily holdings in the following respects. The quantum of proof required is a preponderance of the evidence, and under most circumstances the rule allows the judge to consider the statements in determining whether the showing has been made. The proviso in the amended rule precludes the declarant's statement by itself from establishing the conspiracy and is included to prevent the hearsay statement from becoming admissible solely on the basis of the content of the statement.

The amended rule continues prior Minnesota law that the order of proof rests in the discretion of the trial judge who may admit the declaration before the required showing is made. Although there is a danger that the declarations will be admitted and the showing will not later be made, the Committee took the view that the danger is offset by the trial judge's authority to require the showing to be made outside the presence of the jury under rule 104(c). Moreover, the amended rule expressly authorizes the judge to grant a mistrial or give such other relief as is just in the event the statements are admitted and the foundation is not later shown.

The amended rule continues the prior limitation that the statement must be made in the course of and in furtherance of the conspiracy.

Rule 802 Hearsay Rule

Hearsay is not admissible except as provided by these rules or by other rules prescribed by the Supreme Court or by the Legislature.

Committee Comment—1977

The general rule excluding hearsay is consistent with common law and existing Minnesota practice. Rules 803(24) and 804(5) control the common law development of additional hearsay exceptions. The authority of the legislature to create various exceptions to the hearsay rule is well established. See generally Minnesota Statutes, chapter 600 (1974) which contains several examples of legislative exceptions to the hearsay rule.

Rule 803 Hearsay Exceptions, Availability of Declarant Immaterial

The following are not excluded by the hearsay rule even though the declarant is available as a witness:

(1) (Not used)

(2) Excited utterance A statement relating to a startling event or condition made while the declarant was under the stress of excitement caused by the event or condition.

(3) Then existing mental, emotional, or physical condition A statement of the declarant's then existing state of mind, emotion, sensation, or physical condition (such as intent, plan, motive, design, mental feeling, pain, and bodily health), but not including a statement of memory or belief to prove the fact remembered or believed unless it relates to the execution, revocation, identification, or terms of declarant's will.

(4) Statements for purpose of medical diagnosis or treatment Statements made for purposes of medical diagnosis or treatment and describing medical history, or past or present symptoms, pain, or sensations, or the inception or general character of the cause or external source thereof insofar as reasonably pertinent to diagnosis or treatment.

(5) Recorded recollection A memorandum or record concerning a matter about which a witness once had knowledge but now has insufficient recollection to testify fully and accurately, shown to have been made or adopted by the witness when the matter was fresh in the witness's memory and to reflect that knowledge correctly. If admitted, the memorandum or record may be read into evidence but may not itself be received as an exhibit unless offered by an adverse party.

(6) Records of regularly conducted business activity A memorandum, report, record, or data compilation, in any form, of acts, events, conditions, opinions, or diagnoses, made at or near the time by, or from information transmitted by, a person with knowledge, if kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, and if it was the regular practice of that business activity to make the memorandum, report, record, or data compilation, all as shown by the testimony of the custodian or other qualified witness, unless the source of information or the method or circumstances of preparation indicate lack of trustworthiness. The term "business" as used in this paragraph includes business, institution, association, profession, occupation, and calling of every kind, whether or not conducted for profit. A memorandum, report, record, or data compilation prepared for litigation is not admissible under this exception.

(7) Absence of entry in records kept in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (6) Evidence that a matter is not included in the memoranda reports records or data compilations in any form kept in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (6) to prove the nonoccurrence or nonexistence of the matter if the matter was of a kind of which a memorandum report, record, or data compilation was regularly made and preserved unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness

(8) Public records and reports Unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness records, reports, statements or data compilations in any form of public offices or agencies setting forth (A) the activities of the office or agency or (B) matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report excluding however in criminal cases and petty misdemeanors matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel or (C) in civil actions and proceedings except petty misdemeanors and against the State in criminal cases and petty misdemeanors, factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law

(9) Records of vital statistics Records or data compilations, in any form, of births, fetal deaths, deaths, or marriages, if the report thereof was made to a public office pursuant to requirements of law

(10) Absence of public record or entry To prove the absence of a record, report statement or data compilation, in any form, or the nonoccurrence or nonexistence of a matter of which a record report statement or data compilation, in any form, was regularly made and preserved by a public office or agency evidence in the form of a certification in accordance with rule 902 or testimony, that diligent search failed to disclose the record report statement or data compilation or entry

(11) Records of religious organizations Statements of births marriages divorces, deaths legitimacy, ancestry, relationship by blood or marriage or other similar facts of personal or family history, contained in a regularly kept record of a religious organization

(12) Marriage, baptismal, and similar certificates Statements of fact contained in a certificate that the maker performed a marriage or other ceremony or administered a sacrament, made by a clergyman public official, or other person authorized by the rules or practices of a religious organization or by law to perform the act certified and purporting to have been issued at the time of the act or within a reasonable time thereafter

(13) Family records Statements of fact concerning personal or family history contained in family Bibles genealogies charts engravings on rings inscriptions on family portraits, engravings on urns crypts, or tombstones or the like

(14) Records of documents affecting an interest in property The record of a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property as proof of the content of the original recorded document and its execution and delivery by each person by whom it purports to have been executed if the record is a record of a public office and an applicable statute authorizes the recording of documents of that kind in that office

(15) Statements in documents affecting an interest in property A statement contained in a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property if the matter stated was relevant to the purpose of the document unless dealings with the property since the document was made have been inconsistent with the truth of the statement or the purport of the document

(16) Statements in ancient documents Statements in a document in existence twenty years or more the authenticity of which is established

(17) Market reports, commercial publications Market quotations, tabulations, lists, directories, or other published compilations generally used and relied upon by the public or by persons in particular occupations unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness

(18) Learned treatises To the extent called to the attention of an expert witness upon cross-examination or relied upon by the expert witness in direct examination statements contained in published treatises periodicals or pamphlets on a subject of history medicine, or other science or art established as a reliable authority by the testimony or admission of the witness or by other expert testimony or by judicial notice If admitted the statements may be read into evidence but may not be received as exhibits

(19) Reputation concerning personal or family history Reputation among members of a person's family by blood adoption or marriage or among a person's associates or in the community concerning a person's birth adoption marriage divorce, death, legitimacy, relationship by blood adoption or marriage ancestry or other similar fact of personal or family history

(20) Reputation concerning boundaries or general history Reputation in a community arising before the controversy, as to boundaries of or customs affecting lands in the community and reputation as to events of general history important to the community or State or nation in which located

(21) Reputation as to character Reputation of a person's character among associates or in the community

(22) Judgment of previous conviction Evidence of a final judgment entered after a trial or upon a plea of guilty (but not upon a plea of nolo contendere) adjudging a person guilty of a crime punishable by death or imprisonment in excess of one year, to prove any fact essential to sustain the judgment but not including when offered by the state in a criminal prosecution for purposes other than impeachment, judgments against persons other than the accused. The pendency of an appeal may be shown but does not affect admissibility

(23) Judgment as to personal, family or general history, or boundaries Judgments as proof of matters of personal family or general history or boundaries essential to the judgment if the same would be provable by evidence of reputation

(24) Other exceptions A statement not specifically covered by any of the foregoing exceptions but having equivalent circumstantial guarantees of trustworthiness if the court determines that (A) the statement is offered as evidence of a material fact, (B) the statement is more probative on the point for which it is offered than any other evidence which the proponent can procure through reasonable efforts and (C) the general purposes of these rules and the interests of justice will best be served by admission of the statement into evidence. However, a statement may not be admitted under this exception unless the proponent of it makes known to the adverse party sufficiently in advance of the trial or hearing to provide the adverse party with a fair opportunity to prepare to meet it, the proponent's intention to offer the statement and the particulars of it including the name address and present whereabouts of the declarant

(Amended effective January 1, 1990)

Committee Comment—1989

The exceptions to the hearsay rule of exclusion (rule 802) are separated into two categories

1 those exceptions which are not affected by the availability or unavailability of the declarant (rule 803) and

2 those exceptions which require that the declarant be unavailable before the hearsay statement might be admissible (rule 804)

The basis for the distinction is largely historical and represents a judgment as to which hearsay statements are so trustworthy as to be admissible without requiring the production of the declarant when available

Rules 803 and 804 provide certain exceptions to the general rule of exclusion for hearsay statements. A statement qualifying as an exception to the hearsay rule must satisfy other provisions in these rules before it is admissible. For example, a statement that qualifies as an exception to the hearsay rule must be relevant and admissible under Article 4 and be based on personal knowledge (rule 602) before it can be admitted into evidence

Subdivision (1)

The committee did not recommend adoption of Fed R Evid. 803(1). Present sense impressions. However, if the declarant testifies at trial and is subject to cross-examination, the declarant's present sense impressions are treated as nonhearsay under these rules. Rule 801(d)(1)(D)

Subdivision (2)

The excited utterance exception is one which traditionally has been treated in terms of res gestae in Minnesota. The rules avoid use of the term res gestae which is considered to be a general catchall phrase sanctioning the admission of several types of hearsay statements. See gen. Morgan, A Suggested Classification of Utterances Admissible as Res Gestae 31 Yale L.J. 229 (1922); C. McCormick, Evidence section 288 (2d ed. 1972). The rules provide specific exceptions more clearly identifying the rationale and requirements of each. The major effect this rule will have on existing practice is a change in terminology which hopefully will result in better analysis and understanding.

In order to qualify as an excited utterance the following three requirements must be met:

- 1 there must be a startling event or condition
- 2 the statement must relate to the startling event or condition and
- 3 the declarant must be under a sufficient aura of excitement caused by the event or condition to insure the trustworthiness of the statement

The rationale stems from the belief that the excitement caused by the event eliminates the possibility of conscious fabrication and insures the trustworthiness of the statement. As the time lapse between the startling event and subsequent statement increases, so does the possibility for reflection and conscious fabrication. There can be no fixed guidelines. It is largely a matter for the trial judge to determine whether the statement was given at such a time when the aura of excitement was sufficient to insure a trustworthy statement. Rule 104(a). In reaching this decision, the judge must consider all relevant factors including the length of time elapsed, the nature of the event, the physical condition of the declarant, any possible motive to falsify, etc.

Subdivision (3)

The rule combines two traditional exceptions to the hearsay rule: the state of mind exception and the statement of present bodily condition. Both are based on the belief that spontaneous statements of this nature are sufficiently trustworthy to justify their admission into evidence. State of mind or bodily condition are difficult matters to prove. When they are in issue or otherwise relevant, hearsay statements of this type may be the best proof available.

The rule makes it clear that hearsay statements probative of the declarant's state of mind or emotion are not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule. The more difficult evidentiary problems arise in the determination as to whether state of mind is relevant to the issues in the lawsuit. Clearly, when state of mind is in issue, there is no problem. State of mind may also be admitted to prove that the declarant subsequently acted in conformity with his state of mind. See Scott v Prudential Ins. Co. 203 Minn. 547, 552, 282 N.W. 467, 470 (1938); Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Hillmon, 145 U.S. 285, 296, 12 S.Ct. 909, 913, 36 L.Ed. 706, 710, 711 (1892). The rule does not permit evidence of a declarant's present state of mind to be admitted to establish the declarant's previous actions, unless dealing with the execution, revocation, identification, or terms of declarant's will. Cf. Troseth v Troseth, 224 Minn. 35, 28 N.W.2d 65 (1947). (Present state of mind used to prove previous intent in effectuating gift.)

In considering the admissibility of statements of present sensation or bodily condition, the Court should examine the circumstances surrounding the statements to determine if they were spontaneous statements or statements designed with a view to making evidence. Statements of the latter type should be excluded under rule 403. See C. McCormick, Evidence section 292 (2d ed. 1972).

Subdivision (4)

Statements to treating physicians traditionally have been admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule if reasonably pertinent to diagnosis and treatment. This includes statements as to present matters as well as past conditions. See Peterson v Richfield Plaza, Inc. 252

Minn 215 228 89 N W2d 712 722 (1958) In Minnesota they have been admissible if the physician bases an opinion on the statement

The rule extends this exception to cover statements made to a nontreating physician if made for the purpose of diagnosis. This rule is the logical outgrowth of rule 703 which permits a nontreating physician to base an opinion on such a statement if it is the type of statement upon which experts in the field reasonably rely

Subdivision (5)

The introduction of hearsay documents under this exception must be distinguished from the use of documents to refresh the recollection of a witness. See rule 612. Only when a witness has insufficient present recollection of the event and attempts to read a hearsay document into the record are the requirements of this rule applicable

The rule does not require a total lack of memory. If the present recollection of the witness is impaired to such an extent that he is unable to testify fully and accurately, he may resort to a memorandum or record if it satisfies the other provisions of the rule. In these situations, the previously recorded statement will often be the best available evidence. See Walker v Larson 284 Minn 99 105 169 N W2d 737 741 742 (1969). The provision that the hearsay document will not be received as an exhibit is intended to prevent the jury from placing undue emphasis on the statement

Subdivision (6)

This provision will replace the existing statutory scheme dealing with the introduction of business records and shop records. See Minnesota Statutes sections 600.01–600.06 (1974). Minnesota had previously adopted the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act to bring state law in this area into conformity with other states adopting the Uniform Act. In recommending the federal rule, it was the committee's view that in the years to come it is of greater importance that the state rule corresponds to the rule in force in the federal courts

The rule should be read broadly to accomplish the purposes set out in Rule 102 as well as to ensure that only trustworthy evidence is admitted. The application of the rule should not cause a substantive change in existing practice. Past decisions of the Minnesota Supreme Court should serve as guidelines for the proper interpretation of this rule. See generally Brown v St. Paul Ry. 241 Minn 15 62 N W2d 688 44 A L R 2d 535 (1954). City of Fairmont v Sjosrom 280 Minn 87 157 N W2d 849 (1968)

Documents prepared solely for litigation purposes do not qualify under this exception. If the document is prepared in part for business purposes but with an eye toward litigation, the court must decide if the interest in litigation sufficiently detracted from the trustworthiness of the report to preclude its admission. See Palmer v Hoffman 318 U S 109 63 S Ct 477 87 L Ed 645 144 A L R 719 (1943) cited with approval in Brown v St. Paul Ry. Co. 241 Minn 15 36 62 N W2d 688 702 (dictum)

Subdivision (7)

Absence of an entry in a business record is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule. The admissibility of such evidence is governed by rules of relevancy. See Article 4

Subdivision (8)

The rationale for this exception rests in

1 a belief in the trustworthiness of the work product of government agents operating pursuant to official duty

2 the necessity for introducing the full reports as opposed to testimony of government agents whose memory may be faulty and

3 a concern for the disruption that would result in government agencies if its employees were continually required to testify in trials. See United States Supreme Court Advisory Com

muttee Note See also C McCormuck Evidence section 315 (2d ed 1972) Subdivisions (A) and (B) are consistent with existing practice

The rule was amended to clarify that records and reports qualifying under each subdivision (A) (B) and (C) should be excluded if the report is not trustworthy. Among other matters the court should consider the qualifications bias and motivation of the authors the timeliness and methods of investigation or hearing procedures and the reliability of the foundation upon which any factual finding opinion or conclusion is based.

Subdivision (C) permits introduction of factual findings resulting from investigations made pursuant to authority granted by law except when offered against the accused in criminal cases. Prior to the Minnesota Rules of Evidence Minnesota courts did not admit reports which included discretionary conclusions and opinions. Barnes v Northwest Airlines Inc 233 Minn 410 433 47 N W 2d 180 193 (1951) Clancy v Daily News Corp 202 Minn 1 7 277 N W 264 268 (1938). The rule makes no distinction among findings of historical fact factual conclusions or opinions. Beech Aircraft Corp v Ramey 488 U S 153 109 S Ct 439 102 L Ed 2d 445 (1988) (investigator's report on cause of airplane crash was not excludable because it included investigator's opinion or conclusion). See also Pipestone v Halbersma 294 N W 2d 271 (Minn 1980). The primary concern of the rule is a determination of whether the factual finding conclusion or opinion is trustworthy and helpful to the resolution of the issues. Considerations of whether the document contains historical facts as opposed to conclusions or discretionary factual findings is subordinate to this primary consideration.

At present public records are admitted pursuant to specific statutes. See e.g. Minnesota Statutes section 600 13 (1974). This rule is not intended to supersede the many statutes that specifically provide for the admission or exclusion of certain public documents. E.g. Minnesota Statutes section 169 09 subdivision 13 (1974).

Subdivision (9)

Minnesota has adopted the Uniform Vital Statistics Act. Minnesota Statutes sections 144 151–144 204 144 49 (1974) which requires certain individuals to make reports to the State Board of Health concerning births deaths etc. Similarly Minnesota Statutes section 517 10 (1974) requires the filing of marriage certificates. Minnesota Statutes sections 144 167 and 600 20 (1974). However not all statements included in such certificates are admissible. See Backstrom v New York Life Ins Co 183 Minn 384 236 N W 708 (1931). This rule should not change existing Minnesota practice.

Subdivision (10)

The absence of a public record or entry like the absence of a business record is not made inadmissible by the hearsay rule. The admissibility would depend on principles of relevancy. See Article 4. The rule provides for proof by way of certification that a diligent search failed to disclose the record or entry. See Munn R Civ P 44 02.

Subdivision (11)

The rule is an extension of the business records exception. See rule 803(6). This exception is somewhat broader since there is no explicit directive that the court inquire into the trustworthiness of the statement. Unlike the business record exception the person furnishing the statement is not required to have a business or religious duty to report the information. Contra Houlton v Manteuffel 51 Minn 185 187 53 N W 541 542 (1892).

Subdivision (12)

This provision excepts certain certificates from the hearsay rule. In cases where the certificate is filed or maintained in a church record this provision provides an alternative method of proof. See rules 803(8) and (10). See also Minnesota Statutes section 600 20 (1974).

Subdivision (13)

The exception for family records is consistent with common law tradition although at common law they were admissible only when the declarant was unavailable See C McCormick Evidence section 322 (2d ed 1972) See also Geisler v Geisler 160 Minn 463 467 200 N W 742 744 (1924) Cf rule 804(b)(4)

Subdivision (14)

In many cases the proper recording of an interest in property requires or permits statements on the face of the record which assert proper execution and delivery of the document See e g Uniform Conveyancing Blanks prepared under authority granted by Minnesota Statutes 1975 Supplement section 507 09 The rule is intended to allow this record to be used as proof of proper execution and delivery of the document as well as proving the contents of the record This procedure is consistent with Minnesota practice See Minnesota Statutes section 600 13 (1974)

Subdivision (15)

The circumstances under which most dispositive documents are made will normally assure the reliability of statements relevant to the purpose of the document Absent a showing that subsequent dealings with the property have been inconsistent with these statements there is sufficient indicia of trustworthiness to warrant an exception to the general rule against hearsay

Subdivision (16)

The admissibility of ancient documents will normally raise problems of authentication and hearsay The requirements of proper authentication are set forth in rule 901(b)(8) If properly authenticated these hearsay documents are deemed to be sufficiently trustworthy to warrant admission as evidence because

- 1 they were compiled at a time prior to the litigation when there was no motive to falsify*
- 2 the documentary form of the evidence reduces the possibility of error in transmission*
- 3 it is unlikely that present testimony concerning these prior matters will be significantly more probative Furthermore in most instances witnesses with firsthand knowledge will not be available*

If the Court has reason to suspect the trustworthiness of the ancient document it may exercise its discretion under rule 403 to exclude the evidence

Subdivision (17)

Many commercial publications and market quotations are highly trustworthy and are relied upon by the general public as well as specialized groups

The committee was concerned that this exception might permit certain credit reports etc reflecting unreliable hearsay to be received as substantive evidence The distinction between the Minnesota rule and its federal counterpart is intended to emphasize that this exception will not be a universal sanction for the admission of market reports or commercial publications

The rule makes it clear that the Court retains the power to exclude evidence offered pursuant to this exception if the evidence is not trustworthy See gen J Weinstein & M Berger 4 Weinstein's Evidence section 803(17(01)) (1975) This provision is consistent with the authority given the Court under rule 403

Subdivision (18)

The circumstances under which learned treatises will be admitted as substantive evidence are set forth by the rule These limitations should serve to avoid dangers of misunderstanding or misapplication of this evidence

The rule will expand the use of learned treatises in Minnesota courts. See gen Briggs v Chicago Great Western Ry 238 Minn 472 57 N W 2d 572 (1953) but see Ruud v Hendrickson 176 Minn 138 222 N W 904 (1929) see also Comment 39 Minn L Rev 905 (1955)

Subdivision (a) Subdivision (19)

The rationale for the hearsay exception for reputation evidence is explained in the United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note

Trustworthiness in reputation evidence is found when the topic is such that the facts are likely to have been inquired about and that persons having personal knowledge have disclosed facts which have thus been discussed in the community and thus the community conclusion if any has been formed is likely to be a trustworthy one (citations omitted)

When dealing with reputation concerning personal or family history the community includes the family associates or general community. This may be somewhat broader than the traditional pedigree exception in Minnesota. See Houlton v Manteuffel 51 Minn 185 53 N W 541 (1892) See Minnesota Statutes section 602.02 (1974) which permits reputation evidence to prove the fact of marriage

Subdivision (20)

Subdivision 20 codifies a common law exception to the hearsay rule. C McCormick Evidence section 324 (2d ed 1972)

Subdivision (21)

Subdivision 21 provides that reputation as to character is not excluded by the hearsay rule. The admissibility of this type of evidence is governed by rules 404, 405, and 608.

Subdivision (22)

Prior to this rule, convictions have not been admissible as substantive evidence. Guilty pleas could be received in a subsequent civil action as party admissions. Otherwise a conviction would be admissible in a subsequent civil case only for impeachment purposes. In addition, it is possible that a criminal conviction might serve as an estoppel in the civil action. See Travelers Ins. Co. v Thompson, 281 Minn 547 163 N W 2d 289 (1968). The rule gives evidentiary effect to criminal felony convictions, altering existing practice.

The rule is consistent with the modern trend in this area and has much to commend it. See Annot 18 A L R 2d 1287 (1951). It represents a belief in the trustworthiness of verdicts based on the reasonable doubt standard. The rule is limited to convictions for serious crimes to insure that there was sufficient motivation to defend the criminal prosecution. To the extent that the defendant believes the criminal conviction was not accurate for any reason, e.g., new evidence, lack of discovery at the criminal trial, restrictive evidentiary rulings, etc., these matters can be explained at the civil trial. The burden is placed on the party offering the prior conviction to establish what facts were essential to sustain the criminal conviction.

Subdivision (23)

This provision deals with the evidentiary effect to be given a judgment in a civil case concerning matters of personal, family, or general history and boundaries. At one time jury verdicts were essentially the equivalent of reputation. Although the historical rationale for this exception is no longer valid, judgments of this nature have continued to be admitted as an exception to the hearsay rule since such judgments are at least as trustworthy as reputation evidence. Rules 803(19) and (20). See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note

Subdivision (24)

This exception allows for the continued development of exceptions to the hearsay rule. It provides for sufficient flexibility to carry out the goals set out in Rule 102. The rule defines the common law power of the judge to fashion new exceptions to the hearsay doctrine. For hearsay to qualify under this provision, it must be established that there is some need for the evidence and that the evidence has guarantees of trustworthiness equivalent to the specific exceptions set out in rule 803.

*Furthermore, there is a notice requirement to avoid the possibility of surprise and to lend more predictability to the litigation process. The Committee considered and rejected the federal cases that applied a less restrictive notice requirement: United States v. Bailey, 581 F.2d 341 (3d Cir. 1978); United States v. Carlson, 547 F.2d 1346 (8th Cir. 1976) cert. denied, 431 U.S. 914, 97 S.Ct. 2174, 53 L.Ed.2d 224; United States v. Leslie, 542 F.2d 285 (5th Cir. 1976).*

Rule 804 Hearsay Exceptions, Declarant Unavailable

(a) Definition of unavailability Unavailability as a witness ' includes situations in which the declarant

(1) is exempted by ruling of the court on the ground of privilege from testifying concerning the subject matter of the declarant's statement, or

(2) persists in refusing to testify concerning the subject matter of the declarant's statement despite an order of the court to do so, or

(3) testifies to a lack of memory of the subject matter of the declarant's statement or

(4) is unable to be present or to testify at the hearing because of death or then existing physical or mental illness or infirmity, or

(5) is absent from the hearing and the proponent of a statement has been unable to procure the declarant's attendance (or in the case of a hearsay exception under subdivision (b) (2), (3), or (4), the declarant's attendance or testimony) by process or other reasonable means.

A declarant is not unavailable as a witness if the declarant's exemption, refusal, claim of lack of memory, inability, or absence is due to the procurement or wrongdoing of the proponent of the statement for the purpose of preventing the witness from attending or testifying.

(b) Hearsay exceptions The following are not excluded by the hearsay rule if the declarant is unavailable as a witness:

(1) Former testimony In a civil proceeding testimony given as a witness at another hearing of the same or a different proceeding, or in a deposition taken in compliance with law in the course of the same or another proceeding, if the party against whom the testimony is now offered or a party with substantially the same interest or motive with respect to the outcome of the litigation, had an opportunity and similar motive to develop the testimony by direct, cross, or redirect examination. In a criminal proceeding involving a retrial of the same defendant for the same or an included offense, testimony given as a witness at the prior trial or in a deposition taken in the course thereof.

(2) Statement under belief of impending death In a prosecution for homicide or in a civil action or proceeding, a statement made by a declarant while believing that the declarant's death was imminent, concerning the cause or circumstances of what the declarant believed to be impending death.

(3) Statement against interest A statement which was at the time of its making so far contrary to the declarant's pecuniary or proprietary interest, or so far tended to subject the declarant to civil or criminal liability, or to render invalid a claim by the declarant against another, that a reasonable person in the declarant's position would not have made the statement unless believing it to be true. A statement tending to expose the declarant to criminal liability and offered to exculpate the accused is not admissible unless corroborating circumstances clearly indicate the trustworthiness of the statement.

(4) Statement of personal or family history (A) A statement concerning the declarant's own birth, adoption, marriage, divorce, legitimacy, relationship by blood, adoption, or marriage, ancestry or other similar fact of personal or family history even though declarant had no means of acquiring personal knowledge of the matter stated, or (B) a statement concerning the foregoing matters and death also, of another person, if the declarant was related to the other by blood adoption, or marriage or was so intimately associated with the other's family as to be likely to have accurate information concerning the matter declared

(5) Other exceptions A statement not specifically covered by any of the foregoing exceptions but having equivalent circumstantial guarantees of trustworthiness, if the court determines that (A) the statement is offered as evidence of a material fact, (B) the statement is more probative on the point for which it is offered than any other evidence which the proponent can procure through reasonable efforts, and (C) the general purposes of these rules and the interests of justice will best be served by admission of the statement into evidence. However a statement may not be admitted under this exception unless the proponent of it makes known to the adverse party sufficiently in advance of the trial or hearing to provide the adverse party with a fair opportunity to prepare to meet it the proponent's intention to offer the statement and the particulars of it including the name, address and present whereabouts of the declarant

(Amended effective January 1, 1990)

Committee Comment—1989

Rule 804 includes those exceptions to the hearsay rule that are conditioned upon a showing that the declarant is unavailable. As with the exceptions in rule 803 the requirements of relevancy (Article 4) and firsthand knowledge (rule 602) must be satisfied. Of necessity the decision as to whether or not a hearsay declaration is based on firsthand knowledge must be made on circumstantial evidence and this requirement should be sufficiently flexible to accomplish the purposes set out in rule 102

Subdivision (a)

Traditionally the definition of unavailability varied among the several hearsay exceptions. The rule takes the general approach that the concept of unavailability should be applied consistently among each of the exceptions. Contra rule 804(a)(5). The definition of unavailability indicates that the primary concern is the unavailability of the testimony and not necessarily the unavailability of the declarant. If the declarant is present at trial but will not or cannot testify as to an issue for any reason whether justified or not the declarant is deemed to be unavailable on that issue for the purposes of the rule. With the exception of rule 804(b)(1) a witness will not be deemed unavailable if his testimony can be procured by reasonable means e.g. by taking his deposition. This is a judgment that evidence by means of deposition would be preferable to the hearsay statement. In determining whether testimony could be procured by reasonable means the judge has some discretion. Appropriate considerations would include such things as the stakes involved the nature of the testimony and the expense that would be incurred by out of state depositions. See rule 102

The application of the Sixth Amendment confrontation clause will dictate when the declarant must be produced in many criminal cases. See gen. Barber v Page 88 S Ct 1318 390 U S 719, 20 L Ed 2d 255 (1968), Mancusi v Stubbs 92 S Ct 2308 408 U S 204 33 L Ed 2d 293 (1972) State v Shotley, Munn 233 N W 2d 755 757-758 (1975)

Subdivision (b)(1)

This exception deals with the introduction of former testimony when the declarant is unavailable. Former testimony of a witness who testifies at trial might be admissible under rule 801(d)(1)(A) if inconsistent with the witness present testimony. The rule distinguishes between civil and criminal cases

In a civil case the former testimony in the same or different litigation is excepted from the hearsay rule if

1 the declarant is unavailable and

2 the party against whom the testimony is being offered or another party with substantially the same interest had an opportunity and motive to develop the testimony Briggs v Chicago Great Western Ry 248 Minn 418 426, 80 N W2d 625 633 (1957)

In a criminal proceeding the rule is only applicable when there is a retrial of the same defendant for the same or an included offense Even this limited application might raise issues under the confrontation clause The rule is not intended to codify the scope of the Sixth Amendment

To the extent that the admissibility of depositions is governed by rules of procedure the procedural rules shall still be in effect pursuant to rule 802 See Minn R Civ P 32.01(3) and Minn R Crim P 21.06

Subdivision (b)(2)

This provision represents the traditional dying declaration exception to the hearsay rule At common law the exception was limited to homicide prosecutions The rule extends this to include civil actions Otherwise the rule is consistent with the Minnesota approach as stated in State v Eubanks 277 Minn 257 262 152 N W2d 453 456 457 (1967)

In prosecutions for homicide the dying declarations of the deceased as to the cause of his injury or as to the circumstances which resulted in the injury are admissible if it be shown to the satisfaction of the trial court that they were made when the deceased was in actual danger of death and had given up all hope of recovery State v Elias 205 Minn 156 158 285 N W 475 476 (1939)

Subdivision (b)(3)

Declarations against interest have traditionally been excepted from the hearsay rule when the declarant is unavailable Unlike the admission of a party (rule 801(d)(2)) the basis for this exception centers in notions of trustworthiness and necessity

The statement must not only be contrary to the declarant's interest at the time made but so far contrary to his interest that a reasonable person would not have made the statement unless he believed it to be true Implicit in the rule is the requirement that the declarant have firsthand knowledge (rule 602) and that he understand or should understand that the statement is likely to be contrary to his interest at the time the statement is made

The common law exception was originally limited to declarations against proprietary or pecuniary interests Many jurisdictions including Minnesota have expanded this to include statements that might give rise to civil liability Johnson v Slesizer 268 Minn 421 426 129 N W2d 761 764 (1964) and statements against penal interest State v Higginbotham 298 Minn 1 212 N W2d 881 (1973) This rule was not intended to affect the application of Minnesota Statutes section 169.94 (1974) See Warren v Marsh 215 Minn 615 11 N W2d 528 (1943)

The corroboration requirement in criminal cases for statements that exculpate the accused has been expressly approved by the Supreme Court State v Higginbotham 298 Minn 1, 212 N W2d 881 (1973)

Subdivision (b)(4)

Statements of personal or family history have traditionally been admissible as an exception to the hearsay rule See gen 5 Wigmore Evidence section 1480 et seq (Chadbourn ed 1974) The rule does not require that the statement be made prior to the controversy as was the case at common law It is thought that the timing of the statement goes more to its evidentiary weight than admissibility The relaxation of the requirement of first-hand knowledge will allow admission of the statement of an unavailable declarant relating to the date of his birth See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note

Subdivision (b)(5)

Other than the requirement of unavailability, this exception is identical to rule 803(24) Since the unavailability of the declarant will increase the necessity for resorting to hearsay statements it is likely that this provision will be used more frequently than rule 803(24) in fashioning new exceptions to the hearsay rule

Rule 805 Hearsay Within Hearsay

Hearsay included within hearsay is not excluded under the hearsay rule if each part of the combined statements conforms with an exception to the hearsay rule provided in these rules

Committee Comment—1977

Where double hearsay is involved the statement is admissible if each step in the transmission of the statement qualifies under an exception to the hearsay rule. Usually this question arises with respect to documentary evidence that includes a hearsay statement. For example, a hospital record that includes a spontaneous statement of a patient indicating present pain would not be excluded by the hearsay rule. See rules 803(6) (3) and (4)

Rule 806 Attacking and Supporting Credibility of Declarant

When a hearsay statement, or a statement defined in Rule 801(d)(2)(C) (D) or (E), has been admitted in evidence, the credibility of the declarant may be attacked and if attacked may be supported, by any evidence which would be admissible for those purposes if declarant had testified as a witness. Evidence of a statement or conduct by the declarant at any time inconsistent with the declarant's hearsay statement is not subject to any requirement that the declarant may have been afforded an opportunity to deny or explain. If the party against whom a hearsay statement has been admitted calls the declarant as a witness, the party is entitled to examine the declarant on the statement as if under cross-examination (Amended effective January 1 1990)

Committee Comment—1977

*The evidentiary value of a hearsay statement is dependent upon the credibility of the declarant. The proper assessment of hearsay evidence requires an opportunity to impeach and if necessary rehabilitate the credibility of the declarant. The same rules governing impeachment and rehabilitation of witnesses at trial are applicable to a hearsay declarant. However, when impeaching a hearsay declarant with an inconsistent statement, the requirement set forth in rule 613(b) that a person be given an opportunity to explain the inconsistent statement is dispensed with. Contra Lerum v Geving 97 Munn 269, 273, 105 N W 967 969 (1906)*

ARTICLE 9 AUTHENTICATION AND IDENTIFICATION

Rule 901 Requirement of Authentication or Identification

(a) General provisions The requirement of authentication or identification as a condition precedent to admissibility is satisfied by evidence sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims

(b) Illustrations By way of illustration only, and not by way of limitation, the following are examples of authentication or identification conforming with the requirements of this rule

(1) Testimony of witness with knowledge Testimony that a matter is what it is claimed to be

(2) Nonexpert opinion on handwriting Nonexpert opinion as to the genuineness of handwriting, based upon familiarity not acquired for purposes of the litigation

(3) Comparison by trier or expert witness Comparison by the trier of fact or by expert witnesses with specimens which have been authenticated

(4) Distinctive characteristics and the like Appearance contents substance, internal patterns, or other distinctive characteristics, taken in conjunction with circumstances

(5) Voice identification Identification of a voice, whether heard firsthand or through mechanical or electronic transmission or recording, by opinion based upon hearing the voice at any time under circumstances connecting it with the alleged speaker

(6) Telephone conversations Telephone conversations by evidence that a call was made to the number assigned at the time by the telephone company to a particular person or business if (A) in the case of a person, circumstances including self-identification, show the person answering to be the one called or (B) in the case of a business the call was made to a place of business and the conversation related to business reasonably transacted over the telephone

(7) Public records or reports Evidence that a writing authorized by law to be recorded or filed and in fact recorded or filed in a public office, or a purported public record, report statement or data compilation in any form is from the public office where items of this nature are kept

(8) Ancient documents or data compilation Evidence that a document or data compilation, in any form, (A) is in such condition as to create no suspicion concerning its authenticity (B) was in a place where it, if authentic would likely be and (C) has been in existence 20 years or more at the time it is offered

(9) Process or system Evidence describing a process or system used to produce a result and showing that the process or system produces an accurate result

(10) Methods provided by statute or rule Any method of authentication or identification provided by Legislative Act or by other rules prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority

Committee Comment—1977

Authentication is simply a more specialized application of the principles of relevancy. Before probative value can be attached to an offer of evidence it must be established that the evidence be it a chattel a writing or a conversation is precisely what the proponent claims it to be. The concept is frequently easy in application but most difficult to define. As a consequence the rule consists of a general statement followed by a number of illustrations setting forth possible applications of the general rule. The illustrations are not intended to limit the general rule in other areas but are to serve only as examples of how the rule might be applied.

The general rule treats authentication in terms of a condition precedent to admissibility. To satisfy the condition precedent the proponent must present evidence sufficient to support a finding by the trier of fact that the offered evidence is what it is claimed to be. Authentication is governed by rule 104(b) which leaves the order of proof subject to the discretion of the court. Rule 901 does not distinguish between the authentication of writings and chattels and applies equally to both.

The illustrations are set out as guidelines to the application of the general rule. Rule 901(a) requires that the evidence be sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what it is purported to be. It is possible that a factual situation might fit within the letter of a particular illustration and yet because of peculiar circumstances lack the probative value required to satisfy the standard in subdivision (a). Certainly there will be occasions when the authentication requirement is met by methods not suggested in subdivision (b).

Perhaps the most common method of authentication is the use of testimony by a witness with knowledge that the offer of evidence is what it is represented to be. See rule 602.

*This illustration makes it clear that a lay witness who is familiar with a person's hand writing should be able to give an opinion for authentication purposes. See rule 701. See also Johnson v Burmeister 182 Minn 385 386-387 234 N W 590-591 (1931). However the familiarity with the handwriting must not have been acquired for the purposes of the litigation.*

*In addition to the methods suggested in rules 901(b)(1) and (2) a letter could be authenticated by opinion testimony of a handwriting expert or through comparison by the trier of fact with authenticated exemplars. The practice of allowing jurors to determine the authenticity of a writing has been approved in Minnesota. State v Houston 278 Minn 41 44 153.*

N W 2d 267 269 (1967) The rule should not be read as a statement that jurors can authenticate other matters by comparison techniques without the benefit of expert testimony e g ballistics or fingerprints These questions must be resolved on a case by case basis

This illustration indicates that an offer of evidence can be authenticated by circumstantial evidence Typically letters and telephone conversations are authenticated by the well known reply doctrine

This provision is consistent with Minnesota law A properly qualified witness may give his opinion as to the identity of a voice whether comparing voices heard firsthand or through a mechanical or electronic transmission or recording State ex rel Trimble v Hedman 291 Munn 442 450 192 N W 2d 432 437 (1971) In addition the Court in Trimble makes it clear that voiceprints are admissible at trial at least for the purposes of corroborating or impeaching other voice identifications Id at 457 192 N W 2d at 441 Although the illustration does not directly speak to voiceprints their admission for identification purposes would not be inconsistent with the underlying rationale See also rule 901(b)(9)

Telephone conversations can be authenticated by a number of methods e g the reply doctrine rule 901(b)(4) or voice recognition rule 901(b)(5) If the number was assigned to a person the conversation may be authenticated by introducing evidence that the call was made to the properly assigned number and the person answering the phone identified himself or his identity can be established by other circumstances If the number was assigned to a business the conversation may be authenticated by introducing evidence that the call was made to the properly assigned number and the conversation related to the type of business reasonably transacted over the telephone

To authenticate a public or official record it need only be established that the document is from the custody of the appropriate office See rules 902 and 1005 for the introduction of copies of public records The hearsay aspects of certain public records are addressed in rules 803 (8 9 10, 14 and 15) See generally Munn R Civ P 44 and Minnesota Statutes section 600 13 (1974)

The hearsay problems that are associated with the admissibility of ancient documents are covered in rule 803(16) The authenticity of a document or data compilation can be established by showing that it is at least 20 years old, found in a place where such documents or compilations are normally kept and in such condition so as not to create suspicion as to its authenticity The rule is drafted to reflect contemporary methods of data processing retention and storage

The authentication of many different types of scientific testimony is addressed by this illustration The admissibility of evidence based on X-rays computer printouts voiceprints public opinion polls etc all depend upon a showing that the process or system used does produce an accurate result The degree of accuracy required might vary with the purposes for which the evidence is being offered the state of the art and the type of method or process involved

This illustration is intended to make it clear that rule 901 does not limit or supersede other forms of authentication Existing statutes and court rules providing for authentication of certain evidence remain in effect See e g Munn R Civ P 44 80 and 30 06 Minnesota Statutes sections 175 11 and 600 13 (1974)

Rule 902 Self-authentication

Extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to the following

(1) Domestic public documents under seal A document bearing a seal purporting to be that of the United States, or of any State, district, Commonwealth, territory, or insular possession thereof, or the Panama Canal Zone, or the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or of a political subdivision, department, officer, or agency thereof, and a signature purporting to be an attestation or execution

(2) Domestic public documents not under seal A document purporting to bear the signature in the official capacity of an officer or employee of any entity included in paragraph (1) hereof, having no seal, if a public officer having a seal and having official duties in the district or political subdivision of the officer or employee certifies under seal that the signer has the official capacity and that the signature is genuine

(3) Foreign public documents A document purporting to be executed or attested in an official capacity by a person authorized by the laws of a foreign country to make the execution or attestation and accompanied by a final certification as to the genuineness of the signature and official position (A) of the executing or attesting person or (B) of any foreign official whose certificate of genuineness of signature and official position relates to the execution or attestation or is in a chain of certificates of genuineness of signature and official position relating to the execution or attestation. A final certification may be made by a secretary of embassy or legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent of the United States, or a diplomatic or consular official of the foreign country assigned or accredited to the United States. If reasonable opportunity has been given to all parties to investigate the authenticity and accuracy of official documents, the court may, for good cause shown, order that they be treated as presumptively authentic without final certification or permit them to be evidenced by an attested summary with or without final certification.

(4) Certified copies of public records A copy of an official record or report or entry therein or of a document authorized by law to be recorded or filed and actually recorded or filed in a public office, including data compilations in any form, certified as correct by the custodian or other person authorized to make the certification, by certificate complying with paragraph (1), (2), or (3) of this rule or complying with any Legislative Act or rule prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority.

(5) Official publications Books, pamphlets, or other publications purporting to be issued by public authority.

(6) Newspapers and periodicals Printed materials purporting to be newspapers or periodicals.

(7) Trade inscriptions and the like Inscriptions, signs, tags, or labels purporting to have been affixed in the course of business and indicating ownership, control, or origin.

(8) Acknowledged documents Documents accompanied by a certificate of acknowledgment executed in the manner provided by law by a notary public or other officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments.

(9) Commercial paper and related documents Commercial paper, signatures thereon, and documents relating thereto to the extent provided by general commercial law.

(10) Presumptions under Legislative Acts Any signature, document, or other matter declared by Legislative Act to be presumptively or prima facie genuine or authentic. (Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1989

The rules retain the existing practice of dispensing with the authentication requirement for certain documentary evidence. Because of the difficulty and inconvenience that would result if formal authentication was required and the slight risk of fraud or forgery, certain documents are deemed to be self-authenticating. The fulfillment of the authentication requirement does not preclude the opposing party from attacking the genuineness of the evidence to detract from the weight to be given it by the trier of fact.

Consistent with principles of common law, public documents under seal are self-authenticating. See gen. Minnesota Statutes, sections 175.11 and 600.13 (1974). See also Minn. R. Civ. P. 44.01.

The naked signature of a public employee or officer is not sufficient to authenticate the document. However, if accompanied by a certification under seal by a second public officer under the circumstances set out in the rule, the document becomes self-authenticating.

Rule 902(3) was adapted from Fed. R. Civ. P. 44 (Minn. R. Civ. P. 44.01(2)).

Consistent with the common law, certified copies of public records need no additional authentication. See Minnesota Statutes, section 600.13 (1974) and Minn. R. Civ. P. 44.01. The rule requires that the copy be of a public or official record, that the custodian or other authorized person certify the copy, and that the certificate comply with rule 902(1–3), a specific statute or other court rule The contents of the certificate should generally indicate the status of the signer in relation to the custody of the document and the accuracy of the copy

This provision is generally consistent with existing practice See e g Minn R Civ P 44 Minnesota Statutes sections 599 02 648 33 (1974)

The provision alters the common law by placing the burden to contest the genuineness of newspapers and other periodicals on the party opposing the offer Cf Minnesota Statutes, sections 600 10–12 (1974) It is based on the theory that the likelihood of forgery in these matters is slight and the inconvenience and expense involved by requiring authentication is not justified The rule speaks only to authentication The admissibility of such evidence can be challenged pursuant to other rules of evidence

The rule is based on the unlikelihood of forgery of a trade inscription In addition the business community accepts and relies upon the trustworthiness of trade inscriptions Although this rule is not unquestioned at common law it represents a reasoned view that is supported in the case law See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note and cases cited therein

These provisions are consistent with existing practice Minnesota Statutes section 600 14 (1974) See Minnesota Statutes, section 358 15 (1974) for the parties authorized to take acknowledgments and Minnesota Statutes, sections 358 34–37 (1974) for the manner of taking acknowledgments The evidentiary rule is not intended to affect the legal requirements for establishing a valid, executed will set forth by the Uniform Probate Code Minnesota Statutes section 524 1–101 et seq (1974) See in particular Minnesota Statutes 1975 Supplement section 524 2–501 et seq The authentication of commercial paper is governed by statutory law See e g Minnesota Statutes sections 336 1–202, 336 3–307 336 3–510 and 336 8–105 (1974)

Uniform Rule 902(11) adds business records to those writings that are self-authenticating The Committee considered Rule 902(11) and recommends against adopting it

Under present Minnesota law the authentication requirement for business records is found in Rule 803(6) (‘all as shown by the testimony of the custodian or other qualified witness’) The extensive discovery available in both civil and criminal procedures provides a vehicle for resolving authentication issues before trial The authentication requirement is generally waived With respect to the minority of cases in which the parties cannot resolve the issue prior to trial the committee took the view that a party should have the right to insist upon the proof required by Rule 803(6) For these reasons the committee decided not to recommend that business records be added to the list of self-authenticating documents, and recommends that Uniform Rule 902(11) not be adopted

In addition to the provisions in these rules, evidence can be authenticated pursuant to specific statutes

Rule 903 Subscribing Witness’ Testimony Unnecessary

The testimony of a subscribing witness is not necessary to authenticate a writing unless required by the laws of the jurisdiction whose laws govern the validity of the writing

Committee Comment—1977

To authenticate a writing there is no need to present subscribing witnesses unless otherwise required by the laws of the jurisdiction governing the validity of the writing E g Minnesota Statutes 1975 Supplement section 524 3–406 which in certain circumstances requires the production of an attesting witness

ARTICLE 10 CONTENTS OF WRITINGS, RECORDINGS, AND PHOTOGRAPHS

Rule 1001 Definitions

For purposes of this article the following definitions are applicable

(1) Writings and recordings Writings and recordings consist of letters, words, or numbers, or their equivalent, set down by handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating photographing, magnetic impulse, mechanical or electronic recording or other form of data compilation

(2) Photographs ‘Photographs’ include still photographs, X-ray films, video tapes, and motion pictures

(3) Original An “original” of a writing or recording is the writing or recording itself or any counterpart intended to have the same effect by a person executing or issuing it. An original of a photograph includes the negative or any print therefrom. If data are stored in a computer or similar device, any printout or other output readable by sight, shown to reflect the data accurately, is an “original”

(4) Duplicate A “duplicate” is a counterpart produced by the same impression as the original or from the same matrix, or by means of photography, including enlargements and miniatures, or by mechanical or electronic rerecording or by chemical reproduction or by other equivalent techniques which accurately reproduce the original

Committee Comment—1977

Article 10 deals with the so called ‘best evidence rule.’ Rule 1001 is the definitional portion of the article. The rule is drafted sufficiently broad to encompass future scientific advances in the storage and retrieval of data and other information.

Consistent with existing practice, not only the writing itself is classified as an original, but also any counterpart intended to have the same effect by a person executing or issuing it. Thus executed carbon copies are treated as originals. The rule resolves two issues that have been raised in other jurisdictions:

(1) Both the negative and the print of a photograph are treated as an original.

(2) Data printouts readable by sight are treated as originals. Practically and common usage justify this result. See United States Supreme Court Advisory Committee Note.

Rule 1002 Requirement of Original

To prove the content of a writing, recording, or photograph, the original writing, recording, or photograph is required, except as otherwise provided in these rules or by Legislative Act.

Committee Comment—1977

*This provision is a straightforward statement of the general rule. Only when a party is attempting to prove the contents of a writing, recording, or photograph must the original be produced. If a party is attempting to prove a different consequential fact, there is no general requirement that he do so with the best available evidence. See generally C. McCormick, Evidence section 233 (2d ed. 1972). The rule does not address the question that arises when a party attempts to prove the contents of a writing inscribed on a chattel, e.g., a ring, a license plate, a billboard, etc. The question of whether the chattel must be produced in these cases is left to the discretion of the trial court. See e.g., Mattson v. Minnesota & North Wisconsin R.R., 98 Minn. 296, 298, 108 N.W. 517, 518 (1906).*

Rule 1003 Admissibility of Duplicates

A duplicate is admissible to the same extent as an original unless (1) a genuine question is raised as to the authenticity of the original or (2) in the circumstances it would be unfair to admit the duplicate in lieu of the original.

Committee Comment—1977

With the development of accurate and convenient reproducing systems, much of the concern about the admission of duplicates is eliminated. There remains the fear of possible fraud. However, in most instances where the accuracy of a duplicate is not contested, it makes little sense to prohibit the introduction of a duplicate. It makes less sense in civil cases where the litigants by way of discovery usually can examine the original documents. The courts should not place a heavy burden on the party contesting the admission of the duplicates.

The rule will mark a change in Minnesota practice but not a major change. At present copies made and kept in the ordinary course of business are treated as originals. Minnesota Statutes section 600.135 (1974).

Rule 1004 Admissibility of Other Evidence of Contents

The original is not required, and other evidence of the contents of a writing, recording, or photograph is admissible if

(1) Originals lost or destroyed All originals are lost or have been destroyed unless the proponent lost or destroyed them in bad faith, or

(2) Original not obtainable No original can be obtained by any available judicial process or procedure, or

(3) Original in possession of opponent At a time when an original was under the control of the party against whom offered, that party was put on notice, by the pleadings or otherwise, that the contents would be a subject of proof at the hearing, and that party does not produce the original at the hearing, or

(4) Collateral matters The writing, recording, or photograph is not closely related to a controlling issue.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

This rule is a codification of the common law. In application the rule requiring the production of the original writing is a rule of preference. If the original is available it must be produced if the contents are at issue. However, where the original is not available, courts have traditionally permitted the admission of secondary evidence in the circumstances set out in the rule.

Rule 1005 Public Records

The contents of an official record, or of a document authorized to be recorded or filed and actually recorded or filed, including data compilations in any form, if otherwise admissible, may be proved by copy, certified as correct in accordance with Rule 902 or testified to be correct by a witness who has compared it with the original. If a copy which complies with the foregoing cannot be obtained by the exercise of reasonable diligence, then other evidence of the contents may be given.

Committee Comment—1977

An official record or authorized document which has been filed or recorded may be proved by a certified copy. This is consistent with existing practice under Minnesota Statutes section 600.13 (1974). If a certified copy is not obtainable, the record can be established by other types of evidence including oral testimony.

Rule 1006 Summaries

The contents of voluminous writings, recordings, or photographs which cannot conveniently be examined in court may be presented in the form of a chart, summary, or calculation. The originals, or duplicates, shall be made available for examination or copying, or both, by other parties at a reasonable time and place. The court may order that they be produced in court.

(Amended effective January 1, 1990.)

Committee Comment—1977

In cases involving voluminous records the only practical way to introduce the evidence in a meaningful fashion is by resorting to charts summaries or calculations The rule does not require that the original documents be introduced into evidence However they must be made available for inspection or copying The court has the power to require production of the original documents in court

Rule 1007 Testimony or Written Admission of Party

Contents of writings, recordings, or photographs may be proved by the testimony or deposition of the party against whom offered or by that party's written admission without accounting for the nonproduction of the original

Committee Comment—1977

The original need not be produced if the contents of the writing can be established by the testimony deposition or written admission of an opposing party See Swing v Cloquet Lumber Co 121 Minn 221 225 141 N W 117 118 (1913) In each of these situations the policy rationale for requiring the original writing is satisfied with the possible exception that the party opponent's admission might not be accurate The nature of the adversary system justifies this result In order to avoid the dangers of erroneous transmission an oral out of court admission by an adversary is not sufficient to prove the contents of a writing

Rule 1008 Functions of Court and Jury

When the admissibility of other evidence of contents of writings recordings or photographs under these rules depends upon the fulfillment of a condition of fact the question whether the condition has been fulfilled is ordinarily for the court to determine in accordance with the provisions of Rule 104 However when an issue is raised (a) whether the asserted writing ever existed or (b) whether another writing, recording or photograph produced at the trial is the original or (c) whether other evidence of contents correctly reflects the contents the issue is for the trier of fact to determine as in the case of other issues of fact

Committee Comment—1977

The rule is merely a specialized application of rule 104 Rule 104 sets out the respective functions of the judge and jury The judge is to make all determinations as to the competency or admissibility of the evidence and the jury is to determine the relevance or probative worth of the evidence The best evidence rule is essentially a rule of competency Secondary evidence is not competent to prove the contents of an original writing unless the original is destroyed not available etc It is a matter for the judge to decide pursuant to rules 1008 and 104(a) whether the condition precedent for admissibility has been established Beyond the questions of admissibility certain factual disputes may arise Three possible issues are listed in the rule

- (1) whether the original ever existed*
- (2) which of two evidentiary items is the original and*
- (3) whether the secondary evidence correctly reflects the contents of the original*

As to these questions the judge's function is to determine whether there is sufficient evidence in the record to support a finding on the issue If sufficient evidence is in the record the issues must be submitted to the trier of fact for resolution

ARTICLE 11 MISCELLANEOUS RULESRule 1101 Rules Applicable

(a) Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (b), these rules apply to all actions and proceedings in the courts of this state

(b) Rules inapplicable The rules other than those with respect to privileges do not apply in the following situations

(1) Preliminary questions of fact The determination of questions of fact preliminary to admissibility of evidence when the issue is to be determined by the court under Rule 104(a)

(2) Grand jury Proceedings before grand juries

(3) Miscellaneous proceedings Proceedings for extradition or rendition probable cause hearings, sentencing or granting or revoking probation issuance of warrants for arrest criminal summonses and search warrants, and proceedings with respect to release on bail or otherwise

(4) Contempt proceedings in which the court may act summarily

Committee Comment—1977

These rules of evidence are not applicable to certain procedures. However, these proceedings may be governed by evidentiary rules set forth in statutes, federal and state constitutions, and other court rules. See e.g., Minn. R. Crim. P. 18.06.

INDEX

ADOPTION

Hearsay rule
Declarant's statements when declarant unavailable exception Rule 804

ADVERSE PARTIES

Inspections
Writings used to refresh memory Rule 612
Notice received
Hearsay statements' intent to offer requirements Rule 803 Rule 804
Witnesses' examination of Leading questions Rule 611

AFFIDAVITS

Jurors
Matters about which jurors are precluded from testifying Rule 606

AFFIRMATIONS

Administration of
Requirements Rule 603
Application of rules
Interpreters Rule 604
Witnesses Rule 603
Form of affirmation
Generally Rule 603
Oaths in lieu of
Requirements Rule 603

AGENTS

Statements by
Defined as not being hearsay Rule 801

ANCIENT DOCUMENTS

Authentication or identification
Requirements Rule 901
Defined hearsay evidence Rule 803
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

ARREST WARRANTS

Issuance
Proceedings regarding rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

BAIL

Hearings
Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

BAPTISM

Records
Hearsay rule exceptions to Rule 803

BILLS OF LADING

Authentication or identification
Self-authentication Rule 902

BIRTH AND DEATH RECORDS

Hearsay rule
Absence of record Rule 803
Exception Rule 803

BOOKS

Authentication or identification
Books issued by public authorities self-authentication Rule 902
Bibles
Hearsay rule family bibles' statements of fact, exception Rule 803
Learned treatises
Expert witnesses' materials relied upon by Rule 803
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

BOUNDARIES

Final judgment concerning
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803
Reputation in community concerning
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

BRANDS

Affixed during the course of business
Self-authentication Rule 902

BURDEN OF PROOF

Shifting
Presumptions Rule 301

BUSINESSES

Defined
Hearsay rule exceptions Rule 803
Records
Kept in the course of regularly conducted business activity
Absence of entry Rule 803
Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803
Records prepared for litigation admissibility Rule 803
Telephone calls
Authentication or identification Rule 901

CERTIFIED COPIES

Official records or reports
Contents proof requirements Rule 1005
Self-authentication Rule 902

CHILDREN BORN OUT OF WEDLOCK

Legitimacy
Declarant's statements when declarant unavailable hearsay rule exception Rule 804

CHURCHES

Baptismal certificates
Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803
Marriage certificates
Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803
Records
Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803

COMPROMISE AND SETTLEMENT

Offers or acceptance of Admissibility generally Rule 408

COMPUTERS

Data
Contents proof
Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
Originals' production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
Defined as writings or recordings Rule 1001
Printouts
Contents proof
Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
Originals' production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
Voluminous printouts summaries admissibility Rule 1006
Defined as originals Rule 1001

CONSPIRACY

Statements by coconspirators
Admissibility Rule 801
Defined as not being hearsay Rule 801

CONSULAR REPRESENTATIVES

Certificates and certification
Foreign public documents self-authentication Rule 902

CONTEMPTS

Hearings
Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

CONVICTION

Crimes' final judgment of
Hearsay rule criminal proceedings exception Rule 803
Witnesses
Evidence of admissibility Rule 609

COUNTY RECORDERS

Records
Authentication or identification Rule 901
Hearsay rule
Absence of record Rule 803
Exception generally Rule 803

COURT ADMINISTRATORS

Filing with
Letters of appointment, expert witnesses Rule 706

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

Conviction
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803
Former testimony in or regarding
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804

CRIMINAL SEXUAL CONDUCT

Victims
Past conduct admissibility Rule 412

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Accused persons
Testimony
Preliminary matters effect Rule 104
Scope Rule 611

Character evidence
Conduct of a witness Rule 608
Proof methods of Rule 405

Expert witnesses
Generally Rule 706
Underlying expert data
Admissibility Rule 703
Disclosure requirements Rule 705

Witnesses
Credibility of declarants called as witnesses Rule 806
Leading questions when permitted Rule 611
Prior statements Rule 613 Rule 801
Scope generally Rule 611
Writings used to refresh memory Rule 612

DEATH

Dying declarations see Statements made under belief of impending death under this topic

Records see BIRTH AND DEATH RECORDS

Statements made under belief of impending death
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804

DECEASED PERSONS

Admissions by
Witnesses testimony concerning Rule 617
Conversations prior to death
Witnesses testimony concerning Rule 617
Dying declarations see Statements made by under belief of impending death under this topic
Statements made by under belief of impending death
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804
Witnesses
Unavailability hearsay rule Rule 804

DEFENDANTS

Evidence
Character evidence admissibility Rule 404

DEFENSES

Consent
Sex crimes evidence of victims past conduct admissibility Rule 412

DEFINITIONS

Ancient documents
Hearsay rule exceptions Rule 803
Businesses
Hearsay rule exceptions Rule 803
Declarants
Hearsay evidence Rule 801
Duplicates
Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
Hearsay
Hearsay evidence Rule 801
Originals
Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
Photographs
Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
Recordings
Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

DEFINITIONS (Cont d)

Relevant evidence Rule 401
Statements
Hearsay evidence Rule 801
Statements which are not hearsay
Hearsay evidence Rule 801
Unavailability as a witness
Hearsay evidence Rule 804
Writings
Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

DEPOSITIONS

Expert witnesses
Generally Rule 706
Former testimony during
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804
Parties to suits
Contents of writings recordings or photographs proof Rule 1007

DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE

Declarant's statements concerning when declarant unavailable
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804

DISTRICT COURT

Appointments by Expert witnesses Rule 706
Determinations by
Evidence admissibility
Hearsay evidence Rule 803 Rule 804
Preliminary questions of fact generally Rule 104 Rule 1101
Writings recordings or photographs Rule 1008
Witnesses qualifications Rule 104
Disclosure
Expert witnesses appointment of Rule 706
Evidence
Admissibility see Determinations by under this topic
Comparison with authenticated specimens Rule 901
Scope restriction duties Rule 105
Examinations by Writings used to refresh witness memory Rule 612
Expert witnesses
Fees payment of funding Rule 706
Opinions disclosure of underlying facts or data Rule 705
Hearings
Confessions admissibility Rule 104
Evidence past conduct victims of sex crimes Rule 412
In camera hearings Rule 104 Rule 412
Judicial notice
Adjudicative facts
When discretionary Rule 201
When mandatory Rule 201
When taken Rule 201
Jury instructions
Evidence limited admissibility Rule 105
Facts judicially noticed Rule 201
Orders
Expert witnesses nonappointment Rule 706
Foreign public documents self-authentication Rule 902
Victims of sex crimes past conduct, Rule 412
Witnesses exclusion from courtroom Rule 615
Writings recordings or photographs production Rule 1006
Witnesses
Calling on own initiative Rule 614
Exclusion from courtroom Rule 615
Interrogation of
Generally Rule 614
Order of interrogation and presentation duties Rule 611

DISTRICT COURT JUDGES

Presiding judges
Serving as witnesses during trial prohibited Rule 605

DOCUMENTS

Acknowledged documents
Authentication or identification self-authentication Rule 902
Ancient documents see ANCIENT DOCUMENTS
Authentication or identification
Declarations by legislature self-authentication Rule 902
Self-authentication generally Rule 902

DOCUMENTS OF TITLE

- Authentication or identification
 - Self-authentication Rule 902

EVIDENCEAdmissibility

- Authentication or identification see Authentication or identification under this topic
- Extrinsic evidence Rule 608 Rule 613 Rule 902
- Irrelevant evidence Rule 402
- Limited admissibility district court, duties Rule 105
- Preliminary questions concerning Rule 104
- Relevant evidence Rule 402
- Specific types of evidence see specific types of evidence under this topic

Ancient documents see ANCIENT DOCUMENTSAuthentication or identification

- Condition precedent to admissibility
 - General provisions Rule 901
 - Self-authentication Rule 902
- Examples conforming with requirements of rule Rule 901

Best evidence rule

- Generally Rule 1001 to Rule 1008

Character evidence

- Admissibility generally Rule 404
- Other crimes acts or wrongs Rule 404
- Proof methods of
 - Reputation or opinion Rule 405
 - Specific instances of conduct Rule 405
- Reputation of a person among associates or community
 - Hearsay rule exception Rule 803
- Witnesses see WITNESSES

Clear and convincing evidence

- Criminal prosecutions
 - Evidence of other crimes wrongs or acts admissibility Rule 404

Comparison with authenticated specimens

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Compromise and settlement

- Offers or acceptance of admissibility Rule 408

Distinctive characteristics

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Duplicates

- Defined contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
- Proof of contents admissibility Rule 1003

Extrinsic evidence

- Use
 - Self-authentication of documents not required Rule 902
- Witnesses
 - Prior inconsistent statements admissibility Rule 613
 - Specific instances of conduct, admissibility Rule 608

Guilty pleas

- Offers of admissibility Rule 410
- Withdrawal of admissibility Rule 410

Handwriting see HANDWRITINGHearsay evidence see HEARSAY EVIDENCE*Irrelevant evidence

- Admissibility Rule 402

Judicial notice see JUDICIAL NOTICELiability insurance

- Evidence of admissibility Rule 411

Medical bills or expenses

- Offers to pay inadmissible to prove liability Rule 409

Originals

- Defined contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
- Proof of contents requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1004

Photographs

- Defined contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
- Proof of contents admissibility Rule 1002 Rule 1004

Pleadings

- Nolo contendere inadmissible Rule 410

Public records or reports

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Recorded statements

- Partial recorded statements introduction of remainder Rule 106

EVIDENCE (Cont d)Recordings

- Defined contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
- Proof of contents requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1004

Relevant evidence

- Admissibility generally Rule 402
- Defined Rule 401
- Exclusion grounds Rule 403
- Habit or routine practice Rule 406

Rules of generally see RULES OF EVIDENCERulings

- Admitting evidence
 - Objections specific grounds requirements Rule 103
- Erroneous rulings
 - Effect generally Rule 103
 - Errors of fundamental law Rule 103
 - Plain errors Rule 103
- Excluding evidence
 - Offers of proof requirements Rule 103
- Objections to
 - Specific grounds requirements Rule 103
- Where made Rule 103

Scientific method or process

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Subsequent remedial measures

- Admissibility Rule 407
- Inadmissible to prove negligence or culpable conduct, Rule 407

Telephone calls

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Victim's past conduct

- Character evidence admissibility Rule 404
- Procedure Rule 412
- Sex crimes admissibility Rule 412

Voice identification

- Authentication or identification Rule 901

Writings

- Defined contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001
- Partial writings introduction of remainder Rule 106
- Proof of contents
 - Admissibility functions of court and jury Rule 1008
 - Requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1004

EXPERT WITNESSESAppointment

- By court requirements Rule 706
- By parties requirements Rule 706

Deposition of

- Generally Rule 706

Disclosure

- Facts or data underlying opinion when required Rule 705

Fees

- Payment, how funded Rule 706

Opinion testimony

- Bases for opinion facts or data reasonably relied upon Rule 703
- Ultimate issue objections Rule 704

Qualifications

- Generally Rule 702

Underlying expert data

- Admissibility requirements Rule 703
- Disclosure when required Rule 705

EXTRADITIONHearings

- Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

FAMILIESFamily histories

- Declarant's statements concerning when declarant unavailable
 - hearsay rule exception Rule 804
- Records concerning hearsay rule exception Rule 803
- Reputation concerning hearsay rule exception Rule 803

FETUSESDeath records

- Hearsay rule
 - Absence of record Rule 803
 - Exception generally Rule 803

FINAL JUDGMENT

Boundaries

Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

Criminal convictions

Hearsay rule criminal proceedings exception Rule 803

Family history

Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

Personal history

Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Documents

Public documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902

Public documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

GOVERNMENT DATA

Local records political subdivisions

Authentication or identification Rule 901

Contents proof requirements Rule 1005

Hearsay rule

Absence of record Rule 803

Exception generally Rule 803

GRAND JURIES

Proceedings

Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

GUILTY PLEAS

Conviction upon

Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

Offers of

Admissibility Rule 410

Withdrawal of

Admissibility Rule 410

HANDWRITING

Authentication or identification

Nonexpert opinion regarding when permitted Rule 901

Writing

Handwriting defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

HEARSAY EVIDENCE

Admissions by a party opponent

Defined as not being hearsay Rule 801

Adoption

Declarant's statements when declarant unavailable exception Rule 804

Ancient documents

Defined Rule 803

Declarants

Availability to testify

Declarant's availability immaterial see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Declarant unavailable see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Credibility

Impeachment requirements Rule 806

Rehabilitation requirements Rule 806

Cross-examination when permitted Rule 806

Defined Rule 801

Inconsistent statements Rule 806

Statements by which are not hearsay Rule 801

Double hearsay see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Exceptions to hearsay rule

Admissibility criteria used to determine generally Rule 803 Rule 804

Availability of declarant immaterial

Books and treatises relied upon by expert witnesses Rule 803

Commercial publications Rule 803

Documents Rule 803

Excited utterances Rule 803

Final judgments Rule 803

Market reports Rule 803

Pamphlets relied upon by expert witnesses Rule 803

Peace officers' statements by relating to criminal matters and petty misdemeanors exception Rule 803

Periodicals relied upon by expert witnesses Rule 803

Recorded recollections Rule 803

Records

Birth and death records Rule 803

HEARSAY EVIDENCE (Cont d)

Exceptions to hearsay rule (Cont d)

Availability of declarant immaterial (Cont d)

Records (Cont d)

Business activity regularly conducted Rule 803

Documents affecting interest in property Rule 803

Family records Rule 803

Marriage baptismal and similar certificates Rule 803

Public records and reports Rule 803

Religious organizations Rule 803

Reputation

Character of a person Rule 803

Community reputation regarding boundaries or history Rule 803

Personal or family history Rule 803

Statements

Excited utterances Rule 803

In ancient documents Rule 803

In documents affecting property Rule 803

Medical diagnosis or treatment Rule 803

Then existing mental emotional or physical condition Rule 803

Wills statements related to execution revocation identification or terms Rule 803

Declarant unavailable to testify

Civil actions Rule 804

Criminal proceedings Rule 804

Statements

Against interest Rule 804

Personal or family history Rule 804

Under belief of impending death Rule 804

Double hearsay (hearsay within hearsay)

When admissible Rule 805

Hearsay within hearsay (double hearsay)

When admissible Rule 805

Hearsay

Defined Rule 801

Hearsay rule

Double hearsay see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Exceptions to see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Generally hearsay inadmissible Rule 802

Hearsay within hearsay (double hearsay) see Exceptions to hearsay rule under this topic

Statements

Defined Rule 801

Prior statements of a witness defined as not being hearsay Rule 801

Statements which are not hearsay defined Rule 801

Unavailability as a witness

Defined Rule 804

HISTORY

Family histories see Family histories under FAMILIES

General history

Reputation in community concerning events hearsay rule exception Rule 803

HOMICIDE

Victims

Character evidence of victim admissibility Rule 404

Statements made under belief of impending death hearsay rule exception Rule 804

INDICTMENTS

Inquiries into validity of

Jurors' testimony regarding prohibited Rule 606

INTERPRETATION OF RULES

Purpose

Principles of fairness and convenience Rule 102

Witnesses

Testimony regarding credibility

Self-incrimination privilege against no waiver Rule 608

INTERPRETERS

Application of rules

Oaths or affirmations Rule 604

Oaths or affirmations

Application of rules Rule 604

True translation

Requirements Rule 604

JUDICIAL NOTICE

Application of rules

Civil cases Rule 201

Facts subject to Rule 201

JUDICIAL NOTICE (Cont d)

Scope Rule 201
When taken Rule 201

JURIES

Affidavits
Jurors testimony limitations Rule 606

Evidence
Comparison with authenticated specimens Rule 901
Determinations by
Admissibility writings recordings or photographs Rule 1008
Hearings regarding Held out of jury s hearing requirements Rule 104
Rulings regarding
Made out of jury s hearing requirements Rule 103

Instructions to
Evidence limited admissibility Rule 105
Facts judicially noticed Rule 201

Testimony
At trial where sitting prohibited Rule 606
Inquiry into verdict or indictment matters about which jurors may testify Rule 606

LABELS

Affixed during the course of business
Self-authentication Rule 902

LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES

Records
Authentication or identification Rule 901
Hearsay rule
Absence of record Rule 803
Exception generally Rule 803

LAWSUITS

Application of rules
Judicial notice of adjudicative facts Rule 201
Presumptions Rule 301

Former testimony in or regarding
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804

LEGISLATURE

Declarations by
Documents signatures or materials to be genuine or authentic Rule 902

LIABILITY INSURANCE

Evidence of
Admissibility Rule 411

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

Documents
Documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
Documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

Publications by
Self-authentication Rule 902

Records
Authentication or identification Rule 901
Contents proof requirements Rule 1005
Hearsay rule
Absence of record Rule 803
Exception generally Rule 803

MARKS

Affixed during the course of business
Self-authentication Rule 902

MARRIAGE

Declarant s statements concerning when declarant unavailable
Hearsay rule exception Rule 804

Records
Hearsay rule
Absence of record Rule 803
Exception generally Rule 803

MEDICAL EXPENSES

Offers to pay
Inadmissible to prove liability Rule 409

MENTALLY ILL PERSONS

Admissions
Witnesses testimony concerning Rule 617

Conversations
Witnesses testimony concerning Rule 617

MENTALLY ILL PERSONS (Cont d)

Witnesses unavailability as Hearsay rule Rule 804

MINNESOTA STATUTES

Evidence
Authentication or identification methods Rule 901

MOVIES

Contents proof
Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
Voluminous movies summaries admissibility Rule 1006

Photographs
Movies defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

MURDER

Victims
Character evidence of victim admissibility Rule 404
Statements made under belief of impending death hearsay rule exception Rule 804

NEGLIGENCE

Evidence
Liability insurance inadmissible Rule 411
Subsequent remedial measures inadmissible Rule 407

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

Authentication or identification
Self-authentication Rule 902

NEWSPAPERS

Authentication or identification
Self-authentication Rule 902

OATHS

Administering
Requirements Rule 603

Affirmations in lieu of
Requirements Rule 603

Application of rules
Interpreters Rule 604
Witnesses Rule 603

Form of oath
Generally Rule 603

PAMPHLETS

Authentication or identification
Pamphlets issued by public authorities self-authentication Rule 902

Reports in
Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

PANAMA CANAL

Panama canal zone
Documents
Public documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
Public documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

PARDONS

Witnesses
Evidence of conviction effect on Rule 609

PARTIES TO SUITS

Adverse parties see ADVERSE PARTIES

Expert witnesses

Calling Rule 706
Notice given
Hearsay statements intent to offer requirements Rule 803 Rule 804

Rights

Expert witnesses calling Rule 706
Opportunity to be heard judicial notice Rule 201
Substantial rights rulings on evidence to affect Rule 103

Written admissions

Contents of writings recordings or photographs proof requirements Rule 1007

PEACE OFFICERS

Records
Authentication or identification Rule 901
Contents proof requirements Rule 1005

PEACE OFFICERS (Cont d)

- Records (Cont d)
 - Hearsay rule
 - Absence of record Rule 803
 - Exception generally Rule 803
- Statements by relating to criminal matters and petty misdemeanors
 - Exceptions to hearsay rule exception Rule 803

PERIODICALS

- Authentication or identification
 - Self-authentication Rule 902
- Reports in
 - Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

PERSONAL INJURIES

- Medical bills or expenses
 - Offers to pay inadmissible to prove liability Rule 409

PERSONAL PROPERTY

- Ownership of interest
 - Documents affecting hearsay rule exception Rule 803

PETTY MISDEMEANORS

- Statements by peace officers regarding
 - Hearsay rule exceptions exception Rule 803

PHOTOCOPIES

- Contents proof
 - Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
 - Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
 - Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
 - Voluminous photocopies summaries admissibility Rule 1006
 - Written admission of party Rule 1007
- Writings and recordings
 - Photocopies defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

PHOTOGRAPHS

- Contents proof
 - Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
 - Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
 - Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
 - Voluminous photographs summaries admissibility Rule 1006
 - Written admission of party Rule 1007
- Negatives
 - Defined as originals contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

Prints

- Defined as originals contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

PHOTOSTATS

- Contents proof
 - Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003
 - Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006
 - Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004
 - Voluminous photostats summaries admissibility Rule 1006
 - Written admission of party Rule 1007
- Writings and recordings
 - Photostats defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

PLEADINGS

- Nolo contendere
 - Inadmissible Rule 410

PRESUMPTIONS

- Authentication or identification
 - Documents signatures or materials declared by legislature to be genuine or authentic self-authentication Rule 902
- Civil actions
 - Going forward with evidence to meet or rebut Rule 301

PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITY

- Application of rules
 - Generally Rule 501
- Existence
 - Determination distinct court duties Rule 104
- Witnesses
 - Self-incrimination testimony regarding no waiver Rule 608
 - Unavailability hearsay rule Rule 804

PROBABLE CAUSE

- Hearings
 - Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

PROBATION

- Hearings granting or revoking
 - Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

PUBLICATIONS (DOCUMENTS)

- Authentication or identification
 - Self-authentication generally Rule 902
- Reports in
 - Hearsay rule exception Rule 803
- Trade publications see TRADE PUBLICATIONS

REAL PROPERTY

- Ownership of interest
 - Documents affecting hearsay rule exception Rule 803

RELIGION AND RELIGIOUS BELIEFS

- Witnesses
 - Inadmissible to impeach credibility Rule 610

RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS AND SOCIETIES

- Baptismal certificates
 - Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803
- Marriage certificates
 - Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803
- Records
 - Hearsay rule exception generally Rule 803

RULES OF EVIDENCE

- Application of rules
 - Exceptions Rule 1101
 - Generally Rule 1101
- Interpretation of rules
 - Generally Rule 102
- Purpose
 - Generally Rule 102
- Scope
 - Exceptions Rule 1101
 - Generally Rule 101

SCIENCE

- Scientific facts
 - Treatises hearsay rule exception Rule 803
- Scientific process
 - Authentication or identification Rule 901

SEARCH WARRANTS

- Issuance
 - Proceedings regarding rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

SECRETARY OF STATE

- Records
 - Authentication or identification Rule 901
 - Contents proof requirements Rule 1005
 - Hearsay rule
 - Absence of record Rule 803
 - Exception generally Rule 803

SENTENCING

- Hearings
 - Rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

SIGNATURES

- Authentication or identification
 - Declarations by legislature self-authentication Rule 902

STATE AGENCIES

- Documents
 - Documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
 - Documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902
- Publications by
 - Self-authentication Rule 902
- Records
 - Authentication or identification Rule 901
 - Contents proof requirements Rule 1005
 - Hearsay rule
 - Absence of record Rule 803
 - Exception generally Rule 803

STATE DEPARTMENTS

- Documents
 - Documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
 - Documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

STATE DEPARTMENTS (Cont d)

- Publications by
 - Self-authentication Rule 902
- Records
 - Authentication or identification Rule 901
 - Contents proof requirements Rule 1005
 - Hearsay rule
 - Absence of record Rule 803
 - Exception generally Rule 803

SUMMONSES

- Criminal summonses
 - Proceedings regarding rules of evidence inapplicable Rule 1101

SUPREME COURT

- Rulemaking
 - Authentication or identification of evidence Rule 901

TAGS

- Affixed during the course of business
 - Self-authentication Rule 902

TELEPHONE CALLS

- Businesses
 - Authentication or identification requirements Rule 901
- Individuals
 - Persons answering authentication or identification Rule 901

TESTIMONY

- Accused persons
 - Preliminary matters effect Rule 104
- Authentication or identification of evidence
 - Generally Rule 901
- Hearsay see HEARSAY EVIDENCE
- Opinion testimony
 - Expert witnesses
 - Generally Rule 702
 - Ultimate issue objections Rule 704
 - Lay witnesses
 - Limitations Rule 701
 - Ultimate issue objections Rule 704
 - Voices authentication or identification Rule 901
- Parties to suits
 - Contents of writings recordings or photographs proof Rule 1007
- Witnesses see WITNESSES

TRADE PUBLICATIONS

- Market reports
 - Hearsay rule exception Rule 803

TRUST TERRITORY OF THE PACIFIC ISLANDS

- Documents
 - Public documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
 - Public documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

TYPEWRITERS

- Typewriting
 - Defined as writing
 - Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

UNDUE INFLUENCE

- Juries
 - Testimony concerning Rule 606

UNITED STATES

- Documents
 - Public documents not under seal self-authentication Rule 902
 - Public documents under seal self-authentication Rule 902

VERDICTS

- Inquiries into validity of
 - Jurors testimony regarding prohibited Rule 606

VICTIMS OF CRIME

- Criminal sexual conduct see Victims under CRIMINAL SEXUAL CONDUCT
- Evidence
 - Character evidence when admissible Rule 404

VIDEO TAPES

- Photographs
 - Videotapes defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

VOICES

- Authentication or identification
 - Generally Rule 901

WILLS

- Statements related to execution revocation identification or terms
 - Hearsay rule exceptions Rule 803

WITNESSES

- Affirmations
 - Application of rules Rule 603
 - Requirements Rule 603
- Application of rules
 - Character evidence Rule 404
 - Oaths or affirmations Rule 603
 - Privileges and immunity Rule 501
- Competence to testify
 - Generally Rule 601
 - Judges presiding at trial barred from giving testimony Rule 605
- Jurors
 - At trial barred from giving testimony Rule 606
 - Inquiry into verdict or indictment, when jurors may testify Rule 606
- Personal knowledge of matter
 - Expert testimony exception Rule 602
 - Proof of requirements Rule 602
- Credibility
 - Impeachment
 - Bias prejudice or interest for or against party Rule 616
 - Conduct specific instances of Rule 608
 - Conviction of a crime
 - Admissibility generally Rule 609
 - Appeals pendency effect on admissibility Rule 609
 - Pardons effect on admissibility Rule 609
 - Juvenile adjudications admissibility Rule 609
 - Opinion and reputation evidence of character Rule 608
 - Religious opinions or beliefs admissibility Rule 610
 - Who may impeach Rule 607
- Deceased persons
 - Conversations with admissibility Rule 617
 - Unavailability hearsay rule Rule 804
- Examination of
 - Leading questions when permitted Rule 611
 - Order of interrogation and presentation district court duties Rule 611
- Exclusion from courtroom
 - When permitted Rule 615
- Expert witnesses see EXPERT WITNESSES
- Hearsay evidence generally see HEARSAY EVIDENCE
- Hostile witnesses
 - Leading questions when permitted Rule 611
- Impeachment see Credibility under this topic
- Inconsistent prior statements see Prior inconsistent statements under this topic
- Knowledge of evidence
 - Testimony authenticating or identifying Rule 901
- Lay witnesses
 - Opinion testimony
 - Handwriting authentication or identification Rule 901
 - Limitations Rule 701
 - Ultimate issue objections Rule 704
- Mentally ill persons
 - Conversations with admissibility Rule 617
 - Unavailability hearsay rule Rule 804
- Oaths
 - Application of rules Rule 603
 - Requirements Rule 603
- Prior inconsistent statements
 - Extrinsic evidence of admissibility Rule 613
- Prior statements
 - Disclosure to witness requirements Rule 613
- Privileges and immunity
 - Application of rules Rule 501
 - Self-incrimination privilege not waived Rule 608
 - Unavailability hearsay rule Rule 804
- Religious opinions or beliefs
 - Inadmissible Rule 610
- Subscribing witnesses
 - Testimony unnecessary to authenticate writings Rule 903

WITNESSES (Cont d)

Unavailability of

Defined hearsay evidence Rule 804

Writings used to refresh memory

Adverse parties rights Rule 612

District court duties Rule 612

Use generally Rule 612

WRITING

Contents of writings proof

Admissibility functions of court and jury Rule 1008

Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003

Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006

Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004

Summaries admissibility Rule 1006

Written admission of party Rule 1007

Definitions

Contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001

Partial writings

Introduction Rule 106

Use to refresh memory Rule 612

Voluminous writings

Contents summaries admissibility Rule 1006

X-RAYS

Films

Contents proof

Duplicates admissibility Rule 1003

Originals production of requirements Rule 1002 Rule 1006

Other evidence of contents admissibility Rule 1004

Voluminous x-ray films summaries admissibility Rule 1006

Photographs x-ray films defined as contents of writings recordings or photographs Rule 1001