Overview
The third year of Minnesota's Self Determination Project continued operationalizing Year Three Project frameworks. Education, system redesign and the development of individually controlled resources continued to be the focus of activities and contracts. Regional differences across local project sites provided opportunities for a variety of methodologies to be piloted. Project frameworks were strengthened through collaboration with consumers, families, providers, advocates and community members. Such collaborative efforts assisted to promote self determination principles and to yield measurable outcomes. Year Three also focused on statewide outreach and fine tuning of methodologies to prepare for their use outside Project counties.

Consumer Characteristics
As of January 31, 2000, 756 consumers are Project participants. (Note: Dakota County added 625 people on January 3, 2000.) There are 600 additional consumers who have been positively impacted by self determination philosophy and methodologies, although they have chosen not to be part of a formal project. The number of consumers interested in self determination exceeded Project expectations for the third year of operation. TABLE 1 contains general consumer characteristic information

REPORT QUESTIONS
1. What are the Project's objectives and how has the Project met them in this year?

Goal # 1: Improve management and administration of services

Objective: 1a: Provide local entities responsibility for local resources and implications for their use Progress Status: Medicaid waiver amendments that promote self determination were approved by HCFA in December 1997. Local project sites have been assisting consumers to individualize and direct their own supports through use of the amendment provisions. Technical assistance for implementing creative support options is on-going. A self determination focus group, the Future’s Initiative, has initiated legislation that supports consumer-directed supports.
Objective 1b: Develop service approaches to meet the needs of the geographic area being served Progress Status: Person centered planning facilitators are available to meet individual consumer planning needs. Project sites have developed and implemented education plans specific to identified local issues.

Objective 1c: Increase incentives for people to remain in local communities Progress Status: Medicaid waiver amendments approved by HCFA in December 1997 promote individualized supports building on local community resources. All local project sites are working with providers to support consumer choice to live and work in the community the consumer chooses. A housing workgroup has developed strategies for promoting consumer controlled housing and developed a housing handbook. Efforts to decrease public guardianship have strengthened person centered relationships promoting community connections.

Objective 1d: Support local communities to analyze and expand capacity to meet the needs of local citizens Progress Status: Project counties have assessed their available resources to meet needs. Activities outlined in Objectives 1b and 1c support this objective. Local project sites implemented action plans that are focused on building community supports. Such efforts were based on the generic strengths of the community and building self sufficiencies at the local level. See Table 3 for site specific activities.

Objective 1e: Increase competition among service providers and choice of service providers Progress Status: Project counties have promoted the development of non-traditional support options. The state and local project sites have provided consumer focused training and self determination information to providers and state provider organizations. Provider organizations are developing strategies to focus on customer service. A consumers reports guide that profiles providers has been disseminated.

Goal # 2: Improve service financing and design

Objective 2a: Provide for and support individual resource allocation and choice Progress Status: Each local site has developed methodologies for creating and implementing individual budgets. Computer software is being developed to assist with budget tracking. Employer of record options have been developed and implemented. A resource allocation tool is being piloted.

Objective 2b: Support individuals and families who are controlling their own resources Progress Status: Local project counties are using self advocacy agencies to promote consumer education. Individualized assistance is being provided to each project consumer. A consumer handbook "Finding the Support You Need", which provides a "consumer friendly" format to address employer/employee relationship issues, has been completed and is being utilized. A Blue Earth County publication. "It's My Life" provides a reference for planning and managing supports

Objective 2c: Develop and implement a rational means for resource allocation Progress Status: A resource allocation tool is being piloted. The Project System Redesign Workgroup continues to work on strategies for funding flexibility and addressing access and equitability issues
Objective 2d: Integrate all expenditures into single budgets for flexibility and efficiency Progress Status: Local sites have developed accounting systems to separately track funding streams, although funding for supports appear seamless to the consumer. Consumers know their support costs and are active participants in budget development. The Project System Redesign Workgroup is collecting and analyzing statewide data to develop an action plan for pooling resources. Blue Earth and Olmsted counties terminated their participation in the managed care demonstration project.

Objective 2e: Develop methods and support to transition from obsolete services Progress Status: Stakeholders, focus groups and steering committees representing provider and consumer organizations are working on transition strategies. On-going education and training sessions are key components for promoting consumer-directed supports.

Objective 2f: Develop a basic package of services for all persons with developmental disabilities Progress Status: Objective discontinued and approved as per Don Shumway's November 30, 1998 written correspondence. Project staff, consumers and stakeholders viewed this objective as creating a "one size fits all" service system. A focus on activities that promote a more individualized, seamless and simple process for determining supports was determined to be a greater benefit.

Objective 2g: Support greater innovation and benefit in work and other day programs Progress Status: The Medicaid MR/RC Waiver amendments approved in December 1997 increased flexibility for individualized supports. Work and day providers participated on advisory/steering groups to develop ideas for consumer-directed supports. Contracting processes were changed to increase options for consumers to hire supports from their employer rather than a traditional vocational provider.

Goal # 3: Improve access to services

Objective 3a: Increase equity in access and resources for persons with similar needs
Progress Status: A resource allocation tool is being piloted. The Project system redesign workgroup continues to work on strategies for funding flexibility and addressing access and equitability issues. The Project contracted with the University of Minnesota to provide a formative evaluation. One area of the evaluation will focus on the impact of resource allocation on consumers. This information is available in the evaluation, which is one of the products included with this year's report.

Objective 3b: Increase access to and resources for culturally appropriate services Progress Status: Cultural specific needs are being addressed at the local project sites through individualized person centered planning. A Cultural Competency checklist was developed.

Objective 3c: Provide for local experimentation with expanded eligibility Progress Status: The completion criteria for this objective was changed and approved November 30, 1998 through written correspondence from Don Shumway. Report 1 from the University of Minnesota evaluation found that Minnesota’s Self Determination Project design and methodologies are transferable to additional disability groups.

Objective 3d: Establish an ethical basis for access decisions Progress Status: Objective discontinued and action approved as per Don Shumway’s November 30, 1998 written correspondence. The Project System Redesign Workgroup will continue to address equitability and access issues through Project Year 3.
Goal #4: Improve quality assurance and monitoring

Objective 4a: Design locally based systems of quality assurance with consumer and family input within guidelines established by federal and state governments Progress Status: Project sites have developed and are implementing quality assurance plans. See Table 3 for individual project site activities.

Objective 4b: Make choice and control an integral part of the definition of quality Progress Status: Project quality frameworks and action plans promote consumers defining quality and satisfaction for themselves based on choices made. Each local project site has incorporated choice and control as part of all planning and supports activities. The contracted evaluation provided additional direction in this area.

Objective 4c: Link quality assurance systems with quality improvement support services Progress Status: The second year of state consolidated standards implementation was completed. Local project sites have utilized The Council on Quality and Leadership's personal outcomes from Minnesota's Performance Based Contracting (PBC) Initiative. Local site evaluation protocols include quality improvement. The Region 10 Quality Assurance Initiative has implemented a tool that involves consumer input for defining individual quality as well as the overall service delivery system.

Goal #5: Redesign Roles

Objective 5a: Renegotiate and redesign traditional roles of governmental administrative employees as necessary to achieve project goals Progress Status: Local project sites are providing extensive training, mentoring, and support for changing case management roles. Blue Earth and Olmsted counties have developed a single individual service plan which supports redesign. The state CSMD division revised its mission and vision to focus on self determination as a philosophy for all division work.

Objective 5b: Establish appropriate support systems to assist local entities, consumers, families and service providers to fulfill new roles Progress Status: Education activities at the local project level and input from consumer organizations have yielded direct service round table discussions, the development of support action plans, and implementation of public relation plans. The development of computerized tracking systems, handbooks, and consumer guides have provided support. The frameworks for peer mentoring were developed and are to be implemented in Project Year 3.

Objective 5c: Evaluate project implementation and outcomes to refine project as needed Progress Status: Stakeholders, workgroups, consumer organizations, and contracted evaluation activities provide feedback on regular intervals throughout the Project. The University of Minnesota evaluation completed Report 1 covering the period from February 1997 through August 1998 and Report 2 covering the period August 1998 through August 1999.

TABLE 2 provides a status report on Project tasks and time lines.

TABLE 3 provides information on state and local project site activities supporting the Project goals and objectives.
2. Have any internal problems been encountered during this year that are related to the Project’s design, collaborations, staffing, operations, or other Project factors?

Changes in project support staff at the state and county level moderately impacted Project progress. In Olmsted County, changes in leadership during the three years of the Project hindered implementation of some changes. In September, administration and project links were improved and progress activities were enhanced in the areas of accessing consumer support grant funds, developing checking accounts, improving contracting procedures, and enhancing service coordination options.

State division leadership, division reorganization, and project support staff experienced reassignments in Project Year Three. Delays caused by the transitions are viewed as temporary and affected system redesign work, but not education or the development of individualized budgets.

Two project sites’ self determination activities built on collaboration with Minnesota’s Managed Care Demonstration Project. Delays in that demonstration project caused delays for those local sites. Areas impacted included implementing a funding assessment/allocation tool, developing partnerships with some providers, determining rate capitations, and pooling funding streams. Although delays impacted methodologies used to meet objectives, Self Determination Project objectives were be met within the three year time line. Counties involved in the Managed Care Demonstration Project withdrew from the project in December. Changes realized through participation in Self Determination are unaffected by this decision. Area partnerships remain strong and work on an allocation tool continues.

Dakota County reports difficulty in creating a common understanding about self-determination among case managers. The main source of information about Client Driven Support is still case managers, although Arc and other families have served as a conduit. Because the county could not administratively handle more than 50 new participants at a time, they have not done further communication with 1200+ clients.

3. Are there problems or successes caused by factors external to the Project?

Categorical funding streams, which could be considered external factors both at the state and federal level, create barriers for consumers to purchase supports in a simple manner. For example, funding and rules related to ICFs/MR prevent people who live in them to freely access funding for that service. Gaining legislative support for system redesign is a slow process. Issue prioritizing from a political perspective is an external factor that can impede progress. The Self Determination Project is working with consumers, provider organizations and other stakeholders to plan and support legislative proposals and to educate communities. Project site stakeholder groups are committed to system redesign and are analyzing rules, regulations, and funding streams to determine if they impede self determination, and what changes should be made to support self determination.

Promoting self determination philosophy and methodologies in the public school system has been difficult. Development of single, coordinated service plans continues to be a challenge when many disciplines try to come together to support a person. Local Project sites began joint training sessions with school personnel to develop working relationships and promote self determination. This activity will continue in Project Year Three.

The Region 10 Quality Assurance Initiative tool has created a greater awareness of person centered thinking. Although this initiative is a regional effort, it has positively influenced Project work. Licensed and non-licensed, informal supports are evaluated based on the values of people being supported and what they want.

Provider licensing reform promoted provider involvement in person centered planning and outcome based service provision which supports self determination philosophy. Implementation of the Consumer Support Grant in Olmsted County has been a positive option that has allowed individuals and families to develop individualized budgets and receive monthly cash grants to implement planned supports.

As referenced in question 2 above, Olmsted and Blue Earth Counties experienced delays in activities linked to the managed care demonstration project. These delays created the need to revise materials and work plans.
4. If you are working in collaboration with other organizations, or depend on other organizations or institutions to meet the objectives of this Project, how are those relationships working?

The State and local Project sites partnership has been viewed as a positive relationship. Each local project site has emphasized collaborative efforts with local stakeholders, businesses and community organizations. These efforts continued to support education, information dissemination, and legislation into the second year of the Project.

Dakota County’s collaborative efforts with Southview Bank, where consumer voucher checking accounts have been established, Dakota County Provider Training Networks, Arc Suburban, People's Rights Group, People First Suburban, and Mankato Rehabilitation Center, have developed positive results to support consumers in unique and creative ways.

Olmsted and Blue Earth Counties’ work with People First and the local Arc has created opportunities to reach people outside of the typical social service network. Arc of Blue Earth and Nicollet became sponsors of People First in January of 2000. The building of community connections has yielded employer of record options, self advocacy training and conference planning. Collaborative work with licensed providers has increased an awareness to focus on consumer centered businesses and not “people management”.

In Olmsted County, A new collaborative effort was started in June of 1999 with several community forums on self determination. As a result a new Community Self Determination Workgroup, composed of advocated, family members, people receiving services, government employees, providers, friends, and conservators, was formed to focus on continuing the efforts toward systems change that began with the RWJ grant.

In Blue Earth County, collaboration with a grassroots group interested in arts for people with disabilities has resulted in a long range goal of offering art as a vocational option as creating relationships between artists with and without disabilities. An art show is scheduled for spring 2000.

The seven county metro group that published the Consumer’s Guide to Services functioned smoothly. Local Arcs have been willing to take on an even greater role as an information source for clients.

5. Have there been any key dissemination activities during the past year?

As reflected in the Bibliography, information dissemination has taken several forms. State and local project staff met regularly with community groups, presented at conferences, and provided information to citizen groups, boards and councils. Communications and public relations activities have emphasized understanding and applying self determination principles. Updates on system changes are included in Olmsted County’s quarterly newsletter.

Presentation and meeting experiences this past year have yielded valuable information. Because people have had limited experience with self determination, the Project found that a variety of dissemination methodologies is key to creating an in-depth understanding of role changes, consumer-directed supports, risk and informed decision making.

6. Does the Project have other sources of support?

Local project sites and community project supports have exceeded projected expectations. Consumer self advocacy groups, stakeholders, families, and community organizations have volunteered approximately 3,500 person-hours to support project activities. At the local project sites, consultation time and assistance and financial support from county departments not directly involved with the Project exceeded expectations.

Non-project counties such as Freeborn and Hennepin actively supported self determination by attending self determination meetings, sharing ideas and discussing regional issues.

7. What are your plans for the Project next year?

With the end of the project, CSMD's work will continue to focus on education, system redesign, and promoting consumer choice and control. State and local advisory groups, workgroups and steering committees will assist to develop action plans and methodologies to address challenges. Planning for statewide implementation will be a priority. As part of this planning, target areas include technical assistance, education, incentives to promote self determination, state departments and local coordination and collaboration, quality assurance and system redesign to make self determination methodologies standard practice for Minnesotans with disabilities. Olmsted County will continue to implement individualized budgets, planning focused on individuals, and educating people consumer drive supports. Those efforts will be coordinated through the Community Self Determination workgroup. The Blue Earth County project director has returned to having a caseload, but has been given authority to work on self determination initiatives as applicable and will continue to work with People First, assist with presentations and technical assistance, and represent the county at the system redesign task force. Dakota county will continue to fund the position originally supported by the RWJ grant. The county intends to continue to incorporate and streamline Client Driven Support processes to replace traditional processes, as well as to work with other departments to make this option available to people with other types of support needs.

8. Is there anything else you want to tell the Foundation?

The Project has been demonstrating that self determination methodologies and philosophy make a positive difference in consumers’ lives by creating opportunities for consumers to have the freedom and authority to direct their supports. As consumers accept the benefits and risks for choices made, they become accountable for spending public money in ways that assure health and safety and that are life enhancing. Consumers and their support persons have limited experience with self determination. Changing roles, taking responsibility and approaching service delivery in new ways create challenges. The Project has learned that self determination is not an “all or none" approach, but a transition using informed decision making to live a chosen life.

Minnesota’s Project work has created interest and become the foundation for non-project counties to develop self determination work plans and seek additional information and assistance to promote self determination in their regions. It has created an attitudinal shift that has resulted in across the board commitment to making improvements in the lives of people with disabilities.

The National Self Determination Project has created both an awareness for the need to change service delivery systems and provided a valuable opportunity for states to take system redesign action. As Self Determination Project participants, the Minnesota Department of Human Services, Blue Earth County, Dakota County and Olmsted County have implemented system redesign, education and individualized budget methodologies that would be transferable to all Minnesota counties. Counties plan to continue their efforts even after formal participation in the Project ends. Local advocacy groups are also committed to continuing their work.

Minnesota recommends that the Foundation continue to support communication and sharing information among interested states. Assisting individuals with disabilities from various states to share/communicate with each other would be valuable. The Self Determination Web-site has been helpful.

In Olmsted County, the term “self determination” has received negative feedback. The term seems difficult for many to understand and is perceived to be unattainable by anyone, regardless of abilities. People in the area have begun to use the term “consumer driven support” instead. This term is more readily understood, viewed as being more attainable, and has resulted in everyone being more supportive.

1b. Develop service approaches to meet the needs of the geographic area being served

- Project counties were able to access person centered planning facilitators to meet individual consumer planning needs
- Project counties made consumer education and assistance available to enhance self advocacy and promote self determination
- Service coordinators received training and support to assist consumers to arrange individualized supports and implement plans
- Self determination principles were used to support planning and implement change
- Options to increase provider availability were enhanced by development and approval of MR/RC waiver amendments
- Capacity for person centered planning facilitators expanded
- Self advocacy training sessions are on-going
- Advisory council assisting project
- Case managers meet regularly to discuss self determination and provide support and mentoring
- MR/RC waiver amendments yielded new approaches to support
- Vocational provider and community group to develop additional vocational alternatives
- People First group completed two years of organization, moving to sponsorship under Arc and hiring new advisor
- Additional training sessions held
- On-going consultation with People First organization to develop capacity for individualized supports
- Steering committee meets regularly to provide direction
- Collaboration with Dakota County Provider Training Network and local Arc for person centered planning
- Collaboration with Southview Bank for implementation of consumer voucher accounts
- 70+ person centered planning facilitators available to meet geographic needs
- On-going work with People First sub-committees and Arc
- Provider education and feedback mechanisms implemented
- Building on generic community resources for supports
- Implementing a coordinated community plan for improving recruitment and retention of supports
- Focus groups held with local stakeholder groups to discuss self det. impact (facilitated: Marcie Brost)
- Collaboration with Eastwood Bank to implement voucher checking accounts
- Region 10 Quality Assurance Initiative implemented throughout the county
- Community Self Determination Workgroup started to coordinate on-going implementation of change after RWJU grant expires and work on education and training regarding consumer driven supports
Objectives

1c. Increase incentives for people to remain in local communities

State

- Project counties created and implemented provider education technical assistance to support consumer choice
- Family and community outreach activities built on inclusion and use of generic community resources
- Links developed with other groups working on increasing the availability of support persons to meet consumer needs
- Current housing support funding streams and use of incentives for promoting consumer controlled housing evaluated to determine feasibility for developing legislation to increase flexibility and consumer choice
- Education plan developed and implemented to promote consumer controlled housing and educate support persons on methodologies to support consumer choice

Blue Earth County

- Extensive work with providers to support consumers re: person centered planning, community issues and system changes
- Arc family forums held
- County specific brochure developed
- Work to decrease public guardianship continues
- Developed housing booklet

Dakota County

- Education contracting plan implemented
- Informational brochure developed
- Community meetings held
- Person centered planning implemented
- Working with Arc Suburban on housing strategies
- Guide to Services completed and distributed to counties, libraries and metro area Arcs

Olmsted County

- Education contracting plan implemented
- Efforts to eliminate public guardianship continue. 25 to 35 persons to have private conservatorship in 1999.
- Training for conservators and guardians held.
- Increasing capacity for generic community business and activities to support consumers
- Service delivery model focuses on individual choice
- New education and training contract with Arc in collaboration with Community Self Determination Workgroup

"Id. Support local communities to analyze and expand capacity to meet the needs of local citizens

- Provided technical assistance to analyze resources available and implement MR/RC waiver amendments
- Education and community outreach methodologies that will self-sustain over time were developed

- Education contract plan prioritizes building self sufficiencies in the area of person centered planning and self advocacy
- Parent driven planning group developing "DreamsWork", arts for people as an employment option

- Data collection and evaluation methodology in place to support analysis of met/unmet needs
- Audits developed to identify needs for change, and to support capacity to meet those identified needs
- Regular technical assistance sessions held for providers interested in serving small numbers of people

- Region 10 Quality Initiative implemented
- Arc assisting to assess additional data regarding met and unmet needs
- Individualized consultation support to providers
- Focus groups continue
- Community Self Determination Workgroup developed and working together to change initiatives
Objectives

1e. Increase competition among service providers and choice of service providers

State

- Promoted development of non-traditional providers as an option for consumers
- Supported project counties to provide education to support persons on assessing the "menu"
- Consumer report guide for profiling providers developed
- Stakeholders representing provider interests were encouraged to develop strategies for transitioning from traditional to creative ways of providing service and meeting individuals' needs

Blue Earth County

- Presentations to consumers, providers and community members
- Encouraging self determination provider incentive strategies
- Project ASSURE workgroups addressing transition issues
- Provider profile completed Fall 1998
- Transitioning from traditional case management to service coordination is on-going
- Development of vocational alternatives through Lifeworks involvement
- Developing DreamWorks as a new vocational alternative
- New vocational services in community beginning in 2000; increased choices available.
- Grassroots effort to continue expansion of vocational options continues

Dakota County

- Presentations to consumers, providers and community members
- Building on numerous service choices available and working to increase non-traditional supports
- Collaborated with 7county metro area counties and Arc Suburban to develop a "Guide to Services" that defines common data and is a functional resource for the entire metro area
- Encouraging large providers to consider "franchising" - providing administrative assistance to small providers

Olmsted County

- Presentations to consumers, providers, and community members
- Individualized planning with consumers created provider competition to meet individual consumer needs
- Service coordination options developed
- Revised employment contracting process to increase consumer choice
- ICF/MR downsizing activities on-going
- Presentation to families re: "Finding the Support You Need" included advertising, interviewing, hiring supervision, monitoring and maintaining support workers outside the typical service delivery system
- Discussions with a potential new work support provider were held with the county. Awaiting feedback on needs within the community
- Quality Assurance Initiative beginning to have positive impact on how formal providers offer support, which has increased some providers' responsiveness to individual needs and receptiveness to collaboration
Goal #2: Improve service financing and design
