Benny™ card—getting to know you

The state’s Benny™ debit cards have had quite a workout with over 86,000 successful swipes since January. Here’s more you should know about Benny™.

Substantiation requested

The IRS regulates health debit cards, like Benny™. Because they spend pre-tax dollars, the IRS has placed limitations on them that non-health debit cards don’t have.

For example, the IRS does not allow all types of merchants to accept health debit cards. This explains why Benny™ cannot be used at a gas station even though you might find eligible items on its shelf.

In addition, the card reduces, but does not eliminate, the need to substantiate purchases. The IRS requires the retention of detailed receipts of purchases to substantiate pre-tax eligibility. This is the same documentation you submit manually to claim pre-tax dollars.

If you are asked by Eide Bailly to substantiate a debit card purchase you will need to send them the receipt. If you do not have the receipt, or if the purchase is determined to be ineligible, you will be asked to reimburse your account. If the required repayment or documentation is not received, Eide Bailly must follow IRS guidelines and inactivate the card until the matter is resolved.

Transaction declined

When a Benny™ card is declined, over 99 percent of the time it is for one of these reasons:

- The card hasn’t been activated.
- The item isn’t an eligible pre-tax item.
- Insufficient funds and the merchant doesn’t allow partial payment.
- The merchant isn’t authorized to accept health debit cards.
- The merchant incorrectly coded an item.
- The merchant only accepts the Benny™ card in the pharmacy area.
- The cashier incorrectly entered the item at the point of sale.
- Your account hasn’t been properly set up in Eide Bailly’s system.

Get to know Benny™ by calling Eide Bailly at 952.944.6633, toll free 800.300.1672, email benefits@eidebailly.com or www.eidebaillybenefits.com/som.

Is your college student eligible for your insurance?

Student insurance eligibility can be complicated!

First, the easy part. To be an eligible college age dependent, your child must be between the age of 19 and up to 25, unmarried, and enrolled full-time at an accredited high school, college, university or trade school.

The hard part is understanding how starting and stopping school affects insurance eligibility. Students may take one term off per academic year and remain insurance eligible. The key is that they must have full-time attendance on both sides of the missed term and may not have two missed terms in one academic year.

Let’s look at some scenarios regarding our student dependent, Jane:

- Jane successfully completes spring term:
  - If she returns to school on a full-time basis in the fall, she may take the summer off without losing coverage.
  - If Jane does not return to school full-time in the fall, she will lose coverage at the end of summer.

Be your own wellness champion

You can be your own wellness champion by moving more and eating well.

Move more

Moving more is the best thing you can do for your health. The physical activity guidelines for Americans (www.health.gov/paguidelines) encourage a minimum of 150 minutes a week of moderate aerobic activity: take the stairs, bike to work, lift weights, take a yoga class, stretch at your desk, walk during breaks.

Eat well

Eating healthy includes what you eat and your eating environment. Build your diet around fruits, vegetables and whole grain foods, with a lean portion of protein on the side.

Taste and appreciate your food. Eat away from your desk, so you won't be distracted by work and you can socialize or have time to yourself.

Be a champion

It is important to actively pursue good health. Be your own Wellness Champion.

Long term care insurance—who needs it?

Did you ever think about what might happen if, because of illness, injury, or old age, you were unable to care for yourself?

Long term care insurance (LTCI) may be an answer.

LTCI pays for a variety of services not covered by health insurance. Long term care services may include assistance in a home, an adult day care center, an assisted living facility, or a nursing home.

As a state employee, you may purchase long term care through SEGIP and M-PEL, the Minnesota Public Employees Long Term Care Insurance Program. The coverage is offered by CNA Group Long Term Care Insurance.

The coverage is designed to be affordable and features level premiums—the cost is based on your age at enrollment and won’t increase just because you get older. It’s also portable—you can take it with you if you leave state employment. And, if you’re a Minnesota taxpayer, you will be eligible for a Minnesota tax credit up to $100/year. This coverage is also available for spouses and parents of employees. Retirees who were once eligible for state sponsored retiree insurance may also purchase this LTCI.

New employees may enroll without showing evidence of good health if they apply within 35 days of employment. All other employees, parents and spouses must apply with evidence of good health.

For more information, go to www.m-pel.org. It could be the smartest thing you do all day!

Lay-off or retirement: insurance continuation differences

Lay-off and retirement are two different things when it comes to continuing insurance coverage through SEGIP.

Retirement eligible employees who are laid off must decide within 30 days of leaving state employment to either remain on a layoff list and exercise their COBRA option or retire for insurance purposes and have access to the state’s retiree insurance program. Unfortunately, you cannot do both.

An employee who chooses to go on the state’s layoff list and is COBRA qualified does not retire and remains eligible for re-call or re-hire. Recalled or rehired employees are able to pick up insurance benefits once again. Laid off employees may be eligible for an employer insurance contribution and may continue their state insurance coverage through COBRA.

Employees on the layoff list may not retire for insurance purposes at the end of the employer contribution period. This means there is no option to join the retiree insurance plan.

Choosing to retire for insurance purposes means the retiree is eligible to enroll in the state’s retiree health plan after receiving certain layoff benefits including the employer insurance contribution.

In a nutshell—those eligible for retirement must decide if to remain on the layoff recall list and exercise your COBRA options or join the state’s retiree health plan.

To learn more, contact your agency’s Human Resource Office and/or consult your union agreement/plan. More information on continuing your insurance benefits at retirement is available at: www.mmb.state.mn.us/ret below full-time:

- If Jane had completed the previous term, as full time student, then the term in which she drops below full-time may be used as the term off.
- If Jane drops below full-time in fall, after taking the summer off, her coverage will end on the last day of the month in which she dropped below full-time.

Jane graduates:

- Her coverage will end on the last day of the month in which she completed her coursework, NOT the month in which her graduation ceremony is held. SEGIP must be notified of the graduation date.
- If Jane attends graduate school full-time after one term off, her coverage may be reinstated retroactively to graduation upon notification to SEGIP.

COBRA is available to dependents who lose student status, but SEGIP must receive notification within 60 days of loss of student status. By submitting a completed Dependent Change form or Basic Application to SEGIP a qualified dependent will be sent a COBRA application. (These forms are at www.mmb.state.mn.us/adv-health.)
