Chief Justice A.M. Keith
Supreme Court Law Library Committee
Associate Justices of the Supreme Court

Dear Chief Justice and Members of the Court:

On behalf of the Minnesota State Law Library (MSLL), I am pleased to submit our 1996 Annual Report. The pages of this report show that even with numerous challenges, 1996 was a banner year for the Library.

Statistics that measure each department's productivity and effectiveness have increased since 1995, with Public Services registering an all-time high of over 31,000 reference requests. Similar significant growth was documented for Outreach and Technical Services. These and other accomplishments occurred in spite of the persistence of escalating prices for resources, changes in personnel, the lack of a skilled computer-services librarian, and other difficulties. Nevertheless, the staff met those challenges in a manner that has strengthened us as a whole.

In the year ahead, in addition to maintaining our high performance standards, the focus will be on (1) reconfiguring staff assignments so that we can develop ways of using technology for providing legal research and (2) sharing what we learn within and beyond the Judicial Center.

This year's Annual Report is divided into two sections. Section I is the year in review. In Section II we have included material that provides another perspective of activities in the year of a full service public law library.

We appreciate the guidance of Justice Anderson on matters before the Supreme Court Law Library Committee. We also thank Sue Dosal, Judith L. Rehak, Janet Warwick, Katherine Hanson, RITO and many others for their support and cooperation throughout the year. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or comments.

Respectfully submitted,

Marvin Roger Anderson
State Law Librarian

Publication of a comprehensive Collection Development Plan identifying resources presently collected in the Library and providing a guide for meeting the legal research/information needs of the Minnesota Supreme Court and other patrons.

Publication of The Political, Professional and Judicial Career of Lawrence Yetka, the ninth volume in the Library's Minnesota Justice Series.

County Law Library Program activities increased significantly with 23% more requests handled and nearly triple the number of site visits (17). In addition, nine county law library managers attended a management conference at MSLL to discuss pro se litigants, funding, collection development, and service to prisoners.

The first comprehensive survey of county law libraries since 1991 was completed. Eighty-three counties participated, a 95% rate of return.

In spite of a 50% personnel turnover, Law Library Services to Prisoners handled 21% more requests.

Reference and circulation assistance increased substantially this year; in reference we provided answers to over 31,000 questions, a 75% increase from 1995, and we circulated over 9300 library materials, an increase of 17%.

MSLL purchased a new computer, printer, and a seven slot CD-ROM tower for the many new materials purchased in CD-ROM format. Our Bibliographic Counter now has three CD-ROM computers, two of which have towers. Staff computers were also upgraded, allowing us to better assist patrons.

The Docket series of bibliographies and pathfinders continued to be published, with a record of sixteen new and revised publications in 1996.

The outsourcing service of the Technical Services Department was recognized by METRONET with an award for an outstanding collaborative project.

The Technical Services Department for the first time performed on-site cataloging at a county law library. This was made possible by OCLC's introduction of new software for accessing their database via the Internet.
Section I: Year in Review
1996 REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATION DEPARTMENT

Administration oversees the operation of all MSLL departments and provides the leadership for accomplishing the goals and objectives adopted by the Library as a whole and approved by the Supreme Court of Minnesota.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DURING 1996

Collection Development. One of the most important projects of this Administration was completed with the publication of the Library's Collection Development Plan (the Plan). It culminates several years of activity and provides, for the first time, a documented source for identifying materials presently collected in the Library. Along with a statement of the Library's mission, the Plan contains annotations indicating what the Library should have, what the Library has, and appendices providing additional information. The Plan is designed as a "living document" requiring reviews by the staff every three years. Moreover, as the law changes and as technology offers new ways to disseminate legal information, the Plan will be modified so that the Library's collection can continue to meet the legal research/information needs of the Minnesota Supreme Court and other patrons.

MSLL Home Page and Archive of Appellate Court Decisions. Major steps were taken in the creation of a "Home Page" or website for the Library accessible on the Internet. An intern from the University of New South Wales, Australia, joined the staff to put finishing touches on the work. Also, in collaboration with the Office of the Attorney General, Administration began work on the development of a searchable archive of Minnesota appellate court decisions as a database accessible from the Library's Home Page or web site. This will provide electronic users multiple access points to the decisions, beyond what is available from the official court Internet site.

Special Projects. Administration coordinated the formation of an Everybody Wins - Power Lunch reading partnership, uniting MJC employees and a third grade class at a nearby elementary school. The partnership is part of a national effort to instill a love of reading among today's youths as a means to build stronger, more educated adults for tomorrow. With 54 MJC employees participating, we have the largest number of reading volunteers in Saint Paul.

Special Events. Administration was involved in planning many special events. Among the most noteworthy were the following: (1) Publishing the ninth volume in the Library's Minnesota Justice Series, The Political, Professional and Judicial Career of Lawrence Yetka; (2) Hosting the Minnesota Coalition on Government Information's Freedom of Information Day at MJC; (3) Hosting the Minnesota Library Association's Legislative Day; and (4) Organizing the Fall and Spring Showcase Series.

Personnel. A pleasant highlight of the year was a small ceremony to honor four employees with ten or more years of service to the Library. The four honorees were Nancee Downing, Cathy Knoke, Susan Larson and Sara Galligan. Three staff changes occurred. Karen Westwood resigned to become head law librarian at a Minneapolis law firm. Anne Tuveson was hired in the Outreach Services Department to replace Tom DaBruzzi, who transferred Public Services.
1996 REPORT OF THE OUTREACH SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Outreach Services operates the County Law Library Program (CLLP) and Law Library Service to Prisoners (LLSP). CLLP seeks to provide equal access to legal resources for all Minnesota citizens through the development of county law libraries established under Minnesota Statutes chapter 134A. Assistance in every aspect of law library management is available. Participating county law libraries contribute to the funding of this program. LLSP provides Minnesota inmates with better "access to the courts," according to judicial decisions. The program has established core legal collections in seven adult prisons and currently provides regular reference service by two circuit-riding law librarians who draw upon MSLL resources. The Department of Corrections provides funding for LLSP.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DURING 1996

County Law Library Program (CLLP). A survey of county law libraries was conducted successfully with a 95% return rate. (Libraries were last surveyed in 1991.) A comparison of the two surveys shows that county law library income has risen appreciably. No libraries earned less than $5000 in 1996, as opposed to six libraries in 1991, and thirteen libraries reported incomes of over $50,000 in 1996, as compared to seven in 1991. Expenses also rose during this period, and 23 libraries (32%) reported deficits in 1996. (There was no comparable question in the 1991 survey.) Misdemeanor and criminal fines continue to be the primary source of county law library income. As in 1991, current library management rests largely in the hands of court administration and law clerks who are generally uncompensated for library work and spend less than five hours per week managing the library. CD-ROM was a new format added to 49 libraries, and the use of online databases such as WESTLAW declined from 51 libraries in 1991 to 34 libraries in 1996. The 1996 survey included questions on public services, which is an area that needs much improvement. The first step is informing the public about the law library. The most popular method is to list the library on the courthouse directory, which is done for only 37% of the libraries. Library hours are usually limited to courthouse (business) hours, and one library reported that it was closed to the general public!

The CLLP Coordinator was an active member of the Subcommittee on Information Dissemination (Pro Se Implementation Committee, Minnesota Conference of Chief Judges). Products produced for the Subcommittee included (1) a summary of the county law library survey mentioned above, (2) a list of recommended legal materials for non-lawyers, and (3) a discussion draft for county law library minimum public service standards.

The First Judicial District project to create a CD-ROM database of models for judicial law clerk work product was completed. This project was directed by the Dakota County Law Librarian. The CLLP Coordinator can assist other counties and/or judicial districts interested in creating a similar database.

Site visits were made to Dakota (six times), Goodhue, Houston, Mower, Olmsted, Ramsey, Swift, Stevens, Washington (twice), Wilkin, and Winona counties. Four of the Dakota County Law Library visits were all-day working sessions to complete the above mentioned CD-ROM database. Technical assistance concerning law library management was provided to all 87 Minnesota counties. The number of requests increased significantly: 23% over last year. Besides reference assistance and other patron services provided by MSLL staff, a few illustrations of the type and variety of management activities addressed in 1996 are listed below:

- Distribution of Laws of Minnesota, Minnesota Statutes, Minnesota Rules, and Minnesota
Legislative Manual.
- The CLLP Bulletin is mailed to 531 county law library board members and other interested parties. In addition to information of interest to county law library managers, the Bulletin includes an annual space requirements and price list of resources for long-range planning, and each issue has a subject index to Minnesota legal periodicals.
- Publication of filing fee notices required by statute.
- Funding issues, including tax questions, management of reserve funds, and purchasing materials for other locations, for Anoka, Beltrami, Cottonwood, Dakota, Dodge, Fillmore, Goodhue, Itasca, Jackson, Morrison, Otter Tail, Pope, Ramsey, and Stearns county law libraries.
- Collection development issues, including acquisitions, weeding, buying/selling used books, ordinance management, and alternative formats such as CD-ROM and the Internet, for Anoka, Becker, Beltrami, Chisago, Dakota, Douglas, Goodhue, Hennepin, Itasca, Jackson, Kanabec, Kandiyohi, Lake, Lyon, Mahnomen, Morrison, Mower, Ramsey, Renville, Roseau, St. Louis, Scott, Sherburne, Sibley, Stevens, Washington, Wilkin, Winona, and Wright county law libraries.
- Public services issues, including security concerns and helping inmates and pro se patrons, for Anoka, Dakota, Hennepin, Jackson, Washington, and Winona county law libraries.
- Space planning and other long-range goals such as by-law revision and staffing, for Benton, Chisago, Clearwater, Dakota, Goodhue, Hennepin, Kandiyohi, Morrison, Olmsted, Rice, St. Louis, Stevens, Swift, Washington, Wilkin, and Winona county law libraries.
- Technical services, including access to online catalogs, book processing, preservation and disaster planning, for Anoka, Hennepin, Ramsey, and Washington county law libraries.

Nine county law library managers representing Dakota, Hennepin, Lake, Olmsted, Otter Tail, Ramsey, Stearns, Washington, and Wright counties attended the 1996 Annual Conference on County Law Library Management at MSLL on September 20. This session was devoted to seven current issues: (1) county law library participation in the implementation of the Report of the Minnesota Conference of Chief Judges Committee on the Treatment of Litigants and Pro Se Litigation, (2) use of law library funds, including the care and handling of reserve funds, (3) impact of electronic resources on collection development and long-range planning, (4) CLLP survey results, (5) management of ordinance collections, (6) law library service to prisoners after Lewis v. Casey, and (7) MSLL WWW page. The revised Manual for Minnesota County Law Library Managers was distributed at this meeting. The Manual is also sent to county law library managers on request.

Law Library Service to Prisoners (LLSP). This program publishes a separate report (reprinted in Section II of this report) that is presented to Department of Corrections personnel at an annual meeting. The number of requests processed rose dramatically by 21%. This was accomplished in spite of personnel changes. Tom DaBruzzi moved into a Public Services position, and Anne Tuveson took over as Outreach Clerk. Ron Hauser replaced Karen Westwood as Outreach Librarian. We were able to meet the increased demand with over 490 hours of volunteer help.

With the help of intern Aida Picardal (from Hamline University's paralegal program), LLSP's bibliography of articles and court decisions discussing law libraries as a means of providing prisoners with "access to the courts" was completely revised this year in light of the recent U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Lewis v. Casey, 116 S.Ct. 2174 (1996). LLSP also reviewed its service standards, with the guidance of Lewis, in order to better handle our increased workflow.
Another major project was a thorough review of the institutional core collections, resulting in recommendations for CD-ROM resources and a retention schedule. The recommended core collection and retention schedule is included in the Law Library Service to Prisoners 1996 Annual Report.

1996 REPORT OF THE PUBLIC SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Public Services is the most visible part of MSLL. It provides reference assistance; circulates library materials; arranges for interlibrary loans; operates a computer-assisted legal research service; provides for MSLL tours and lectures; operates a photocopy and telefacsimile service for patrons outside the metropolitan area; and publishes Loquitur, the MSLL newsletter, as well as the Docket series of library pathfinders and research aides.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DURING 1996

Standard Public Services Functions. Each year we provide improved reference, circulation, interlibrary loan, and other services traditionally thought of as public services. We assist many individuals, agencies, and groups, among which are the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals, Office of the Attorney General, House Research and Senate Counsel, Legislature, individual attorneys, law firms, and public, both in Minnesota and other states. We also gain many new library users, often by referrals from other agencies or libraries, and use of the Library Conference Room increased this year as more patrons became aware that it was available for patron use. Enhanced service and professionalism were goals worked on and achieved this year in Public Services by improved communication, revised policies and procedures, as well as other methods.

Reference and circulation assistance continued unabated this year; in reference we provided answers to over 31,000 questions, a huge increase of almost 75% from 1995, and we circulated over 9300 library materials, another substantial increase of 17%. Interlibrary loan requests also increased significantly. We filled 217 requests from other libraries, an increase of 8.5%, and requested 46 items from other libraries, an increase of 7%.

Computers. Our Computer-Assisted Legal Research (CALR) service, which provides access to WESTLAW, continued to be a much-needed option for those requiring online legal research. We performed 126 WESTLAW searches, with over 31,000 offline prints, for patrons and staff.

MSLL purchased a new computer, printer, and a seven slot CD-ROM tower for the many new materials purchased in CD-ROM format. Our Bibliographic Counter now has three CD-ROM computers, two of which have CD-ROM towers. The computer that has Index to Legal Periodicals and the Minnesota Legal Periodical Index was moved to the Microform Room. The Reference Desk also has a new state of the art computer for assisting our staff and patrons with reference questions. Another new computer was purchased for one of the Public Services staff members, and the WESTLAW computer was replaced by a more powerful used computer. Setting up all this sophisticated computer equipment took a substantial amount of time and effort, with several glitches and hardware failures. Nevertheless, we accomplished our automation goals with our current staff and were still able to provide excellent reference and circulation assistance, even with the dramatic increase in use of the Library. A computer services librarian, however, would have helped considerably and saved us time, frustration, and, inevitably, money.

By using PALS (our online catalog), a modem (at the Reference Desk), and the Internet, we are now able to provide access to many online catalogs and services. Several older computers with WordPerfect for DOS and one with WordPerfect for Windows have been made available for public use.
Photocopy and Telefacsimile Service. The Public Services staff copies and mails photocopies to patrons outside the metropolitan area. Although we charge both for pages copied and postage, in the last year we mailed out almost 6500 pages to our users; the total number of requests for copies was 498. MSLL also sends materials by Federal Express or telefacsimile machine. Usage of the telefax machine increased substantially. We sent out almost 3200 pages, an increase of nearly 11%. Almost 1500 transmissions were either sent or received through the MSLL fax machine.

Presentations. Interest in the new Minnesota Judicial Center and MSLL remained extensive. Hence, many tours, orientations, and presentations were given to patrons during the year. Our weekly tour time was changed to 2:00 p.m. Wednesday, and we actively promoted our willingness to provide presentations, orientations, and tours of MSLL and its collections, by appointment, to any interested party. MSLL also continued its Showcase events in April and October; each Thursday at noon speakers and performers regaled us during those two months.

Graphic and Written Publications. Work continued on public relation items during 1996. Loquitur, the MSLL newsletter, continued to be published, as were Library Bulletins and e-mail messages, which are sent to other occupants of the Minnesota Judicial Center whenever we want to convey information about MSLL. The "Docket" series of bibliographies and pathfinders continued as well, with sixteen new and revised items: Questions and Services; Pathfinder to U.S. Government Publications; Suggested Referrals; Special Collection Room; Photocopying; Minnesota Appellate Court Opinions and Orders; Minnesota Appellate Court Briefs; Looseleafs; Parking/Directions/Book Drop; Citators; Regional Digest Locations; Current State Holdings; The Law and the Law Library; Reserve Collection; Reading Lounge Collection; and Form Books. We have never published as many Dockets in one year. Also the following publications were revised and updated: Minnesota State Law Library Vertical File and Minnesota Sentencing Guidelines: 15 Years Later. Instruction sheets for computer equipment and online services were also created. Work was completed on the career book for retired Supreme Court Justice Yetka. Along with the other publications from Public Services, a substantial amount of time and effort was spent on producing the Collection Development Plan.

Projects. It was a year in which the Public Services and other MSLL staff completed many special projects. This year's projects included the following: 1) several sections of books in the Library collection were removed from the shelf and physically cleaned; 2) all of the classified collections of the Library were shelf-read to make sure that all the volumes were in their proper location; 3) the Storage and Retired collections were weeded and shifted to accommodate more volumes; 4) all of the materials in the Reading Room were removed from the shelves and later returned (to move the bookshelves to abide by the Americans With Disabilities Act); 5) the entire Federal collection was shifted; 6) the Reserve Room was weeded and rearranged; and 7) new signs were made for all the rearranged bookshelves.

Staffing. It was a difficult year for staffing in Public Services, with several medical leaves and extended absences, as well as the training of a new employee. Tom DaBruzzi, began work during January as the new Public Services Technician; he works at the Circulation Desk. However, with the assistance of other departmental staff and hard work, we were still able to provide the same high level of assistance our patrons have come to expect.

The Public Services department had two interns working on special projects during 1996. One intern, from the Inver Hills Community College paralegal program, revised Docket publications, and the other, a recent Masters Degree graduate of the library school at the University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee, began work on a pathfinder for researching older Minnesota agency regulations.

1996 REPORT OF THE TECHNICAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Technical Services manages the acquisition, processing, and cataloging of new and ongoing materials received by the Library. In addition, the Technical Services Department catalogs materials for several county law libraries and serves as a micro-publisher of Minnesota appellate courts briefs for county and academic law libraries. The Department also solicits donations of legal periodicals and legal materials from members of the Minnesota Judicial Center, the county law libraries, attorneys, and citizens. These materials are used by the Library to replace broken, missing, and disintegrating materials in our collection.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS DURING 1996

The continued demand for cataloging services by state government libraries more firmly established this program as an ongoing venture of the Technical Services department. Revenues received from this outsourcing service allowed the Library to make several computer purchases, including two new modern workstations for the OCLC and PALS systems in the Technical Services Department. METRONET recognized the Library's outsourcing program with a collaboration award in May.

Cataloging. In 1996 our catalog librarian cataloged collections at DOT, DNR and monitored cataloging at the Minnesota Trade Office. Contacts were made with several other state agency libraries for cataloging service in 1997. Ongoing county law library cataloging produced a 15% increase in new titles added over 1995. The county cataloging service was also expanded to on-site cataloging with OCLC's introduction of Passport for Windows, which provides Internet availability for transfer of catalog records. This enhancement permitted Technical Services staff to catalog the ordinance collections at Washington and Anoka counties by visiting each library for a day and performing all OCLC cataloging via the Internet. A major objective of the Department in 1996 was the replacement of 386 PCs. Two new Pentium workstations were added—one for OCLC operations and one for PALS. Cataloging staff learned the new PALSTAC system and Windows 95 used by the new workstations—all systems features are now successfully integrated into cataloging operations.

Government Documents. File GPO operations for cataloging government documents were converted to the new PALSTAC system. The Pathfinder to Government Documents was revised to include online and Internet resources. One new state agency library (Attorney General) was added to our CALCO Shared Depository Program.

Collection Development. Regarding actual purchasing in 1996, the Library continued buying CD-ROM resources, including another seven slot CD-ROM tower for use at the bibliographic workstation. New CD-ROM titles acquired in 1996 include several state citators from Shepards. Cost increases forced the Library to review all Clark Boardman publications, resulting in cancellation of 21 titles. A major review of the Supreme Court Library's treatises resulted in the transfer of many titles to the main library location as well as cancellation of some duplicated materials.

Gifts and Exchange. Every year we exchange legal periodicals with other members of the American Association of Law Libraries Exchange Program. In 1996 the Library donated 662 titles to other libraries. Also, the newly formed Judicial Education Subcommittee of the MSBA Civil Litigation Section successfully spearheaded an effort to add another copy of all MILE publications to our library. These CLEs are now available for circulation to judges and others around the state.
The MSLL Storage Collection benefitted from several donations this year, including various volumes of Minnesota sessions laws from Dakota County Law Library.

Preservation. The Department continued to bind unique materials for the Special Collections Room. MSLL staff in general was involved in a Library wide cleanup in July, which included dusting and straightening all the books in the Library. A regularly scheduled dusting of our books decreases the deterioration of our physical collections.

Selected Requests for Reference Assistance and MSLL Materials
MSLL is a valuable resource for Minnesota and the United States, as well as the world beyond. We continue to receive thousands of requests from around the state, country and world. Not only do requests come from libraries and individuals but also from businesses, state and federal government agencies, associations, and from other sources as well. A few examples follow:

- a request from a patron in Mexico City for information on how she could obtain permission to use a cartoon found in a Twin Cities newspaper.
- a request from a local patron for information concerning a case in which a six-year old boy was accused of sexual harassment for kissing a classmate.
- a request from a Minnesota patron for any laws on hazing.
- a request from a suburban librarian: Are there sentencing guidelines for juveniles?
- a request from a blind patron in Omaha for a 1996 session law.
• a request from a patron in Milwaukee for the Minnesota regulations on ATMs.
• a request from a local patron: Do you have any books on butterflies and the law?
• a request from a suburban legal aid organization: How long do misdemeanors stay on your criminal record?
• a request from a woman who was divorced seventeen years ago: Because my ex-husband did not disclose a pension fund, can he be prosecuted for fraud?
• a request from a patron in Missouri who had received a Minnesota summons to appear in court: Can my husband’s wages be garnished for not paying a bill she owes?
• a request from a patron at William and Mary Law School: Is there a Minnesota statute that sanctions judges for not clearing their dockets?
• a request from a patron in San Diego for a photograph and information on a Minnesota House of Representatives member from 1937.
• a request from an Edmonton, Alberta, patron for information on Minnesota wills statutes.
• a request from a patron in Beaverton, Oregon, for information on Minnesota allodial lands.
• a request from a student in Nebraska for information on animal rights in Minnesota.
• a request from a federal government employee in Washington, D.C., for information on a recently retired Minnesota Ninth Judicial District judge.
• a request from a patron in Anaheim, California, for the citation and date of the federal law that gave Civil War veterans benefits.
• a request from a Washington state agency for Minnesota’s solid waste rules.
• a request from a Midwestern state police department for Minnesota’s sex crimes statutes.
• a request from a hospital in outstate Minnesota for any laws related to smoking in hospitals.
• a request from a patron in San Francisco for a form to be used in a Minnesota district court.
• a request from a national association for the latest polygraph and detection of deception legislation in Minnesota.
• a request from a Minneapolis patron: Does the state of Minnesota require private school teachers to be licensed?
• innumerable requests from near (e.g., within the Minnesota Judicial Center) and far for Minnesota and federal tax forms.

Law Library Service to Prisoners (LLSP) is a cooperative program between the State Law Library and the Department of Corrections developed to provide Minnesota prisoners with better “access to the courts” in accordance with judicial decisions by the United States Supreme Court.

Two librarians visit seven adult correctional institutions on a regular schedule. Legal information is provided to other Minnesota prisoners through the mail and/or by telephone. A library assistant and volunteers help with these prisoner requests. LLSP activities are divided into three major areas:

Legal Information Service is Our Primary Function

Inmates contact LLSP through kites, phone, U.S. mail and in-person visits. Through correspondence and on-site meetings with inmates, we assist individuals with their legal information needs. We direct inmates to books in the law library at the prison and instruct the inmates on how to do their own legal research. LLSP has developed a series of library guides to assist inmates in researching frequently asked questions. We hand these out during face-to-face interviews and make them available to inmates when we’re not there. The librarian uses the collection at the Minnesota State Law Library to do more in-depth research on inmate requests.

Education is a Continuing Process

In addition to educating inmates about legal research techniques and the use of their law libraries, LLSP is involved in other teaching activities. Law library orientation for new inmates is part of MCF-Shakopee’s Receiving and Orientation procedure. LLSP has a training program for inmate law library clerks so they can assist fellow inmates when we can’t be there. Other formal education programs are presented to inmates and/or staff at the request of the institutions.

Promotional and Professional Activities Support Our Program

LLSP brochures are provided to all facilities to include in Receiving and Orientation materials so that new inmates are acquainted with our services. Membership in professional organizations and attendance at pertinent seminars keep LLSP staff informed of library and corrections issues. Each year LLSP updates its bibliography on access to the courts. In reviewing articles, books and court cases, we track the national trends in providing law library service in correctional settings.
The Decision: Bounds Reviewed

The long-awaited ruling on Lewis v. Casey 116 S.Ct. 2174, 135 L.Ed.2d. 606 (1996) finally arrived on July 24th of 1996. For the first time since the landmark decision in Bounds v. Smith 430 U.S. 817 (1977), the U.S. Supreme Court took up the issue of what constitutes meaningful access to the courts for prisoners. Lewis returns to the basics of Bounds. “Access to the courts” is the key concept. Inmates do not have the right to sue over everything. Only law suits that challenge their imprisonment or the length of their sentence (Habeas Corpus), or the violation of their civil rights (Section 1983) are guaranteed access to the courts. Additionally, the inmate must show “actual injury.” Just believing that they have received poor legal assistance or inadequate law library services is not enough; they must show that their court access has been injured or harmed.

The Response: Service Standards Re-evaluated

As the statistics show, 1996 was a very busy year. Due to a 21% increase in workflow, LLSP refined our service standards to prioritize inmate requests in accordance with Lewis. The purpose of the standards is to make it possible to rank requests so that attention can be given to the most urgent and necessary cases. Top priority will be given to requests related to challenging sentences or conditions of confinement, as outlined in Lewis. Requests outside of this parameter (such as questions about intellectual property or business law) will be answered on an “as time permits” basis, and will, when possible, include suggestions or outside referrals. In all cases, the inmates will be referred to resources available in their prison law library. Most of the time, LLSP is able to accommodate requests from both priority levels in a timely manner, and we hope to do so in the future. Most inmates will benefit from these service standards as they will be better able to focus on issues that Lewis has determined have merit.
In Concurrence: Core Collection Retained

Lewis validated the concept of core collections. LLSP was hard at work in 1996 designing new and more efficient ways to organize the institution core collections with the main goal of making them uniform and compact.

One exciting change to the core collection is the addition of CD-ROM products. This will decrease the amount of space needed for the collection and reduce the theft and destruction of books. For starters, institutions can purchase the Minnesota Reports and the Minnesota Statutes Annotated on CD-ROM. Hopefully, the future will bring more titles to the inmates in this format.

LLSP has also devised a very helpful Recommended Retention Schedule of Core Collection Materials (see back page). When space becomes a problem in an institution law library, the librarian can use these guidelines to determine which resources can be weeded and which need to be retained.

Although the Lewis ruling may change the strategy inmates use when filing a lawsuit, it should not have an effect on institution law libraries. Every collection has sufficient materials under Lewis, and inmates will still have access to additional materials through Law Library Service to Prisoners.
The number of requests handled by LLSP staff reached a new high in 1996. This was primarily caused by the continued rapid growth of MCF-Faribault and MCF-Willow River/Moose Lake as well as a significant increase of requests from MCF-Lino Lakes. "Other" also rose significantly although not up to 1994 levels. Upon examination, we note that a large percentage of the requests came from previous MCF prisoners who have re-entered the system.

We handled this large increase in requests in spite of a period of personnel changes. Tom DaBruzzi left the position of Outreach Services Clerk and was replaced by Anne Tuveson. Ron Hauser replaced Karen Westwood as Outreach Librarian.

Outreach Services has always depended on our hard-working volunteers to help us fulfill requests. In 1996, they logged in approximately 370 hours. We would like to extend thanks to our current volunteers John, Joan, Patty, and Ramon. We also thank Kelly and Richard who volunteered many hours this past year and Bill Erlandson from the Library’s Public Services Department for copy and shelving assistance. Outreach Services is also grateful to intern Aida Picardal from Hamline University’s Paralegal Program, who completed 120 hours of research and drafting for our annual bibliography.

"Requests Processed" quantifies the activities involved in providing law library service to prisoners. "On-Site Meetings with Inmates" is the number of inmate reference interviews conducted in-person. "Individuals Assisted" is the total number of people we provided information to whether in-person, by telephone or through the mail. (NOTE: 1994 and 1995 figures have been adjusted to reflect the actual number of individuals assisted regardless of where they were housed.)

"Housed Out-of-State" includes inmates serving the remainder of their time in jails as well as those housed in other states.

"Other" includes inmates in institutions or categories not specifically listed. LLSP provides some assistance or referrals to any individual incarcerated in Minnesota as time and policy permit. In 1996 we processed requests from 13 county jails, three federal institutions, and three state hospitals, as well as requests from inmates in workhouses and on house arrest.

"Other" also includes requests from non-Minnesota prisoners housed in other states. We routinely refer these inmates to law libraries near their place of incarceration. Prisoners from nine other states contacted us in 1996.

Individuals Assisted is the total number of people LLSP provided information to within each institution or category. Due to inmate movement between prisons and categories, an individual may have been counted more than once in the institution/category statistics.

Persons who have moved between institutions and/or categories are only counted once in TOTAL INDIVIDUALS. (NOTE: 1994 and 1995 figures have been adjusted to reflect actual numbers as described above.)

Recommended Retention Schedule of Core Collection Materials 2/97

IN GENERAL:
When space becomes a problem in the institution law library, the following guidelines determine which resources are weeded from your collection and which are retained. Older materials can always be requested from LLSP. NOTE: The State Law Library is interested in receiving any weeded materials.

When an institution purchases a resource on CD-ROM, retain the hardbound volumes if space is available. However, supplemental subscriptions to the hardbound set should be cancelled (unless they are included within the price of the CD-ROM subscription.) NOTE: At this point, we are only recommending the purchase of Minnesota Reports and Minnesota Statutes on CD-ROM in that order.

DOC Central has always strongly stated that all facilities should have the same collection. Accordingly, weed resources not on the core collection list first.

EXCEPTION: If your institution does not subscribe to Dunnell Minnesota Digest and space is available, retain the encyclopedia (American Jurisprudence or Corpus Juris Secundum) currently on your shelves. These donated sets are supplemented by LLSP.

Explanation of Retention Codes
A = Retain all copies available.
C = Retain current edition or set only.
Co = Retain complete series. If institutions replace this set with CD-ROM and provide multiple access (i.e., four concurrent users), weed the hardbound set in a space crunch. In addition, cancel your supplemental subscription to Minnesota Digest, if applicable.
EO = Acquire every other edition.
M = Retain 3 months.
S = Retain only those issues supplementing the hardbound volumes (or CD-ROM).
5 = Retain 5 years.
10 = Retain 10 years. This means the most current and four previous sets. Retention of current hardbound set is recommended even for those libraries purchasing the statutes on CD-ROM.

Introduction

Black America has a lot at stake in the national information infrastructure or the information superhighway. It is not just the promise of a vast network of intersecting technologies with near limitless voice, data and video communications that has gotten black America's attention. For many it is the commitments of government and industry that the economic, educational and social opportunities arising out of the construction and implementation of the highway will be available to all Americans on an equal basis.

Like many African-Americans I am encouraged by these pledges. Everyone wants to see the information superhighway in its best light. I want to believe that the field is wide open with all sorts of niches being filled with the creative skills, talents and resources of the black community. However, miles of empty road still separate the promise and commitments from reality. And, despite expressions of good intentions, a growing number of African-Americans have doubts that the destinations of fairness, equality and nondiscrimination in the development of and access to the information superhighway will be attained ever, even if it is in the best interest of America.

The following bibliography lists articles and court decisions that describe law library services in correctional settings. In general, it includes representative materials that address different elements of prison law library service and that give practical guidance in setting up or providing these services. Lewis v. Casey (#37) is now the benchmark Supreme Court decision on this topic. Earlier cases are included if they conform to the principles of Lewis.

The first section of the bibliography is an alphabetical list of selected articles and books. The second section is a chronological list of selected court cases. Cases were selected to include programs implemented in different types of facilities (jails, prisons, state hospitals, etc.) as well as those serving different populations of inmates within a correctional setting (illiterate inmates, protective custody, etc.) A table of cases and subject index follows Part II.

Marvin Anderson and Staff
Minnesota State Law Library
25 Constitution Avenue
St. Paul, MN 55155

Dear Marvin and Friends:

Many thanks to you, Marvin, and to all of the members of the State Law Library Staff who welcomed yet another flock of information enthusiasts at last Friday’s Freedom of Information Day ceremony. Your gracious welcome always makes us feel at home. Far more important, the willingness of the staff to maintain the spirit of openness speaks volumes about your commitment to freedom of information within the judicial center. That commitment was evident to participants and audience alike!

As always, you conducted the ceremony with aplomb and dignity appropriate to the award, the speaker, and the issue. The librarians present feel a particular pride that you represent us so ably.

I’ve been thinking about that 10 year celebration, but a few months away! We’d better get our heads together soon if we are to pull that off in the style to which we have become accustomed.

You should know that we’ve received several queries about the Freedom of Information Award and the event -- mostly because of John Finnegan’s national award. Apparently they announced at the Library of Congress event that he could not be present because he was at the Minnesota awards ceremony. That got the point across better than any PR we could have generated!

Please extend to all of your staff the deep appreciation of the thundering herd that descended on the Library. Noisy and thoughtless of your patrons as we may seem at the moment, we DO understand the efforts everyone makes to roll out the red carpet and rise above the commotion we cause! We’ll see that you get a copy of the tape of the event so you can see just how good it really was!

Sincerely,

Mary Treacy

CATALOGING OUTSOURCE SERVICE

Purpose: To allow for the efficient cataloging of records in state agency libraries and alleviate the backlogs of collections cataloging.

Major partners: Minnesota State Law Library
MINITEX
State Agency Libraries

Time period: An initial meeting to discuss a partnership occurred in July, 1995, with implementation of cataloging services over the last year.

Activities: Two catalogers visit requesting state agency libraries to perform cataloging services. One cataloger is on the permanent staff of the Minnesota State Law Library. The other cataloger was hired in early 1996 by MINITEX. A librarian at the state law library makes an initial contact with the requesting library. Contract terms are agreed to and a plan is developed for implementing onsite cataloging for the agency. The catalog librarian at the state law library monitors the work performed by the MINITEX cataloger and also performs cataloging services for outsourcing customers as time permits.

Outcomes: The cataloging collaboration is still being tested and may have long term viability as more state agencies assign funds to address cataloging backlogs. An unintended outcome of the project, but a highly beneficial one, is the opportunity to take some time to train staff of the requesting library to perform cataloging functions. Also, the ability to establish quality cataloging for difficult items creates a future model that state agency staff may refer to after the conclusion of the outsourcing project. One lesson learned from the project is that non-librarians (i.e., funding administrators) may demand much reassurance and productivity measurements to guarantee that investment in such a project will really pay off.

Measuring impact: Work performed is carefully monitored. Another measure will be the number of customers who continue to request the service as backlogs begin to rebuild. Any further outsourcing of functions where human resources are scarce and a library cannot afford to hire a full-time staff member may prove the ultimate success. Sharing of human resources through outsourcing programs is a win-win solution for small libraries.

Resources: Expertise and flexibility of the people involved. MINITEX's efforts to conquer University restraints involved in the formation of new staffing programs. The adaptability and expert cataloging skill of the catalogers involved, their abilities to adapt to new cataloging materials and environments are critical. The customer's partnership in the program to "set up" the work area and to convince their administration for funding is an absolute necessity.

Informing others: The state law library advertises outsourcing to county law libraries and state agency libraries. The library is working on a strategy to introduce its program to law firm libraries.

Inmates are encouraged to communicate with staff at all levels. If your subject is simply a message to a particular staff member, and no answer is required, you may write to anyone. If your message requires an answer, your kite should be directed to the appropriate staff person, who can best answer your message. If you do not know who that person is, ask your cell hall Sergeant or Lieutenant. If you send a kite requiring an answer to the wrong staff member, it will be returned to you with the proper staff member’s name noted in the response section.
