KIND OF WORK
Advanced detailed technical work and/or subject matter expert with independent responsibility to support the development, implementation and ongoing financial success of affordable housing programs.

NATURE AND PURPOSE
Under limited supervision, performs a variety of technical activities associated with housing finance programs including business processes, market analysis, underwriting, property management, loan closings, development and/or program reporting of housing programs. Incumbents have considerable technical program-related contact with housing developers, property managers, lending institutions, and the general public. The incumbent shares expertise with other staff as a technical advisor.

THE HOUSING FINANCE PARA-PROFESSIONAL SENIOR DIFFERS FROM THE HOUSING FINANCE PARA-PROFESSIONAL IN THE FOLLOWING WAYS IN THAT THE SENIOR LEVEL REQUIRES:

- A better grasp of the different and broader aspects of work that extend beyond the confines of the work unit. There is an added complexity and variety of programs and the levels of problems needing resolution. Problems are more specialized and less routine. The incumbent may administer an individual portfolio that provides support work for various work units or teams. Greater flexibility to administer funds is expected.
- A strong understanding of housing and loan programs and policies related to their work unit. Work is typically more focused on a single area of housing, or unique technical experience. Work is independent, requires good negotiation skills, the ability to adjust to different communication styles and problem-solving skills. Timelines are critical to work success. Policy interpretation and implementation is required.
- A detailed knowledge of housing industry business process and developing relationships with developers and customers.
- Greater know how, problem solving and accountability that could focus around delivering board reports, responsibility for small programs, greater problem solving/analysis and external partner relations including giving guidance and interpretation of programs.
- May perform a mix of professional and paraprofessional duties.
